BONUS BILL IS HEADED FOR SENATE PASSAGE; VETO IS HELD USELESS

Hoover to Get Measure in Day or Two, Say G. O. P. Leaders.

ADVOCATES STRESS ACTION BY SATURDAY

Michigan Senators Deny Additional Financing Claim of Mellon.

(Associated Press.)

The veterans' loan bill last night was headed for precipitate passage in the Senate with the administration forces overwhelmed by a stampede that swept across the Capitol from the House.

With the roar of a powerful Senate majority ringing in their ears after yesterday's debate, Republican leaders sent word to President Hoover that the bill would be before him within a day or two. The leaders added that there were not enough votes in sight to sustain a veto should Mr. Hoover take that action.

Fearful of a pocket veto, Senate advocates of the loan legislation almost upset Senate rules and procedure in a race to get the measure to the White House before Saturday.

On Saturday, the ten-day period before adjournment begins, bills passed within that period may be vetoed by the President without returning them to Congress by simply not signing them.

Fears Are Expressed.

Fears such a course might be taken by the veterans' bill were expressed by Cousens (Republican), Michigan, and Dill (Democrat), Washington. They urged the program advanced by the American Legion of adoption of the House bill without change, although pleas for liberalization of the House measure were voiced.

The measure had barely reached the Senate chamber from the House when Senator Ashurst (Democrat), Arizona, moved to take it up. Blocked by the rules, he entered a motion to discharge the finance committee from its consideration and said he would ask a vote today.

Pleading for regular procedure, Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, and Senators Watson, of Indiana, and Reed, of Pennsylvania, the ranking Republicans, said the committee had a right at least to read the bill and consult with Secretary Mellon regarding it.

Senators Couzens and Vandenberg, of Michigan, then made a detailed analysis of the measure, denying vigorously the contention of Secretary Mellon that it would involve additional financing by the Government, possibly necessitating increased taxes.

Party Leader Predicts.

The upshot of the day's discussion was a prediction last night by Senator Watson, the party leader, that the finance committee would report the House bill to the Senate today probably without change.

Senator Smoot late in the day called upon President Hoover.

He conceded that the measure which permits veterans to borrow up to 50 per cent of the face value of their bonus certificates, would be quickly passed by the Senate and probably would pass over a veto. However, Senator Smoot said he had no idea of the attitude of the President toward the bill.

A band of 27 war veterans reached the Capital yesterday from Seattle, Wash., to add their plea for prompt action by the Senate. They called upon Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington.

Senator Moses (Republican) New Hampshire, another White House caller, also said the bill would be passed by the Senate, and he, too, did not see the necessary one-third votes in sight to sustain a veto.

Acceptance Is Urged.

Meanwhile, other Republican leaders were urging President Hoover to accept the measure.

Senator Reed, an administration spokesman on financial measures, told the Senate he had some amendments in mind which he did not think would weaken the bill any. He denied to Senator Cousens that he had any intention to filibuster against it.

While Senators Copeland, of New York; Barkley, of Kentucky; Smith, of South Carolina, all Democrats, and Norris (Republican), Nebraska advocated a reduction in the 4½ per cent interest rate on the loans provided by the House bill, other advocates pleaded that the measure be passed without change in order to avoid any chances of not getting it to the White House before Saturday.

Hoover In Conference.

President Hoover conferred last night with Senator Reed, Veterans' Administrator Hines, and Undersecretary Mills and Assistant Secretary Lupe, of the Treasury, regarding the measure.

They joined him in the residential portion of the White House. No word of his attitude came from them afterward.

Senator Reed said he still wanted to offer some amendments to the Lady Wilkins Will Go By Submarine to Pole

Explorer's Wife Decides to Accompany Him Under Arctic Ice.

New York, Feb. 17 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The spirit of adventure is catching, and if you are married to an explorer it's pretty certain you will catch it.

Lady Wilkins has caught it from her husband, Sir Hubert Wilkins, and now she has announced she will accompany him on his submarine exploration trip to the North Pole this summer—one of the most adventurous projects ever attempted.

The former United States submarine O-12, which has been rebuilt and turned into the scientific subsea ship Nautilus, contains a cabin which has been specially fitted to accommodate Lady Wilkins, who will be the only women on board and the first woman to go on a lengthy cruise in a submarine.

"I'll be able to live on the submarine much as I would on an ocean liner," she explained when asked whether she had no fears regarding the discomforts of the journey. "Of course, the voyage, if it takes months, may prove tedious, but at any rate I shall be comfortable."

LADY WILKINS.

"And what about the risk of such an adventure?"

"My husband has convinced me that it will be perfectly safe," she replied.

It is Lady Wilkins' mind that even

SUSPECTS RELEASED IN LIMERICK KILLING

Slaying Is Still Mystery; Jury Urges Reforms in Death Reports.

OFFICERS ARE PRAISED

Beulah Limerick's death in the squalid house on Nineteenth street southeast, near First street, last December 31, still remains a mystery.

Despite inquiries by police and the coroner's jury and the District grand jury, there has been no solution, but the police declare the case is "still open."

These facts were revealed yesterday when the grand jury, after three weeks of questioning witnesses, made a report in which four men ordered held by the coroner's jury in connection with the case were released.

At the same time the grand jury made recommendations looking toward preventing a recurrence of events such as transpired in the Limerick case.

The chief difficulty experienced by the homicide squad in finding the murderer of the girl was handicapped by the fact that a hospital interne who answered an emergency call failed to discover that she had been shot. Four hours later the true cause of her death was learned by the undertaker preparing the body for burial.

Recommendations made by the grand jury were: That where internes respond to emergency calls they should notify the police of "suspicious circumstances" and remain at the scene until the coroner or police arrive; that the coroner shall visit the scene of death, which was not attended by a physician, and under no conditions shall the body be removed until this is done; that autopsies be conducted at private undertaking establishments, and that a coroner and two deputy coroners are inadequate for a city of Washington's size.

The four men who were held by the coroner's jury for grand jury action—Patrolman Robert F. Langdon, Vernon Limerick, Richard Reed and William E. Paddy—were brought to the courthouse early yesterday morn-

WAGNER ASKS PARTY TO SPONSOR REPEAL

Democrat Declares Question Is Unavoidable and Needs Courageous Treatment.

FIGHTS SALOON'S RETURN

(Associated Press.)

Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, yesterday advised his colleagues in the Senate that the Democratic party should sponsor outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment in 1932, with concurrent action by the States to prevent return of the saloon.

The New Yorker urged this step as a logical outcome of the Wickersham report, which he characterized as "the beginning of the end" of prohibition.

In a lengthy prepared address, Senator Wagner contended members of the Law Enforcement Commission would logically have recommended repeal but were "held back by fear of the saloon." He asserted that a program of repeal and concurrent action by the States to insure against the saloon would meet every ultimate requirement laid down by the commission.

Senator Wagner was interrupted by Senator Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, who asked if he would insist upon the Democratic party's adopting such course in 1932.

"That is my advice to it," Senator Wagner replied.

"Does the senator intend that the Democratic party must make it the paramount issue in 1932?" persisted Senator Caraway.

The New Yorker replied: "No, but I hope it will meet the issue."

Southern senators embroiled the chamber in a heated dispute for more than an hour Monday over prohibition, with the drys serving notice that they would bitterly oppose a wet plank in the 1932 Democratic platform.

In his address yesterday Senator Wagner contended repeal of the eighteenth amendment was "inevitable." He estimated 11,250,000 votes were cast in the 1930 elections for candidates committed to repeal.

"I have listened with patience to the repeated assertions from this

51 CITIES BUY MILK CHEAPER THAN CAPITAL

Nation's Average Cost 13.3 Cents Against 15 Here, Senators Learn.

PRICE FIXING DENIED BY HEADS OF DAIRIES

But New York Association Sets Charge at Meetings, Official Asserts.

Milk prices in Washington are higher than the average retail price in the 51 cities throughout the country included in the price index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Ethelbert Stewart, chief of the bureau, told the Senate food price investigating committee at a public hearing yesterday.

The average milk price here in January, 1931, was 15 cents a quart as compared with an average for the 51 cities of 13.3 cents a quart, Mr. Stewart said.

Charleston, S. C., reported the highest price, 19 cents a quart, and Minneapolis the lowest, 10 cents, Mr. Stewart said. He quoted the prices in each of the cities.

"There are not many higher than Washington, are there?" asked Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the special investigating committee.

"No," replied Mr. Stewart, "it is pretty high here."

The average price of milk in January, 1929, was 14.3 cents a quart and it has since declined to 13.3 cents, but the price in Washington was 15 cents in January, 1929, 14.3 cents from February to December, inclusive, that year, increasing to 15 cents in January, 1930, and has been steady at that price since, Mr. Stewart said.

Mr. Stewart refused to be drawn into a discussion of the reasons why retail milk prices have not followed the general average downward trend of prices paid milk producers. A picturesque figure, with thinning white hair, bushy white eyebrows and a big white mustache, the statistics chief declared:

"Senator, we are a statistical bureau. It is not our job to tell why these things are. Else why this committee?"

Senator Capper and members of the committee joined in the outburst of laughter that followed, and Mr. Stewart seemed somewhat surprised and not at all as though he had said something smart.

Disparity Often Noticed.

He agreed with Senator Capper that although retail prices follow wholesale prices there is a wide disparity, or, as he put it, "Like Peter, they are far off."

Milk and bread, Senator Capper said, have not followed the general downward trend of other foodstuff prices, and Mr. Stewart agreed that that was so.

Fred H. Sexauer, president of the Dairymen's Cooperative Association of New York, with about 43,000 members, and F. D. Walmsley, president of the International Association of Milk Dealers and president of the Borden Farm Products Co. of Illinois, followed Mr. Stewart before the committee.

Both of these witnesses disagreed with the tenor of Mr. Stewart's figures, and efforts to get either to admit possibility of price fixing, maintenance of high retail prices through big combinations or other things which might be criticized met with failure.

Admits Meeting Sets Prices.

Mr. Sexauer declared that prices at which the milk of his members was sold were fixed at a monthly meeting of the association directors and by

ALL PROPERTY OF PITTS FACES SEIZURE BY U. S.

Proceedings Are Begun as Surprise in Five States, District.

$2,020,453 SOUGHT IN CLAIM FOR TAXES

Internal Revenue Bureau Also Names Wife of Sentenced Broker.

All available property of Mr. and Mrs. G. Bryan Pitts in the District of Columbia and five States was the object of seizure proceedings launched in a surprising maneuver yesterday by the Internal Revenue Bureau to insure collection of $2,020,453.02 it claims due from the couple in unpaid income taxes.

The action follows closely court proceedings here against the F. H. Smith Co., well known investment house, which Pitts headed as chairman of its board, and his present incarceration in the District Jail upon recent conviction here on charges of conspiring to embezzle funds of the firm while acting as an official. He has appealed from his fourteen-year jail sentence. His wife, Mrs. Gladys T. Pitts, is residing in a fashionable hotel here.

The bureau made public the move in the following statement, declining further to discuss the case:

Statement Is Published.

"By virtue of liens filed in the District of Columbia, Maryland, Wisconsin, New York, Delaware and Florida, which are public records, the Bureau of Internal Revenue, acting through the collectors in the States named, took steps to collect income taxes for the years 1926, 1927, 1928, 1930 and 1931 from G. Bryan Pitts and Gladys T. Pitts, his wife.

"The liens filed cover taxes for the years 1926 to 1928, aggregating the sum of $1,373,600.82, while the liens for the current years of 1930 and 1931 amount to a total of $646,852.20.

"Upon the filing of liens or the issuance of warrants, notices of liens or levies under the warrants may be served against any individual or corporation supposed to have any assets of a taxpayer.

"Action on the current years 1930 and 1931 was taken under section 147 of the internal revenue act of 1928."

Owner of Country Place.

Under this section the Internal Revenue Commissioner, if finding that a taxpayer designs "quickly to depart from the United States or to remove his property therefrom or to conceal his property in any way to hinder the collection of taxes," shall declare the taxable period for the taxpayer immediately terminated and shall proceed against him for the collection of the taxes claimed.

The Internal Revenue Bureau would not divulge the specific property sought. Pitts testified during his recent trial here that he was owner of a "country place" in Montgomery County, Md. Agents yesterday at once filed a lien on the couple's palatial $500,000 estate, Al Lado Del Mar, in Palm Beach, Fla. The Department of Justice had charged that this home had been bought in part with embezzled money from the firm he headed.

The bureau would not disclose when it started its investigation, but during Pitts' recent trial it had its agents in court making notes and following closely every development. During this trial the Department of Justice presented evidence intended to show that Pitts' income taxes were not fully commensurate with his various bank accounts.

Luxuries Are Reviewed.

Pitts, during the trial, told of the many thousands of dollars he had

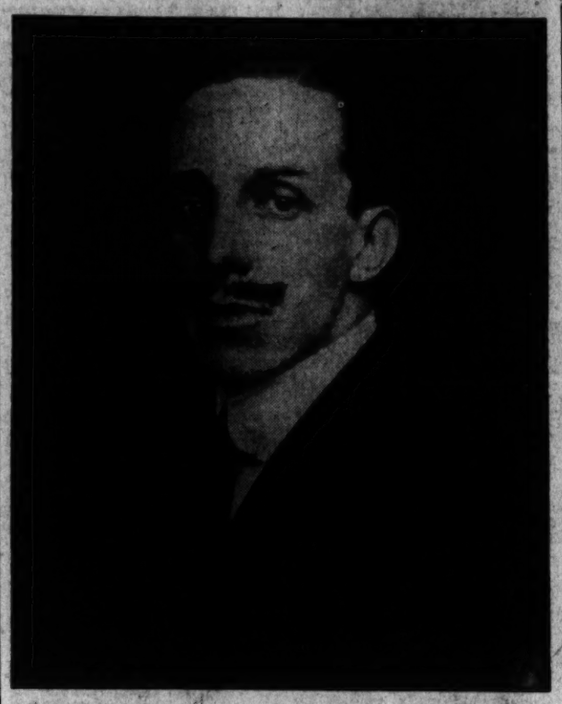
DICTATORSHIP, STRIKE HOVER OVER SPAIN AS GUNS MENACE MADRID



KING ALFONSO.

King Frantically Seeking Strong Man to Form Coalition.

THREAT OF REPUBLIC LOOMS IN OUTBURSTS

Students Parade Streets in Defiance of Monarchy; Queen Is Cheered.

Madrid, Wednesday, Feb. 18 (A.P.). Dr. Julio Wais, finance minister in the government of former Premier Damaso Berenguer, announced early this morning that a new coalition monarchist government would be formed later today and would be sworn in this afternoon.

Dr. Wais' announcement followed an early morning interview with King Alfonso after representatives of Conservative Monarchist parties had conferred with Gen. Berenguer for four hours in the ministry of war last night and agreed to support the king.

It was indicated that Gen. Berenguer might have charge of the new line-up, becoming premier again in less than a week after his resignation.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Madrid (by Telephone to London), Feb. 17 (A.P.).—King Alfonso made a desperate last-minute effort tonight to stave off a new military dictatorship, which appeared likely earlier today when high army officers expressed dissatisfaction with political chaos and the long guns of two artillery units were leveled upon the capital.

The king is opposed to a dictatorship, and when Monarchist leaders conferred tonight in the ministry of war under former Premier Damaso Berenguer it was seen as a move by Alfonso to establish a coalition government with strong Monarchist elements.

Failing that, it is understood, he will try for a cabinet of the extreme right. His gesture toward the left failed when Jose Antonio Sanchez Guerra announced today he was unable to form a government and Melquiades Alvarez, chief of the Reformists, refused even to try.

King Gropes for Leader.

It was reported that Juan de la Cierva, aged statesman who has served in many governments since the turn of the century, would be the new premier. He is the father of another Juan de la Cierva, inventor of the autogyro, who is known in the United States.

Some believed that Gen. Berenguer might be called to head this Monarchist line-up, while the Count of Romanones and Garcia Prieto were mentioned for ministerial posts.

In the meantime the threat of a new dictatorship, coupled with the menace of a general strike, stirred the entire realm, and in the background lurked the ever-possible eventuality of a republican movement.

Labor and Socialist leaders were reported to have planned a general strike in protest against the monarchy, intending it to tie up all commercial and industrial activities. They also were said to be framing a demand for immediate release of all those arrested as the result of two abortive revolts in December.

Censorship Clamped On.

Constitutional guarantees were suspended again today and censorship was clamped on, just as before these rights were restored February 3. They were restored for the parliamentary elections, originally planned for March 1 and March 15, and when the elections were suspended as the result of current events the former schedule went into effect automatically.

A demonstration in favor of the monarchy was seen tonight with the arrival of Queen Victoria, who has been in London visiting her mother. A great crowd visited the queen at the station, shouting "Viva la Reina," and such a demonstration was set up before the palace when she arrived that both she and the king were

POSTAL RATE BOOST IS URGED BY HOOVER

Increased Revenues Called Just in View of Big Branch Deficit.

COMMITTEE TO BE ASKED

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

With the Postoffice Department deficit mounting steadily—the net deficit promises to be nearly $100,000,000 this year—President Hoover believes that it is only just that postal revenues should be increased.

In other words, the President feels that the price of certain services should be increased. The problem of just which services should be made more costly, however, will be passed on to Congress.

At his press conference yesterday Prseident Hoover announced that he soon would ask Congress to appoint a special committee to make a study of the problem and investigate methods for increasing postal revenues.

The President attributed the deficit largely to the increased pay and the reduced working hours of the postal employes. Only yesterday he signed a bill providing for a 44-hour week for postal employes.

There has been considerable confusion about the Postoffice Department deficit. The Treasury Department said it was $91,000,000 last year, the General Accounting Office said it was $98,000,000 and the Postoffice Department said it was $58,000,000.

The Postoffice figures differ so greatly from the other two because the Treasury and Accounting Office are referring to the gross deficit—that is, the difference between the actual outgo and the actual income.

The Treasury and the Accounting Office include in the deficit the money which the Postoffice Department loses through franked mail—that is, mail sent out free by Government departments and certain individuals—and they also include the virtual subsidies that the department puts out for the air-mail service and the carrying of the mails in American vessels. The air mail does not pay for itself, while it costs more to trans-

SENATE DEFEATS FILIBUSTER EFFORT

Black's Speech Is Stopped and Two Appropriation Measures Passed.

DISTRICT BILL APPROVED

(Associated Press.)

The Senate wore down another one-man filibuster last night and then passed two of the appropriation measures standing in the way of the March 4 adjournment.

Senate work was completed on the billion-dollar independent offices appropriation measure. The supply bill carrying funds for the District of Columbia was approved and sent to conference with the House.

Action was reached by the Senate in a night session after Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, sought unsuccessfully to speak against time in an effort to block the vital supply measures pending an agreement between the Senate and House on the long-disputed Muscle Shoals power and nitrate bill.

Senator Black, however, lost the floor after almost three hours of continuous talking when Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, the President pro tem, ruled him out of order after a quorum call.

Senator Moses took advantage of the Senate rules limiting senators to two speeches daily on the same subject to get Senator Black off his feet. Almost exhausted, Senator Black yielded protestingly and threatened a

Ritchie Boom Is Aided By Maryland Delegate

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie was called upon to become a candidate for President of the United States in a joint resolution introduced in the House of Delegates here tonight by a Baltimore City representative. The resolution declared:

"The present system of national prohibition constitutes a clear departure from the fundamental principles of government as enunciated by the Maryland executive."

Senate Votes to Reinstate Two Expelled Midshipmen

Adopts Resolution to Add Men Dismissed for Smuggling Girls Into Annapolis Mess Hall to 1934 Class; Now Goes to House.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate last night adopted a resolution to direct the reinstatement of two midshipmen in the Naval Academy who were dismissed for escorting two girl companions dressed in men's clothing into the academy mess hall.

The midshipmen are Lawrence L. Myatt, of Massachusetts, and Miller S. Burgin, of Florida. Senators Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, and Fletcher (Democrat), Florida, sponsored the resolution.

The measure, yet to pass the House, would reinstate the midshipmen to the class graduating in 1934. They were members of the 1932 class and would suffer two years' suspension.

They were dismissed July 26, 1930. The incident leading up to the dismissal occurred July 13.

Secretary Adams is opposed to the bill, holding the students "deliberately and apparently with the intention of flouting the authorities took the girls to the mess hall during supper and sat beside them at the table." The girls were dressed in midshipmen's uniforms.

He contended the punishment was "just and necessary for the preservation of the high standard of morals and discipline" at the academy.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The nervous exhaustion of the Congress always becomes apparent near the end of a short session. It is felt that something or perhaps many things must be done to establish a political record.

If the country itself is in an uncertain condition, business distracted, people suffering reverses, these are reflected in the official attitude at Washington.

In the pressure and confusion the normal relation of things becomes obscured.

At the same time the House of Representatives is besought to abolish such an abuse as it conceives to be revealed by a committee expenditure of 50 cents for a corkscrew, it passes by a tremendous majority a bill to pay to the veterans a sum estimated from half a billion to a billion dollars.

No one questions the national duty to help distressed veterans. But this bill gives them access to the Treasury without regard to their distress. The business reaction which it will cause is likely to harm more veterans than are helped. The country will have to make the best it can of the outcome which is now uncertain. It is part of the war. The cost of that conflict will go on for generations.

'Princess Alice' Reappears On Silver Wedding Stage

Longworths Revive Scenes From 1906 Ceremony at Anniversary Party.

(Associated Press.)

The "Princess Alice" of 25 years ago, pompadour and all, stepped yesterday from her page one frame of all February 17, 1906, newspapers, in a silver wedding anniversary.

"Just like the picture of Alice Roosevelt" was the costume of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. And "costumes of 1906" were required of all guests invited to dinner last night at the Longworth home on Massachusetts avenue, or who were to "drop in afterward" to celebrate again a certain celebrated White House wedding with "Nick and Alice."

For those who hadn't saved finery, Mrs. Longworth laughingly decreed "shirtwaists, skirts and sailor hats."

Instead of her own elaborate wedding gown she chose to wear a rich

Mrs. Longworth Wears Old Pompadour Again

(Associated Press.)

All day long on her silver wedding anniversary, Alice Roosevelt Longworth wore her 1906 pompadour—but she kept it under a hat.

The pompadour, in training for last night's costume party, visited the House of Representatives and even showed itself in the Speaker's private office. It created much amusement there.

Several close friends she chanced to meet got surreptitious free showing, and a fit of merriment followed Mrs. Longworth along Capitol corridors.

forced to greet the throng from a balcony.

Later tonight several hundred demonstrators, mostly students, paraded downtown avenue shouting:

"Death to the king! Long live the republic!"

The police broke them up, making some arrests, but not before the manifestants had seized and burned a passing automobile. This was because the occupants of the car had shouted for the king.

"PRINCESS ALICE" HONORS WEDDING

gown of old gold satin which was part of her trousseau. And instead of her "enveloping wedding veil of misty tulle held by a coronet of orange blossoms," she topped her 1906 pompadour with a contemporary diamond tiara, and bolstered it at the back with a 1906 barette.

But she wore the jewels of her wedding day—the necklace of diamonds that was the gift of the groom; the diamond brooch, sapphire-centered, which was the "something blue," and the rare bracelet that was a wedding gift from the Emperor of Germany.

Of those who were actors in that elaborate midday White House pageant of 25 years ago, few were in Washington yesterday to join with the Longworths in their fun. But among the thousand guests present at that time, there were scores to say to the still slim and youthfully vivacious Alice-of-the-pompadour, "I remember what a picture you made, coming down the main staircase with your father."

No maid-of-honor nor bridesmaids shared the spotlight with her in that formal wedding of the Roosevelt administration. She was accompanied only by her father, the President, who made no audible answer to the question of who was giving her away, but placed her hand in that of her husband. The groom, however, had best man and eight ushers.

Noon Scene Described.

Of that noon scene, where bride and groom stood between the Roosevelt clan to the left of the platform, the Longworth clan to the right, a Washington newspaper related:

"All the shades were drawn down to exclude the daylight, and from hundreds of softly-shaded electric lamps a perfect light was diffused through the room."

Nicholas Longworth now has in his own office on the House side of the Capitol the enormous electric crystal chandelier under which he and Alice Roosevelt stood to be married.

Nonchalant Wedding Pair.

They were a nonchalant wedding pair. Of Longworth it was related he came early, and calmly took a look at the floral decorations, giving prompt guests a chance to observe his wedding attire of Prince Albert frock coat, white tuck vest, pearl gray tie, moonstone scarf pin, boutonniere of a single white blossom, pearl-tint gloves, and the guests addressed him as "Nick." It was also said:

"The bride's well-known vivacity did not desert her during the reception."

Wedding gifts rich as any showered upon a bona fide princess were received, and still are cherished by Mrs. Nicholas Longworth.

Wears Gift of Cuba.

She wears the necklace of 63 matched pearls with diamond clasp given her by the Republic of Cuba. The estimate placed on them by newspapers of 1906 was $25,000.

The Empress Dowager of China sent her a dower chest filled with silks, embroideries and ivory carvings. Rolls of rare fabrics dating far back into Chinese history, in designs which can not be duplicated, still lie in that chest.

"There was a tapestry from the President of France, embroideries and two chased silver vases from the Emperor of Japan, a diamond and pearl pendant from the Emperor of Austria, a Mosaic table from the King of Italy, a Mosaic of a Vatican painting from the Pope, antique jewelry from the King of Spain.

Beginning of Rare Gifts.

And that was but the beginning to a thousand rare and costly wedding gifts. Some of them make beautiful the Longworth home here. Others embellish their home in Cincinnati. Some, like that $15,000 team of horses from the citizens of Cincinnati, have passed quietly away.

All of which provided plenty of subject matter for conversation last night when Little Paulina, 6 years old on Valentine's Day, had a chance to see how people dressed when her mother and father were married.

Twenty-five years ago, the headline was "Happy Is the Bride the Sun Shines On," but yesterday it rained.

Move to Abolish Dry Officers Made

House of West Virginia Passes Two Bills as Economy Act.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Two bills proposing abolition of the State prohibition department as an economy measure were passed by the House of Delegates today.

One bill, which would transfer certain licensing duties to the State tax commissioner, was passed, 50 to 42.

The other, to abolish the State department and thus place enforcement of the State prohibition law in the hands of State, county and municipal police authorities, also was passed, 50 to 42. The bills were sent to the Senate, which previously had adopted a resolution placing itself on record as opposed to the abolition of the prohibition department.

Senator Blease Sets Precedent in Leaving

Senator Blease (Democrat), South Carolina), crusader against embassy liquors, as well as what he termed the "hypocrisy" of prohibition, has set a precedent. It is simply to ignore the fact that Congress does not adjourn until March 4, close up his office and return to his home.

Senator Blease, who was defeated for reelection last November, left without ceremony. He tacked a notice on his door to the effect that mail and telegrams should be sent to the Senate postoffice. There he left word for them to be forwarded to his home in Columbia, S. C.

NEW RULING STRIKES AT 'B' TAGS' ABUSE

Parking Double Privilege Is Taken From Passenger Automobiles.

MORE ZONES RESTRICTED

A new definition of "commercial vehicle" intended to eliminate abuse of the double parking privilege was adopted yesterday along with several other amendments to the District Traffic Code upon the recommendation of Director William H. Harland.

Owners of passenger automobiles, it was explained, have obtained "B" tags from the License Bureau so that they might be able to park double for a limited period under existing regulations. The "B" tags are intended for distribution to motor vehicles engaged in commercial transportation.

The new order defines the "commercial vehicle" as "motor vehicles designed and regularly used for carrying freight or merchandise."

Massachusetts avenue was extended as a boulevard highway from Stanton Park to Nineteenth street northeast, while Michigan avenue was designated an an arterial highway, with the provision that speed thereon might be increased to 30 miles an hour.

Several parking stands on Q street were eliminated because of the heavy congestion on the narrow thoroughfare. No parking will now be permitted on the south side from 8 to 9:15 a. m. from Massachusetts avenue to Thirty-fifth street; from Massachusetts avenue to Wisconsin avenue on the north side at any time, and from Wisconsin avenue to Thirty-fifth street, on north side, from 4 to 6 p. m.

Parking will no longer be permitted on the east side of Thornton place, between Wyoming avenue and Kalorama road, at any time. It was also abolished on the south side of Stanton Square, from Fourth to Sixth streets. This restriction was requested by the Stanton Park Citizens Association to better traffic conditions in the vicinity of Peabody School.

Parking on the north side of R street, from Second to Eckington place, was likewise eliminated in order to improve traffic conditions.

U. S. FAST SLIPPING IN GOLD PRODUCTION

Canada Threatening to Move Into Second Place; Africa Is First.

MINT DIRECTOR REPORTS

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The United States is slipping from its position as the second largest gold producing region in the world.

Canada threatens to pass us, Robert J. Grant, director of the United States mint, told the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers today in a written report read by John W. Finch.

For 40 years prior to 1906, Grant said, this country held first place as producer of the world's gold, but between 1906 and 1910 we were relegated to second place due to gold development in the Transvaal, and Africa has led ever since with the United States second.

"Final figures of 1930," Mr. Grant said, "may place Canada second among the gold producers of the world. Final figures for the United States for 1929 and 1930 are 2,056,629 and 2,232,593 ounces, respectively, but are subject to some revision upward when all sources have been heard from.

"Output from Arizona, Utah, Nevada and Montana was in the aggregate about 150,000 ounces less in 1930 than in 1929, due to curtailment at the larger copper properties, and at lead-silver mines in Utah to a less extent.

"Totals for the country as a whole were maintained, however, because of increases of roughly 20,000 ounces in Alaska, 30,000 ounces in California and nearly 90,000 ounces from the Homestake Mine in South Dakota.

"In Canada a rather sharp rise started in 1912, following the extensive developments at Kirkland Lake, continuing more or less until 1927, and another may be noted in 1921-1922. In general, however, the increasing importance of Canada as a gold producer in recent years has been due chiefly to steady though rapid decrease of output from a few large properties, notably those of Ontario. It seems reasonable to expect continued increase from these sources, as well as from new deposits, for some years."

Veteran of Union Army Dies at Maryland Home

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 17.—Joseph Retzer, 91, who served in the Union Army in the Civil War in Company E, Eighty-fourth Pennsylvania Infantry, died today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Holt, Sunny Side, near Mount Savage.

The survivors are his widow, one son, Harry, and three daughters, Mrs. W. R. Bennett, Miss Elizabeth Retzer and Mrs. Holt. Two sisters live in Germany.

ALEXANDRIA TO LAY POSTOFFICE STONE

Masons to Sponsor Event, Using Trowel Employed on Capitol Corner Rock.

SHOWALTER TO SPEAK

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Dr. A. M. Showalter, of Christiansburg, Va., newly elected grand master of Masons in Virginia, yesterday notified C. Page Waller, secretary of Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons, and Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Chamber of Commerce, of his acceptance of the invitation to be the speaker at the laying of the corner stone of the new postoffice building February 23. This will be his first official act in connection with his work as grand master.

The laying of the corner stone is under the supervision of Alexandria-Washington Lodge, No. 22, A. F. and A. M., of which George Washington was master, and the silver trowel used in connection with the laying of the corner stone of the United States Capitol will be used on this occasion by Worshipful Master E. J. Skidmore.

As there will be no public celebration of the birthday of Gen. Washington this year, this ceremony is expected to be the event of the day and attended by the public generally; also the delegates to the annual meeting of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Association convening here on that day will be present and witness the using of the highly treasured silver trowel, the property of Alexandria-Washington Lodge.

The new postoffice building is located on the southeast corner of Prince and Washington streets, facing on Washington, the route of the Mount Vernon boulevard, and running through to St. Asaph street on Prince.

Mrs. Agnes Bratton Hough, 80 years old, widow of Thomas E. Hough, died yesterday at her home, 147 Grove avenue, Mount Ida. She is survived by one son and one daughter. The funeral will be held on Thursday at Hillsboro, Va.

The State Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries at a meeting in Roanoke yesterday decided to meet in Alexandria in April next to hold a public hearing for the purpose of considering the protest raised by the commercial fishermen of Alexandria, Fairfax, Arlington and Prince William Counties, regarding the present law restricting the use of the net and seine. Judge William S. Snow, of this city, who is a member of the commission, was present at the Roanoke meeting.

The Cameron Club resumed its weekly radio talks last night over Station WJSV, when a member of the club, Mrs. Eleanor Selden Washington Howard, the last child of the Washington family born at Mount Vernon, gave a talk on George Washington, her great-great-uncle. Ralph Burton, Washington attorney, also spoke on the Root Protocol for the club.

The Xaverian Brothers School at 306 North Washington street was closed yesterday to allow repairs to a chimney following a fire on Monday evening, but will be opened for classes today. The blaze was extinguished with chemicals and the damage was slight.

Police Capt. W. W. Campbell yesterday instructed members of the police force to start an intensive campaign against all persons in the city who have failed to secure a city automobile license and also all business and professional men who have not taken out their city licenses.

Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the chamber of commerce, yesterday received notice from Rear Admiral W. D. Leahy, of the Navy Department, that the Government has decided to continue the operation of the Alexandria Naval Torpedo Station in this city and therefore will not permit its lease for commercial purposes, which it has been stated would be allowed.

A committee from the chamber of commerce, with William B. McGroarty as chairman, is seeking to have a conference with Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital, in an effort to arrange for the relocation of the electric railway line between this city and Washington.

Nine Deaths Laid To Poison Alcohol

One Woman Is Victim and Several Other Persons Reported Ill.

Chestertown, Md., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Nine Negroes, one a woman, are dead here and several others are reported to be in a dangerous condition as the result of drinking what the coroner said was poison alcohol.

Several of the victims attended a party Sunday night at the home of one of the men who died, Jake Smith, but the coroner, Dr. Harry L. Dodd, said his information was that not all of those affected were present.

Jake Smith, host at the fatal party, was 60. Others who died were Samuel Shepperd, 60, George Bowen, 58, Lena Gould, 50; Arbula Fletcher, 35; Herbert Wells, 36, and John Lomax, 40, and two as yet unidentified.

Man, Afire, Saves Life By Leap Into Potomac

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Feb. 17.—William Myers, quarry workman, saved himself from burning to death here today by jumping into the Potomac River.

With a companion, James Harding, he had worked all night repairing a motorboat. His clothes became saturated with gasoline and ignited when he lay down later to sleep beside an open fire. He awoke to find his clothes burning and immediately jumped into the river. He is in Charles Town Hospital, critically burned.

MANY JOBS AHEAD ON HIGHWAY WORK

City Opens Bids on Spring Construction Involving $4,128,000.

WILL EMPLOY 4,000 MEN

With the opening of bids yesterday and Monday by Roland M. Brennan, chief clerk of the District engineering department, the spring construction and maintenance program of the highway department is getting under way. The entire program, as previously announced by Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, chief engineer, will provide employment for approximately 4,000 men and will provide for expenditures totaling $4,128,000, the largest portion of which will be made available in the pending District appropriation bill.

McQuire & Rolfe, Inc., of Washington, was low bidder yesterday afternoon on two projects, namely, the construction of concrete alleys and sidewalks. The lowest of four estimates on the first job was $105,987.50, while the low bid on the second project, on which there were four estimates, was $69,465. The same firm was low bidder on Monday on concrete curbs and gutters and asphalt surfaces. The estimate was $115,719.50.

The Union Paving Co., of Philadelphia, with a bid of $188,627.50, was low bidder of seven on resurfacing by replacement. Warren F. Brenzier Co. submitted the lowest estimate on concrete roadways with a bid of $157,766.55.

The spring construction program of the highway department includes expenditures of $960,000 and the employment of 335 men for bridge work. These jobs cover the Klingle Valley Bridge, the Monroe Street Bridge widening (now being done), the New York Avenue Bridge and the Fern Street underpass.

New construction work in the surface division of the highway department will cost $3,171,000 and will give employment to 2,485 men. Maintenance and repairs will take $957,000 and will give work to 1,025.

ARABIAN AND JEWISH PEACE HOPE WANES

MacDonald's Letter Rapped as Ruining Possibility of Understanding.

STAND IS UNDER ATTACK

Jerusalem, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The president of the Arab Executive, in a letter addressed to the British high commissioner in Palestine today, says that Ramsay MacDonald's recent letter to Chaim Weizmann "interpreting" the Passfield white paper has rendered any understanding between Arabs and Jews impossible.

In the letter the political and spiritual head of the Arabs writes that I want to assure your excellency that MacDonald's letter has ruined hope of a policy of cooperation between Arabs and Jews, if there existed such a hope, and has rendered possibility of understanding between the two parties absolutely impossible."

"MacDonald's letter not only interprets matters alleged to be ambiguous," he letter continues, "but constitutes a new policy of his majesty's government, completely inconsistent with the white paper. I observe his majesty's government is subjected continually to unjustified vacillation, and it appears that MacDonald has not attached more value to the white paper than to a scrap of paper."

BILLS DISAPPROVED BY COMMISSIONERS

Action Affecting Tax and Engineers in District Is Frowned Upon.

REPORTS SENT FORWARD

The District Commissioners yesterday voiced disapproval of two pending District bills in reports forwarded to both District congressional committees. One of the measures, introduced by Senator Brookhart, provided for a change in the manner of assessing residential property; while the other, proposed by Representative Arentz, was intended to create a registration board for professional engineers and land surveyors in the District.

Opposition to the Brookhart bill was based on three reasons: first, that it is unworkable; second, that it is inequitable; and third, that it would be double taxation.

The measure would divide the assessment against real property purchased on an installment basis between purchaser and the mortgagee in accordance with the amount of money paid at the beginning of the taxable year.

Should the bill become a law, the Commissioners stated, it would "involve an accurate examination of all future trusts or mortgages and would require the assessor's office to have a division for title examinations that would be entirely up to date."

Declaring that properties of the same kind do not sell for the same money, "this inequality being adjusted at the present time by an equalization of assessments," the commissioners said: "In a row of similar dwellings each owner would be paying different taxes although enjoying the same privilege."

Explaining the third objection, they said: "Double taxation would arise from the fact that the holder of the mortgage would be paying a tax on that mortgage in connection with the real estate assessment and would also be paying a tax on the mortgage under the personal property tax."

Objection to the bill calling for registration of all engineers was based chiefly on the fact that "it would be necessary to have registered engineers performing many subordinate operations which can now be very well carried on by experienced employes of lesser qualifications."

A great proportion of all engineers and surveyors in the District are employed either by the Federal or the District government, it was explained, and in both instances the Civil Service Commission maintains a high standard definition of an engineer.

WOOD MARKET DATA ASSEMBLED AT V.P.I.

Seven Counties Visited In Gathering Information for Bulletin.

BETTER PRICES SOUGHT

Blacksburg, Va., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—definite information as to available markets for the products of farm wood lots has been assembled by Dr. J. Elton Lodewick, professor of wood technology at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, for use in a new bulletin to be issued at an early date by the Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station here.

Dr. Lodewick visited seven representative counties in various parts of Virginia in gathering material for the bulletin, "Marketing Woodland Products in Virginia."

The bulletin will give details of specifications for cash timber, the cost of harvesting it, including transportation charges and price trends for the past ten years. The price trends will be shown in a series of graphs.

Better Prices Sought.

Recommendations which the station believes will enable the farmer to obtain better prices for his products will be printed. Methods of timber measurement will be included and a sample timber contract will appear in the bulletin.

One section will be devoted to the various methods used in determining the value of timber.

Specifications, harvesting costs, transportation costs, stumpage values, market channels and outlets are given in detail for sawlogs, veneer logs, poles, posts, crossties, lumber, mine timbers, pulpwood, excelsior wood, stave wood, extract wood, tanbark, handle wood and insulator pin stock.

Importance of Production.

The importance of timber production in Virginia is pointed out through the fact that almost two-thirds of the land area now supports forest growth of some type and produces an annual revenue estimated at $50,000,000.

Since more than 50 per cent of the present forest land is within the boundaries of units designated and operated as farms, the marketing of the products from these units is an important phase of the farm problem. The small quantities in which the farm produced timber products are usually marketed and the general lack of accurate knowledge of market channels and specifications places the small producer at a disadvantage, the bulletin explains. The annual loss to the farmer is estimated to be quite large.

Dr. Lodewick made a State-wide survey of the wood-using industries in 1929. The results of this survey were printed in November of that year by Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Hoover Camp Springs Are Practically Dry

Unless steady rain falls on the upper Rapidan River, President Hoover may find his summer camp uninhabitable next summer.

Investigation made for the President revealed yesterday that the springs which supply drinking water and the creeks which feed the Rapidan and its fishing pools are all practically dry.

Cotton Improves After Operation

Undersecretary of State, However, Is Still in Serious Condition.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Improvement was reported tonight by Dr. Walter E. Dandy, brain specialist, in the condition of Joseph P. Cotton, Undersecretary of State, who he is attending at Johns Hopkins Hospital. "Mr. Cotton is quite a little better, and the operation performed Sunday for the removal of the right eye was successful," Dr. Dandy said.

The condition of the Undersecretary has been serious, and during the last 24 hours his wife and daughter were at the bedside most of the time. In January he underwent an operation for an infection of the spinal cord.

Sunday the eye was removed, and today the infection spread to his left knee. The knee was lanced during the morning.

U. S. Pays Warrant To Seize Property

$3,290,871 Is Deposited After Condemnation Jury's Action.

A Treasury warrant for $3,290,871 was paid into the District Supreme Court yesterday to satisfy awards recently made by a condemnation jury which was impanelled to obtain property which the Government had been unable to purchase in the three blocks lying between Ninth and Tenth streets, Pennsylvania avenue and B streets northwest.

The warrant was drawn to the order of Frank E. Cunningham, clerk of the court, and was indorsed by Mrs. R. S. Wayland, assistant clerk, and deposited in the Treasury to the credit of the court.

At the same time the Government filed notice through Assistant Attorney General Henry H. Glassie and Special Assistant United States Attorney Alexander H. Bell, jr., that the property would be taken over on March 18.

Securities Bills Expected to Pass

Proposals Providing Curb on Lien Foreclosures Nearing Senate.

Bills providing a new securities law for the District and to provide additional safeguards against foreclosure of mortgages are expected to be favorably reported to the Senate today by Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, chairman of the District Senate committee subcommittee, which has had the legislation under study for several months.

Whether the measures will be passed this session is problematical. The mortgage bill is believed to have a better chance than the securities measure.

Although Senator Blaine yesterday refused to discuss the report he will make it is understood that several amendments have been added to both measures and that the Blaine securities law will be reported instead of that proposed by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee.

400 FAMILIES AIDED IN TEXTILE CENTERS

Red Cross at Danville Feeds Hungry and Investigates Cases Afterward.

CIGARETTES OFF LIST

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Feb. 17.—The administration of relief in the textile centers through the agency of the Red Cross is proceeding more swiftly with two nurses now established at Schoolfield, four case workers and several volunteer helpers.

More than 400 families have been provided for through emergency measures. The Red Cross is accepting the applications for relief, and is providing food and investigating the cases later. Rations for two weeks are being provided through orders on merchants.

Households in which pellagra is found are being given special diet, with milk, lettuce and tomatoes as chief constituents.

The emergency ration for others consists of flour, lard, molasses, fat meat, pinto beans, rice, tomatoes, soap and salt.

Two local merchants who substituted cigarettes for certain items on the list at the request of the beneficiaries have been stricken off the Red Cross list, according to Langhorne Jones, in charge of administration of relief at Schoolfield.

Within the city the Community Welfare Association is caring for needy textile families.

Virtually no change has been experienced by the former strikers. Not more than 150 of the union men and women have been taken into the plants of the Dan River and Riverdale Mills.

MILK COST VARIANCE SHOWN AT INQUIRY

conference with the dealers, but insisted, in response to repeated questions by Senator Capper, that there was no price fixing. The committee chairman admitted that producers might get a better price by that method, but asked what protection had the consumer? Mr. Sexauer declared that distributors in New York City had passed on to retail consumers the reduced prices paid producers.

Mr. Walmsley insisted that his association did not fix prices, apportion territory, or do anything else except discuss general trade conditions and developments.

"Well," Senator Capper said, "you certainly do not try to increase competition, do you? Your organization isn't just a social one, is it?"

Chicago Figures Presented.

Mr. Walmsley, very polite, very quiet spoken and imperturbable, submitted figures showing that his company, which has about 35 per cent of the retail milk business in Chicago, had not reduced prices to farmers over a long period and that it had always reduced retail prices when producer prices were cut and the reduction to consumers had at times been greater than the reduction in the price paid producers.

Senator Capper declared that it was "very strange" that "year after year the retail price charged by you and your principal competitor in Chicago should run exactly the same if the only question was what you paid the producer and the cost of distribution and overhead." Financial reports showed that the Borden Co. had "certainly done very well" for many years in profits, the chairman said.

Henry N. Brawner, jr., of the Chestnut Farms Dairy; A. L. Thompson, a partner in Thompson's Dairy; R. S. Snader, president of the Maryland State Dairymen's Association; John McGill, jr., secretary-treasurer of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association, and Harry Hartke, president of the National Cooperative Milk Producers Association, have been called as witnesses to appear when the committee meets again at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Arlington-Fairfax Railway To Abandon Capital Tracks

Directors See Little Hope of Finding Solution to Depot Problem in Washington; Protest, However, Is Filed by Gloth.

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

At a special meeting yesterday the board of directors of the Arlington-Fairfax Railway voted to offer no opposition if conditions make necessary the abandonment of rail operations in Washington of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway.

This action was taken by the board after making every effort to cooperate with Robert L. May, owner of the Alexandria line, in finding a suitable terminal in Washington, and in determining the financial problems involved. The board has held prolonged conferences with Mr. May, with the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia, and with interested citizens both in Washington and in Virginia. The outstanding factors in the situation are:

First—If rail operations are continued from Virginia into Washington, the Public Utilities Commission will require extensive reconstruction work, to be made at the expense of the electric line. This work, together with the cost of establishing a new downtown terminal, would entail an expenditure of from $120,000 to $200,000. Mr. May offered to defray one-half the amount on condition that the Arlington & Fairfax line guarantee the other half. Such a guaranty the Arlington & Fairfax Railway is unable to assume or undertake.

Terminal Must Be Convenient.

Second—The Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia at an informal hearing, requested by the board of directors of the Arlington & Fairfax Railway, stated that the cars of neither company could be permitted to cross Pennsylvania avenue. These rail companies can not continue operations into Washington unless a terminal convenient to their Virginia patrons can be located. No suggestions for the location of such terminal were made by the Public Utilities Commission.

Third—In the board's opinion the Government authorities in Washington do not desire the continuance of rail operations over the Highway Bridge into Washington. It is not believed that it is possible to work out a plan which will meet the requirements of the Public Utilities Commission, and also be satisfactory to the Arlington & Fairfax Railway and adapted to the convenience of its patrons.

The Arlington & Fairfax Railway was organized for the single purpose of supplying rail transportation to the citizens of the communities served by its lines. That purpose has been steadfastly pursued and will be continued in the future.

If the Alexandria line is forced to abandon its operations into Washington, the Arlington & Fairfax Railway will continue to serve its patrons in a manner it believes will be satisfactory, and which will not involve running its cars over the Highway Bridge. Announcement will be made later of its plans to furnish this service if it must discontinue operation into Washington.

The Arlington & Fairfax Railway Co. declares it appreciates the spirit of cooperation exhibited by the interested citizens of the two counties at this stage of its affairs, and will keep the public advised of its plans as they develop.

Gloth Submits Letter.

Pursuant to instructions from the County Board of Supervisors Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth yesterday forwarded to the the Board of Commissioners and Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia, Senators Carter Glass and Claude S. Swanson, and Representative R. Walton Moore a letter protesting the proposed abandonment of the Washington terminus of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway Co.

The letter follows:

"The Board of Supervisors of Arlington County, at its meeting held Saturday, February 14, passed a resolution directing me as Commonwealth's attorney, to take all necessary steps to prevent the abandonment of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway Co. electric line, whose terminus is at Twelfth and D streets, Washington. This road, as you know, has been recently acquired by Mr. Robert L. May, of Alexandria, Va.

"The Arlington & Fairfax Railway Co., which extends from Fairfax County through the County of Arlington and into the District of Columbia, owns its own line to Arlington Junction, in Arlington County, and from that point to the terminus at Twelfth and D streets it operates over the tracks owned by the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway Co.

Thousands Use Railway.

"In the District of Columbia one-half of the expense of maintaining the tracks is paid by the Arlington & Fairfax Railway Co. In addition to that, a great many other items of expense for doing business in the District of Columbia are paid by the Arlington & Fairfax Railway Co. The Arlington & Fairfax Railway Co. is a commuting railway. Practically all of the stock is owned by citizens of Arlington and Fairfax counties. I respectfully state to you that my information is that between 9,000 and 11,000 people from Arlington and Fairfax County, daily go into Washington and return from Washington over this line. You can readily understand what a hardship it would be to those thousands of patrons if this railway line should be abandoned. In many instances the patrons have no bus service, and, in the event that the line is abandoned, would be without means of transportation to their work in the District of Columbia.

"The board of supervisors of Arlington County is of the opinion that there should be a relocation of the terminus in the District of Columbia and that this is very feasible.

"I am informed that the Federal Government expects to pay to Mr. May, of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway Co., a compensation for the tracks on D street and on Thirteen-and-a-half street, which are to be closed and I can see no reason why money obtained from this source can not be used to relocate the tracks and terminus of this railway company in the District of Columbia at a point that will meet the approval of the authorities of the District of Columbia.

Would Be Calamity.

"The abandonment of this road, in the opinion of the board of supervisors of Arlington County, would be a calamity to the citizens of this county, and in behalf of the said board and the citizens of Arlington County, I respectfully request that nothing be done toward the abandonment of this road until the board of supervisors of Arlington County and the citizens of this county can be heard."

The zoning appeal board, meeting last night at the courthouse, granted a permit to C. J. Ives for the enlargement of his funeral home located at the intersection of Wilson boulevard and Spruce street, in Clarendon. According to the application for the permit, the estimated cost of construction is placed at $8,000.

The public schools of Arlington County will be closed Monday, celebrating Washington's Birthday, according to an announcement sent out yesterday from the office of County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp.

A play entitled "Womanless Wedding," will be presented Friday night in the auditorium of the Washington-Lee High School, under the auspices of the Matrons and Patrons Association of the Order of the Eastern Star of Arlington County.

Half of the proceeds will be used to purchase equipment for the athletic association of the high school.

The executive committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night at the home of John C Gall, at Aurora Hills, Arlington County.

The Lyon Village Citizens Association at its meeting held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haley, went on record as indorsing the movement being sponsored by the American Civic Association, looking to the cleaning up of the approaches to the Nation's Capital and paying particular attention to the removal of the huge advertising signboards.

The association approved the action of the county board of supervisors in its proposal to take over the streets within the village in 90 days.

Plans for the annual meeting and election of officers to be held at the March meeting were discussed.

There will be a meeting of the Avalon Club for girls between the ages of 10 and 14 years of St. Georges Episcopal Church at the Parish Hall tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Setting its goal of 500 members, Mrs. G. L. Tabor, chairman of the membership committee of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Washington-Lee High School, announces that an extensive campaign is now on for new members.

"We want every patron of the school a member of our organization, that it may grow and be of benefit to the pupil, the teacher and the county school board," Mrs. Tabor said.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its meeting tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

Virginia Weekly Press To Form Audit Bureau

Richmond, Va., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—A meeting of publishers of weekly newspapers in Virginia interested in the Circulation Audit Bureau has been called by J. C. Latimer, secretary of the Virginia Press Association, to be held in Richmond at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, February 28. Mr. Latimer says the organization will be completed and the important work of establishing the bureau begun at that time.

Approximately twenty weekly newspapers have already signed to participate in the bureau and Mr. Latimer expressed the opinion that it would be a success from the start.

TRAFFIC AID GIVEN BY PRINCE GEORGES

Contributes $1,000 to Fund for Studying Travel of Washington Area.

COST WILL BE $40,000

The county commissioners of Prince Georges will contribute $1,000 to the fund being raised by the Washington Regional Highway Commission for the purpose of making a traffic survey of Washington and its environs.

The appropriation was authorized at a meeting yesterday of the board of commissioners, after J. Enos Ray, a member of the highway commission, had appeared to explain the purpose of the fund. Nearly all the funds needed have been contributed by the other agencies involved.

The estimated cost of the survey is $40,000, half of which will be contributed by the Federal Government. The other half is to come from Prince Georges and Montgomery counties and the State Roads Commission in Maryland; Arlington and Fairfax Counties, the city of Alexandria and the State Highway Department in Virginia; the District Commissioners, and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and similar organizations in the two surrounding States.

The Prince Georges appropriation brings the total now available to $37,000. The States involved have all agreed to pay their shares of the necessary sum.

A number of delegations appeared to ask for roads to be incorporated in the 1932 budget. Led by David L. Shatenstein and Marion F. Duckett, one of these groups offered a letter from the State Roads Commission indorsing the proposed road from the Defense highway at Glenn Dale to Central avenue at Largo by way of Woodmore. This same delegation appeared several weeks ago to ask for the same stretch.

A delegation from Piscataway offered three petitions, one for the completion of the Camp Springs-Piscataway road, one for the improvement of the road into Fort Washington and one for the appointment of a district road committee. Led by Ben Underwood, the delegation asked for the appointment of the following: P. Henry Beall, Bruce Gordon, Gus A. Smith, Joseph A. Taylor and William P. Taylor. Their appointment will be considered by the commissioners who will also inspect the Fort Washington road Sunday afternoon.

Total contributions in the current Red Cross drive are $5,630.97, according to J. Enos Ray, chairman of the movement, a sum nearly double the $3,000 quota set for the county. Mr. Ray is confident that when the whole county has reported, which will be some time next week, that they will more than double the quota.

Pauline A. Henderson, of Seat Pleasant, filed suit in the County Circuit Court yesterday for an absolute divorce from James M. Henderson, of Washington, alleging desertion. The couple were married in 1917, she says, and the man left her in 1927. They have two children, Virginia Pauline, 10 years old, and Jean Doris, 8. John H. Bittenbender is attorney for the woman.

An annual salary of $200 for the mayor and $125 for councilmen in Mount Rainier is included in a bill asking amendments to the town charter which will be presented to the Prince Georges County delegation in the State Legislature in the next few days.

The amendments will also provide for a slight extension of the town boundaries and a payment to justices of the peace and town bailiffs for their services. At present these officers receive only the fees paid by the county. The new bill will allow their compensation to be set by the town council.

The extension of the town boundaries is a small one, taking in the territory between Grape street and Queens Chapel road from Twenty-ninth to Thirtieth streets. At present the boundary line runs along one side of a paved street, so that householders on the other side may use the street without being subject to town taxes.

The school board, the board of county commissioners and the delegation to the Legislature will meet this morning in Annapolis to decide which of the ten requests for new school buildings in the county will be granted during 1931-32.

If all buildings requested are granted, the estimated cost will be about $435,000. It is very improbable, however, that the construction budget will run over $250,000, and it is likely to be less. The following communities have asked for construction ranging in cost from $1,000 to $4,000: Marlboro white, Marlboro colored, Surrattsville, Meadows, Laurel, Bowie, District Line, Ammendale, Aquasco and Fairmont Heights.

Teachers of the county were well represented yesterday in a meeting at the Eastern High School of the industrial arts and home economics departments of schools in Prince Georges, Anne Arundel and Montgomery Counties. Many of them spoke.

Among the speakers in the industrial arts division were Stanleigh Jenkins, of Hyattsville, and S. P. Coltrider, of Mount Rainier and Bladensburg. Others who attended this meeting were C. Leroy Groff, of Maryland Park, and John M. Sullivan, of Laurel.

Those who participated in the home economics program were Mabel S. Smith, of Maryland Park; Margaret Brantley, of Surrattsville, Marlboro and Brandywine, and Lucille Stinnett, of Mount Rainier and Bladensburg. Other home economics teachers present at this session were Gladys Crowther, of Laurel; Adeline B. Shrieve, of Hyattsville; Nellie S. Buckley, of Hyattsville, and Jane La-Mont, of Baden.

Nicholas Orem, county superintendent of schools, and Miss Kathleen Shears, county attendance officer, will represent the county at a meeting of the Maryland County School Attendance Officers in Baltimore on March 5 and 6.

Voicing an approval of the work of the Progressive Club of College Park, Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, at a recent meeting of the club reviewed the work and plans of the federation.

Mrs. Whitehurst discussed the relationship between the individual club and the federation, the home, citizenship, education, international relations, fine arts, legislation, jury service and public welfare. The chief benefits of a club, according to Mrs. Whitehurst, are contacts with others and a chance for self-expression. She said that women need not have to worry about serving on juries. "The men are not ready for you," she said.

The same meeting also indorsed the work of Nicholas Orem, county superintendent of schools, for increased pay for teachers, establishment of kindergartens and changes in the present curriculum.

NEW ROADS SOUGHT TO HALT STARVATION

Virginia Extra Session Is Asked to Give Work on Feeder Highways.

FARMERS BEGGING FOOD

Richmond, Va., Dec. 17 (A.P.).—A delegation from Prince Edward County today proposed to Gov. John Garland Pollard that an extra session of the General Assembly be called at once to consider the immediate diversion of all highway construction funds yet unexpended to county feeder roads as a means of relief to farmers. Members of the delegation said farmers in their section are facing starvation.

"Proud men, owners of their homes and of many acres of land, are begging from door to door to stave off starvation from their families," W. H. Glenn, member of the Prince Edward board of supervisors, told the governor. "They tell us 'for God's sake give us work to do so we will not live by begging;' we've got to do something."

The delegation was composed of Senator E. L. Kendig, of Victoria; W. B. Bruce, of Farmville, member of the House of Delegates, and Mr. Glenn.

Mr. Bruce said he believed a majority would support overwhelmingly a measure to divert highway funds if they knew the conditions.

"Every farmer in Prince Edward County," he continued, "needs work. Hundreds of families are living on nothing but fatback and corn meal, and some are living only from day to day on foodstuffs they get from the county, from their neighbors, or from the Red Cross."

Mr. Bruce said that the counties' share of the proceeds of gasoline tax is insufficient; that the Federal loan for which many farmers have applied will be insufficient; that the Red Cross can not save so many drought-prostrated farmers from penury and suffering.

Virginia Students Debate Pictures

Shuffliebarger Wins Medal for His Argument on Talking Films.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 17.—T. G. Shuffliebarger, of Cave Creek, Va., was awarded first place in the annual medal debate held by the Jefferson Literary Society of the University of Virginia, while second place went to E. D. Hoffman. The other speakers included E. M. Young, of Petersburg, Va.; J. W. Wayland, of Harrisonburg, Va., and W. E. Lloyd, of Nokesville, Va.

Judges of the debate were Profs. Elbert A. Kincaid, Atcheson L. Hench and Melvin C. de Chazeau.

Seven minutes were allowed each of the speakers to defend or attack the query, "Resolved, That the talking moving picture will do more in the next ten years to advance civilization than to retard it."

Danville Is Listed For New Postoffice

Hoover Recommends Bill to Congress; Climax of Year's Efforts.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Feb. 17.—Danville is among the cities listed for a new Federal building under the terms of the Elliott bill, in recommendations forwarded to Congress yesterday by President Hoover.

It marks the climax of nearly a year's work, during which time Federal inspectors have been here to inquire into Danville's claims and the preparation of data bearing on the point. The Danville postoffice was erected in 1880, and is considered too small for present needs, with no more room on the Government-owned lot for an addition.

Eight tentative sites are in view for the new structure.

Montebello Boy, 3, Dies In Staunton of Burns

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Feb. 17.—Elwood, 3-year-old son, of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Butler, of Montebello, died in hospital here today as a result of burns received Saturday while playing in a room in which there was an open grate stove.

No one else was in the room. The child's mother was in an adjoining room and heard him scream. When she reached the child the clothing was practically burned from the boy's body. The body was taken to Montebello for burial.

Mrs. Lizzie J. Evans Is Dead at Warrenton

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Feb. 17.—Mrs. Lizzie Jordan Evans, 70, wife of Delancey Evans, died at her home here this afternoon after a long illness. Mrs. Evans was identified with Warrenton all her life. She is survived by her husband and two daughters, Ida Pollard Evans and Mrs. Louise Evans.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Paul Bowden at her old home at 3 p. m. Thursday. Interment will be in Warrenton Cemetery.

Wet roads caused three cars to slide off the Southern Maryland pike yesterday morning, but the trio of accidents caused no injuries. All three of the machines slipped off in approximately the same spot, but were able to leave under their own power after being righted. Police did not take the names of the drivers, as there were no injuries.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

RAINS MAKE ROADS IN VIRGINIA SLIPPERY

Highways in Good Condition but Short Sections Are Somewhat Muddy.

USE OF CHAINS ADVISED

Richmond, Va., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Except for recent rains, road conditions in the State remained about the same as reported a week ago, the weekly highway department report said today, with practically all construction on new location and no detours on any of the main through routes.

Wet weather in most parts of the State has made short sections of construction where traffic is maintained slippery, especially in the mountainous sections.

United States route 1 was in good condition all the way from Washington, D. C., through Richmond, to the North Carolina line toward Raleigh, a distance of about 200 miles.

On United States route 11, through the Shenandoah Valley, widening construction was in progress in three places between Winchester and Staunton, but traffic was maintained over the regular road and short sections of the work.

Places Muddy After Rain.

These places were rough for a few hundred feet and were muddy after rain, but were causing no trouble. Continuing on route 11 from Staunton, through Lexington, Natural Bridge, Roanoke and Wytheville, to Bristol, no construction was encountered. Work is to be started soon near Buchanan and near Chilhowie, with traffic maintained over the regular road without any trouble.

The Tidewater trail, United States route 17, was in good condition all the way from Gloucester Point, by the way of Tappahannock and Saluda to Fredericksburg. The only part not hard surfaced is about 1 mile just south of Tappahannock, where traffic is using the old soil road around bridge construction. The distance from Fredericksburg to Newport News over U. S. 17 is 133 miles, and over U. S. 1 and U. S. 60 by Richmond, 135 miles.

On United States route 60, which begins at Virginia Beach and crosses the State through Old Point Comfort, Williamsburg, Richmond, Farmville, Lynchburg, Natural Bridge and Lexington to the West Virginia line near White Sulphur Springs, the only work going on was a short section of construction near Natural Bridge where traffic was carried over, or along beside the work for about a half mile.

Bridge Near Completion.

The bridge over North River near this construction is nearing completion and should be opened to traffic within the next few weeks, eliminating the mile of soil road which traffic is using around the bridge work.

The Richmond - Danville road through Amelia, Burkeville, Keysville and Halifax was in good condition all the way. Between Burkeville and Keysville and near Halifax a small amount of work was under way, but it was no new location and did not affect the regular road.

On the Spottswood Trail, route 17, from Gordonsville to Harrisonburg through Elkton, the construction was practically all on new location, and the unimproved section of about 8 miles was in good condition. Rain would make the newly graded road between Goshen and Craigsville on route 17, slippery, and chains were advised in wet weather.

Route 19 Is Good.

Route 19 from Richmond to Columbia was hard surfaced and good, and from Columbia to Dixie, about 6 miles, there was a fair soil road.

On route 23 between Christiansburg and Princeton, W. Va., traffic was using the new bridge and road from Glenlyn to Rich Creek and Narrows. The section from Glenlyn to Rich Creek, was newly graded and was muddy and slippery in wet weather. From Rich Creek to Narrows and Christianburg was paved and in good condition.

The Broad Street road, route 41, was reported to have a small amount of work going on between Richmond and Short Pump and traffic was advised to use Patterson avenue, though the Broad Street road was kept open to traffic, except the section where work was being done. The work near Oilville was on new location, and did not interfere with traffic over the regular gravel road.

Meeting to Hear Memorial Plans

Fredericksburg Gathering Is Called on Battlefield Park Proposal.

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Feb. 17.—Ways and means of stimulating interest in the Fredericksburg and Spottsylvania National Battlefield Memorial Park, already authorized by Congress, will be discussed Wednesday night at a dinner meeting at the Fredericksburg High School.

Invitations have been sent out by Mayor Jere M. H. Willis of Fredericksburg and J. W. Kimman, chairman of the board of supervisors of Spottsylvania County, Va. Already $115,000 has been spent in making preliminary surveys and acquiring land. The Army appropriation bill, passed by the House and pending in the Senate, carries $215,000 for further work in creating the memorial.

Hunting Creek Gives Hoover Hope of Fishing

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 17.—President Hoover, concerned because streams at his Rapidan River summer camp are all practically dry, need have no concern about where he will fish this summer.

Hunting Creek at the camp of Lawrence Richey, at Catoctin, Md., where the President fished last summer, has been running strong throughout the drought period and an inspection of the stream recently has shown that the trout, both rainbow and speckled, have survived the low water well. Hunting Creek, since recent rains, is almost normal in the volume of its flow.

J. W. RUST TO RUN FOR STATE SENATE

Fairfax Attorney Will Try for Seat Held by Ball, of Arlington.

BETTER ROADS FAVORED

John W. Rust, attorney, of Fairfax, Va., announced last night that he will be a Democratic candidate for the State Senate, subject to the August primary. Mr. Rust stated that in view of the fact State Senator Frank L. Ball, of Arlington County, has stated he will not be a candidate to succeed himself, he has decided to seek this office.

Mr. Rust has been practicing law at Fairfax for the last 24 years. He also has practiced before the courts of the surrounding counties and States and is widely known throughout northern Virginia. He is 49 years old and has for many years been affiliated with practically all of the progressive movements in Fairfax County. He is past president of the Fairfax County Bar Association, a member and director of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, a director of the Fairfax County Fair Association, and is president of the Manassas Battle Field Confederate Park Association.

Mr. Rust stated yesterday that he had been a lifelong Democrat and has never sought any public office, but is a former mayor and councilman of the Town of Fairfax and a former member of the Fairfax County School Board.

While not stating his platform at this time, Mr. Rust announced yesterday that he is most heartily in favor of making northern Virginia an ideal place in which to live; that he is in favor of better roads, better schools and better homes, and if elected will advocate all measures looking to this result.

Ship Safely Lands Damaged by Gale

Cargo of Bananas Is Docked at Baltimore Port; All Aboard Unhurt.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Damaged by the gale which last Saturday put three vessels ashore off the North Carolina and Virginia coast, the steamship Oritani arrived here the Caribbean with a cargo of bananas today after an eventful voyage from.

The ship's high pressure cylinders were put out of commission by the storm and the Coast Guard cutter Mendota was called to her assistance.

Later Capt. Sargent decided the vessel could continue under her own power. In addition to the captain a crew of 25 was carried, none of whom was injured.

NEW LAW BUILDING PLANS COMPLETED

Bids to Be Invited at Once for University of Virginia Structure.

ALUMNUS GIVES FUNDS

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 17.—Plans for the new law building at the University of Virginia, for which the sum of $350,000 was donated by William A. Clark, jr., of Los Angeles, Calif., an alumnus, have been completed and will be sent out at once to various construction firms for bids. The contract will be let about the middle of March.

The new structure will occupy the site just opposite the dormitories and now the home of Prof. Pickenaher, and will be in keeping with the architecture of the university. The house occupied by Prof. Pickenaher will be vacated soon, but the houses on Dawson's Row are to be left intact at present. In all probability houses D and E will be torn down later to afford a view of the new building.

With a view to making plans for the mural decorations of the buildings, for which purpose Mr. Clark contributed an additional $50,000, Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Cox, of New York, will arrive in Charlottesville Sunday, February 22. Mr. Cox has been employed to decorate the new edifice by Mr. Clark.

Mrs. Daisy Wilkerson, Charlottesville, Dies

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 17.—Mrs. Daisy Purvis Wilkerson, wife of I. D. Wilkerson, died suddenly yesterday at her home here. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Wilkerson is survived by three daughters and one son by a former marriage, Mrs. S. T. Sutler, of Beele, W. Va.; Mrs. R. A. Wiebel, of this city; Mrs. James L. Moore, of Culpeper, and Irvine C. Purvis, of Richmond; also one stepdaughter, Mrs. R. J. Moore, of this city. She also leaves two sisters and one brother, Mrs. C. E. Keller, of Alexandria, Va.; Mrs. Clara Young, of Philadelphia, and Marshall Miller, of Harrisonburg, Va.

FALLS CHURCH VOTE PLEAS TO BE HEARD

List of Property Owners Eligible in Election to Be Discussed.

WATER BOND FATE NEAR

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 3324-W-2.

The Falls Church Town Council will hold a special meeting tonight in the town hall at which time persons will be heard regarding the list of resident freehold property owners which has been posted in public places throughout the town entitling persons whose names are on this list to vote in the special election to be held one week from today. This election, in which only persons 21 years old or more, who actually reside within the corporate limits, and who own property in their own name can participate, will be held to decide the fate of the proposed $125,000 water bond issue. There are approximately 475 names on the list that has been posted as the official list of the town.

Any person can protest against any name on the list challenging their right to participate in the election next Wednesday. Names can also be added by the presentation to the council of the proper evidence.

Civic organizations are making special plans to have every person entitled to vote to cast their ballot in the election, because of a special provision in the town charter which requires that at least 50 per cent of the resident freeholders must participate in the election before a valid vote can be counted. The last election on this question last month failed because of this provision in the charter, not enough of the freeholders cast their votes on the election day, but the number of ballots cast indicated that the residents were 10 to 1 in favor of the bond issue.

The Great Falls Grange will hold its regular meeting in the Grange Hall at Forestville. The degree team of the grange is holding rehearsals this week in the fifth degree work in preparation for the initiation to be held February 24 at the special meeting of the Fairfax County Pomona Grange. Mrs. Marvin Sanders, lecturer of the Great Falls Grange, has announced that a chicken supper for the benefit of the grange has been planned for February 28.

Miss Ida Lee Castleman has been elected president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church at Herndon. Other officers elected include Mrs. James Rogers, vice president; Mrs. Asa E. Bradshaw, custodian of the united thank offering; Mrs. J. Bartless, custodian of the birthday offering; Miss Virginia E. Castleman, secretary; Mrs. W. W. Wyatt, treasurer; Mrs. Alexander Galt, chairman of the church periodical club; Mrs. E. Barbour Hutchinson, Mrs. George P. Harrison, Mrs. James Rogers, Mrs. W. W. Wyatt and Miss Sue Thornton, members of the box committee. A meeting of the auxiliary was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William H. Dawson.

The Girls' Club of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Herndon held their meeting at the home of Miss Margaret Poole. Recently elected officers of the club who presided at the meeting were: Miss Elizabeth Spicer, president; Miss Grace Wood, vice president; Miss Aileen Orrison, secretary, and Miss Caroline Myers, treasurer.

The Lincolnia Civic League will give an oyster supper this evening in the old Lincolnia schoolhouse for the benefit of the community fund. Mrs. C. E. Howdershell, chairman of the social committee will have charge of the arrangements.

The Women's Guild of the Episcopal Church at Floris will meet this afternoon at the home of Miss Ada Burch in Floris. Mrs. Alexander Galt will talk on subject of India and the nature of the work there.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Southern Methodist Church at Falls Church will give a turkey dinner this afternoon in the church beginning at 5:30 o'clock. Mrs. J. S. Higgins, general chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Lee Copeland, Mrs. Joseph Smith, Mrs. C. H. Cannon and Mrs. N. C. Pattie.

The Guild of the Neighborhood House at McLean will hold its meeting today in Washington at the home of Mrs. George Saegmuller.

The Women's Home Demonstration Club at Annandale will hold its annual party this evening for husbands and friends. The women of the club have made special plans for the program. Special branches of their work will be demonstrated.

The Fairfax Council, Order of Fraternal Americans, will hold their meeting tomorrow night instead of tonight in order that the members of the Fairfax Council may attend the quarterly meeting of the Fairfax District Council in Herndon tonight.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Wiehle Church at Sunset Hills will meet today at the home of Mrs. Felter.

Special Lenten services will be held this morning at 10:30 o'clock in the St. Mary's Episcopal Church at McLean by the Rev. J. O. Sadtler. The Rev. Sadtler plans to hold a series of services at St. John's Episcopal Church at Rixey each Wednesday evening and at St. Mary's Church at McLean each Friday evening with visiting ministers.

Ash Wednesday services will be held today at St. Timothy's Church in Herndon. On Friday Lenten services will be held in the church with the Rev. Herbert Donovan, of Fairfax Courthouse, as guest speaker.

Mrs. Fannie Trussell Is Buried at Leesburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Feb. 17.—Funeral services were held this morning at 11 o'clock at her residence for Mrs. Fannie Marshall Trussell, wife of H. H. Trussell, who died Sunday at her residence near Lucketts, in her seventy-ninth year.

Before her marriage she was Miss Royton and a native of Clarke County, Va. She is survived by her husband, two daughters, Mrs. B. W. McKimmey and Mrs. J. W. Shroy, and two sons, James and William, all of Lucketts. Interment was in the Leesburg Union Cemetery.

90,000 Farmers To Get $612,736

Defunct Tobacco Association Assets to Be Paid in Three States.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Feb. 17.—More than 90,000 farmers in Virginia and the Carolinas, members of the defunct Tobacco Growers Association, which assigned in 1928, will benefit to the extent of a few cents to several hundred dollars in distribution of $612,736.50 of the association's assets.

These facts are taken from an eight-volume master's report filed in the Federal District Court, here.

Farmers in this section will receive little of the distribution, having been overpaid before the association went into liquidation.

Montgomery Club Head Will Be Honored Today

A reception in honor of Mrs. B. Peyton Whalen, president of the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs will be held this afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock by the Newcomb Club, of Bethesda, Md., at the Battery Park Clubhouse. Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, State president, and her staff, are expected to be present. Mrs. Benjamin C. Potter is president of the Newcomb Club.

Representatives of the various State Federation districts are expected to be present. The commitee in charge includes Mrs. A. B. Foster, chairman, Mrs. John L. Newell, vice chairman, Mrs. Ross Dellett and Mrs. E. G. Bauersfeld. Clubwomen from all sections of Montgomery County will be present.

CEMETERY HEARING SET IN MONTGOMERY

Plea to Be Aired March 3 in Rockville, on Petition of Mt. Olivet Firm.

POLICEMAN IS REMOVED

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post.
9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md.
Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Public hearing on the petition of the Mount Olivet Cemetery Association for permission to establish a cemetery near Aspen will be held March 3 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon by the Montgomery County commissioners, it was decided at a meting of the commissioners yesterday. The hearing will be held at the county commissioners' office in Rockville.

The petition was filed by former State's Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr., counsel for the cemetery company, with the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which referred it to the county commissioners without recommendation. It is understood that a number of residents of the neighborhood near Aspen will appear to object to the granting of the permit.

The county commissioners yesterday removed County Policeman Joseph Oldfield, of the Bethesda substation, from the county force. The action was taken after insurance companies which underwrite the county police insurance policies had made representations to the county commissioners regarding a number of accidents in which the officer had figured. The commissioners virtually were forced to remove the officer because of the objection of the insurance companies, it was pointed out.

Roy E. Davis, of Spring Lake Park, near Rockville, was appointed a county policeman to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of Officer Oldfield. He will be attached to the Bethesda substation.

The commissioners were petitioned for permission to beautify the Civil War soldiers monument triangle across from the courthouse by planting shrubbery and rose bushes yesterday by the Rockville Garden Club.

A meeting of the committee planning for the proposed farm woman's market in the suburban section of Montgomery County has been called for tomorrow afternoon by Mrs. J. D. King, president of the Montgomery County Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs. The meeting will be held at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the home demonstration office in Rockville.

Following an open forum on market problems the committee will be divided into two sections, which will attempt to solve the following problems: What home-makers sell, and compile a list of same; what home-makers will buy; finance committee; business manager, prices, commission and receiving committee; location and standards of goods to be sold. Miss Blanche Corwin, county home demonstration agent, has reported that the loan of free space in a store at Bethesda has been offered.

The committee includes Mrs. King, Miss Corwin, Mr. and Mrs. John Darby, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Windsor Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Clagett Hilton, Mrs. John Newell, Mrs. P. Day, Mrs. A. L. Smith, Mrs. George W. Stone, Mrs. Peyton Whalen, Mrs. E. W. Scott, Mrs. Julian Waters and County Agent O. W. Anderson.

The names of Aubrey B. Carter, of Friendship Heights; Preston L. Snyder, of Travilah; Richard C. Birney, of Aspen, and A. Guy Watkins, of Rockville, have been presented to Gov. Albert C. Ritchie by the Republican State central committee for choice of a successor to Frank Dwyer as Republican member of the Board of Supervisors of Elections in the county. If none of these is satisfactory to the governor, a second list of four names will be presented.

The 4-H Girls Clubs of Montgomery County will hold a rally February 23 at the Rockville High School. Officers of the county federation will be elected, after which there will be games.

John D. Miller, B. R. Holmes and E. E. Blodgett have been reappointed as a board of assessors to prepare the current assessments for the town of Takoma Park, it was announced yesterday by Mayor Ben G. Davis.

Suit for an injunction to compel the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission to remove sewer lines from her property on Philadelphia avenue in Takoma Park, Md., was filed yesterday in circuit court by Mrs. Margaret Petty Dodge, heir at law of Margaret E. Petty. The suit asks that the sanitary commission be forced to remove the sewer pipes and relocate them and that damages be awarded. Attorney Wilson L. Townsend, of Washington, appears for the plaintiff.

The petition sets forth that Mrs. Petty had permitted the use of her property for laying sewer lines to the town of Takoma Park with the understanding that the lines would be relocated if they interfered with the development of the property, and that the circuit court at Rockville had directed the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, which took over operation of the system from the town, to relocate the sewer lines. The sewer pipe interferes with the construction of two houses planned for the lots, the plaintiff tells the court.

The drama section of the Women's Club of Chevy Chase will present the one-act play "Fourteen" at a meeting of the club this afternoon at 2:45 o'clock in the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church assembly room.

The fact-finding committee of the general committee on the securing of a senior high school for the Silver Spring-Takoma Park-Woodside area has completed its report, which will be presented at a meeting of the general committee this week. The general committee represents fourteen civic organizations of the area, from each of which representatives have been sent to the committee.

The fact-finding committee decided that a senior high school is needed by the community and urged that action be taken urging the need on the board of education, county commissioners and other county and State officials. William H. Reynolds, of North Woodside, is chairman of the fact-finding subcommittee, and Ralph Lee is chairman of the general committee.

A thorough survey of the prospective high school pupils of the area shows that a senior high school will be urgently needed by 1933, Mr. Lee said.

A contribution of $35 was received yesterday by the Montgomery County Chapter of the American Red Cross from the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., of Baltimore, to be added to its drought-relief fund.

Miss Grace England, newly assigned Red Cross nutritionist for Montgomery County, has been excused from her duties to attend the White House conference on child health. Miss Lavinia Engle, county member of the House of Delegates, also is scheduled to attend.

Sunshine
is every mother's ally against colds and sickness

BLUSTERY winds, dampness, raw weather, cold snaps, indoor-to-outdoor changes . . . these are contributing causes for children's fall and winter colds.
Youngsters are perhaps more susceptible to colds than grown-ups, because so much energy is consumed in growing. In summertime Nature provides energy-building sunshine freely. Children are healthier, happier because of it.
Now—in winter—every mother can make every day indoors a day like June's best with a General Electric Sunlamp.
Its ultra-violet, like the sun's, promotes growth in children, increases their resistance against sickness because it combines with underskin substances to develop Vitamin D potency. This enables the body to retain and use more mineral salts—bone and strength builders. Furthermore, research indicates a 40% reduction in colds among cold-susceptible people when irradiated with ultra-violet.
Let us show you this remarkable scientific ally of health and well-being. It is good for the whole family.
It is as handsome as a bridge lamp. There are four models in ivory-white or bronze finishes. Attach one at any ordinary A. C. lighting outlet.

THE PUBLIC ALARMED.

No one doubts that the Senate will pass the bonus bill. Political courage is called for in defending the Treasury against an excessive draft upon it when World War veterans are concerned. Only a handful of senators really represent the Nation. The others find excuses to vote in favor of groups which are strong at the polls. All of them are called "United States senators," but many of them do not deserve the title.

The House, with nonpartisan eagerness, threw aside all regard for the stability of Federal finances and voted for a bill which, if effective, will draw $700,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 from the Treasury in spite of a deficit that is not less than $400,000,000. In order to appease veterans who have clamored for money, without regard to consequences, the House takes the first step toward a heavy increase of taxes at a time when the country is struggling with adversity.

The Senate now contains so few men who dare to stand for the unorganized people as against organized minorities that a heavy majority for the bonus bill is to be expected.

Since the country can not have the bonus extravagance without paying for it, and since it can pay only by taxation, President Hoover will have before him the alternative of disapproving the bonus bill or joining Congress in a move to saddle extra taxes upon the people. Other Presidents have faced the same alternative, and have stood faithfully by the people. There is no reason to doubt that Mr. Hoover will do the same.

It may be that the President is in possession of information concerning the revenues which is not possessed by Congress. He may have learned something in regard to the falling off of income tax receipts. The year 1930 cut so deeply into incomes of individuals and corporations that the revenue from that source may be dangerously reduced. What if the March returns should indicate a Treasury deficit of $1,000,000,000 by June 30? Such a condition would put a different complexion upon the bonus bill, and would expose all who voted for it to severe criticism. But even if the deficit should be no larger than $400,000,000, the necessity for increased taxation will accompany enactment of the bonus bill. A veto message from the President calling attention to the danger of heavy extra taxation would take the enthusiasm out of many congressmen and senators who are now joyously voting for the bonus.

The people of the United States are becoming alarmed by the bonus legislation. They are staggering under as heavy a load as they can carry. They can not keep up wages and give employment if they are to be subjected to new and heavy taxes. They will applaud a veto message from President Hoover, and may send a message of their own to Congress which will call a halt.

FIGHTING FOR HIS THRONE.

King Alfonso is exerting every effort to maintain the government of Spain under the monarchy. He can not govern under a dictatorship any longer. Public sentiment lately reached such a pitch that the elections scheduled for next month had to be postponed and the Berenguer government was forced out. It would have been futile for the king to set up another dictatorship under such conditions. He faced abdication, revolution or surrender to the demands of the constitutionalists. By choosing to yield he has a chance of retaining his throne with limited powers.

Whoever is able to form a ministry will do so with the understanding that elections are to be called in the near future; that all factions will have opportunity to participate; that the Cortes so elected will be transformed into a constitutional convention with complete authority to shape the future course of Spain's government. In the meantime the king will relinquish his authority to the convention and await its verdict as to whether he shall remain on the throne with limited powers or step aside for a republic.

The king has not yet surrendered to the republicans. Apparently he believes that he still has sufficient strength to retain his title as sovereign. It remains to be seen whether the liberal monarchists or the republicans will dictate the new constitution. The one thing that seems certain is that Alfonso will be deprived of a large degree of his authority and that some sort of representative government will be reestablished.

Current reports indicate a defection in the army. Innumerable complications may enter into this period of transition before Spain regains political stability.

THE OIL EMBARGO.

The oil interests seeking an embargo upon petroleum products have changed their tactics and are now presenting their case before the ways and means committee. Their attempt to railroad an embargo bill through the Senate was brought to an abrupt halt when it was pointed out that the measure would amend several paragraphs in the tariff act. The Senate can not originate legislation dealing with the national revenue. The oil lobby must convince the ways and means committee and the House that its plea for an embargo is justified before the question can properly reach the floor of the Senate. Should the House be stampeded into a hasty approval of this measure in the last days of the short session, it would still have to run the gantlet of the finance committee and the Senate.

Congress refused to place a tariff on oil last year, and the situation has not changed, except that imports have decreased without any tariff or embargo. The present campaign for "protection" of the oil industry is just another form of the tariff controversy, even though the bill now being considered calls for an embargo. An embargo, however, is more objectionable than a tariff, because the United States is bound by treaty not to place any prohibitions or restrictions upon imports from the Dutch West Indies.

Representative Nelson made out a convincing case against the proposed embargo in his testimony before the committee. The measure is designed to increase the cost of gasoline. Mr. Nelson estimated that the increase contemplated would cost the American people $634,320,000 per year. The United States has almost a year's supply of oil in storage. The effect of such an increase in price would be to enrich the great oil companies by upward of $1,000,000,000. It should be obvious to any reasonable mind that the great companies would use up enough of this supply to replace their imports, and that the independent operators would still be faced with their same difficulties.

The United States is producing nearly two-thirds of the world's oil supply, and is drawing out of its limited reserves for export to foreign nations. Figures of the Bureau of Mines show that exports of petroleum and its products amount to 50 per cent more than imports. In spite of this fact the oil lobby is asking Congress to stimulate production in this country. Thus a greater portion of America's oil would be shipped abroad. What passes under the disguise of "protection" for the oil industry is in reality exploitation of one of the country's most valuable resources for the benefit of foreign countries.

SOVIET "REPRISALS."

Moscow is discussing reprisals against the United States because of the embargo placed on lumber and pulpwood by the Treasury. Such talk is amusing. The Soviet program already includes every known method of destroying American industry and trade. What more can the Communist regime do?

Threats of withdrawing purchases in the United States are heard, but they are not new. The Soviet has been doing that very thing as rapidly as its own limited means of production will permit. The only purpose of the Reds in buying anything from the United States is to strengthen their own industrial system, so that they will be able to undermine the economic structure of the rest of the world.

Some American interests have been deceived as to the worth of Russian trade. But their eyes are being opened. They are finding that Russia offers a market for a short period, but that purchases are cut off just as soon as the Soviet is able to develop its own resources. The experience of the cotton industry is pertinent. In 1928 $44,536,918 worth of American cotton was sold to Russia. By 1930 the value of cotton exports to that country had been cut to $7,749,616, and the prospects are that this year Russia will be dumping cotton in foreign markets that were formerly supplied by the United States.

Industries that sell to the Soviet are not building up a market for themselves. They are supplying the Communists with the means of enslaving the Russian people and of fighting American commerce. Nothing exported to Russia improves the living conditions of the people. It enhances the power of the Reds and contributes to the success of the dumping program. The Russian market for wheat and cotton has been lost. The market for tractors and machinery will soon be closed to Americans. It is the avowed intention of the Reds to ruin capitalistic industry, and they lose no opportunity to do so.

A gigantic campaign to enlist all farmers in the collective organizations is now under way. This means that a greater percentage of the agricultural produce of Russia will be under direct control of the Communist dictatorship. Orders have been issued to mobilize all agricultural experts of the nation. Immense acreages are to be put under cultivation this year, and most of the crops will be dumped upon the glutted world market, while the Russian people continue on the verge of starvation.

This program is economic war. Russia can do nothing more to derange the economic structure of the world than has been already undertaken. Why does Moscow talk of reprisals when hostilities were opened years ago? The lamentable thing is that a few Americans are willing, for the sake of immediate profits, to play into the hands of these enemies of civilization.

HARD-PRESSED RAILROADS.

An accurate measure of the distress that has descended upon the railroads may be gleaned from the earnings statistics recently made public by the Bureau of Railway Economics. In 1930 the first-class roads of the country had total net earnings of $885,000,000 as compared with $1,274,600,000 for 1929. The roads covered in the report comprise 90 per cent of the national transportation machine. Their return on property investment in 1930 was 3.36 per cent as compared with 4.95 per cent for the preceding year.

The large losses suffered by the railroads in 1930 as compared with 1929 are attributable to the general business depresson in large measure. Nevertheless, had business during the year been normal the roads would have earned less than in the previous year, if the trend of recent years had held true. Year by year the roads are coming upon harder times because competition is becoming increasingly severe. Motor buses are cutting into passenger traffic. Trucks are hauling more interurban freight. The petroleum industry seems to be planning to abandon use of the railroads in favor of pipe lines.

The railroads will not surrender their position in the transportation field without a bitter battle. Various bills are now before Congress designed to relieve the railroads of the handicaps under which they operate, some of which in due time will become law. Such legislation is of such extraordinary scope, however, that years may elapse before it receives final approval. Meanwhile, the roads are seeking to equalize competition. Some of them, for example, have gone in for bus and truck operation. The Interstate Commerce Commission recently authorized the reduction of freight rates on petroleum and petroleum products so that the roads will be able to meet the increasing competition of pipe lines. The commission fixed only the maximum rates, so as to permit the carriers themselves to determine how far they will cut to meet competition, reserving the right to check the roads should any proposed cut "result in unreasonably low rates or in undue preference to shippers or localities."

It remains to be seen whether or not the roads will be able to compete with pipe lines. Pipe line operators insist that the roads can not begin to move petroleum and its products as cheaply or as speedily as they can be moved through pipes. Nevertheless it is advisable that the roads be permitted to try the experiment. So serious has their economic situation become that, in view of the fact that legislative relief promises to be a most lengthy process, they should be permitted to try any and every expedient of honest competition.

MOUNT VERNON IN FRANCE

From the Nation's Capital Magazine.

While Americans in general, and those particularly in the Nation's Capital, are following closely the developments in the plan for a Nation-wide celebration, in 1932, of the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth and are looking forward to contributing to those festivities in honor of the greatest American, it is hoped that in their present enthusiasm they will not overlook what the United States Government intends to do in connection with its official participation in the International Colonial and Overseas Exposition at Paris, May 1 to November 1, 1931.

First of all, America is re-creating on the friendly soil of France the most cherished of her national shrines—Mount Vernon. An exact reproduction of this outstanding colonial home is now being erected, through funds provided by Congress, on a gentle sloping plot of ground facing Lake Daumesnie in the Bois de Vincennes on the outskirts of Paris. Much of the furnishings of Mount Vernon are also being reproduced. Moreover, it is not improbable that our Mount Vernon in France may be permitted to remain permanently, as a token of perpetual friendship and good will, on this beautiful plot of greensward, amidst scattered groves of trees, which plot, like that on the Potomac, extends down to the shoreline.

This replica of Mount Vernon will form the central building and house America's main exhibit. In its make-up will be reproductions of all brass and bronze hardware, mantelpieces, staircases, inside and outside trim, cabinets—even the bronze weathercock, Lafayette's gift to Washington, which caps the spire at Mount Vernon on the Potomac.

Because they are of particular interest to Frenchmen, certain furnishings are being reproduced from Mount Vernon. Among these are to be noted the key to the big, outside gate of the Bastille, which Lafayette presented to Washington and which turned the lock on Louis XVI shortly before that monarch was beheaded during the bloody days of the French Revolution. There will also be full-size reproductions of articles in the bedroom occupied by the Marquis de Lafayette during his visits to Mount Vernon; of the chair which the marquis gave to Martha Washington; of Washington's bedroom; of the Peale portraits of Lafayette and Washington; of the picture of himself which Louis XVI ordered specially for the first President of the United States, and of other objects. There will also be portraits of many French patriots, explorers, &c., and 25 facsimiles of pertinent historical letters.

Regardless of whether or not this full reproduction of Mount Vernon will be permitted to remain on French soil, it is to be noted also that by taking into account the historic and friendly relationships long existent between France and the United States, the American commission to the International Colonial and Overseas Exposition at Paris is adding a new chapter to the book of amicable international relations. The sending to France of this replica of America's national shrine, so closely linked to France through past associations and friendships, is certainly a gesture which the peoples of all countries will not fail to appreciate.

WHEN THE HORSE WAS KING.

One of the most definitely scrapped and least likely to be revived modes of transportation of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries is the horse car, says the Wall Street Journal. Today it is associated with the old New York of hansom cabs and Lily Langtry. There was once a time, however, when the horse was king of the street railways of the country. Subways were still myths, and even electric street car transportation, which seems at present doomed to the horse car's fate, had not attained much popularity. An estimate of street railways mileage in the United States and Canada made in the fall of 1890 places the horse car far in the lead. The estimate was as follows: Horse car railways, 6,094 miles; electric railways, 1,066; dummy (steam) railways, 563 miles; cable railways, 502 miles; inclined plane railways, 11 miles. The inclined plane railway business never did get a real start.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

CHILD AND GOSSIP.

If to Janet you should go
Pouring gossip in her ear;
Hinting of the debts I owe,
Still she'd call me: "Daddy, dear!"

If you mentioned that my hat
Is a faded thing and old,
She could not be changed by that;
Still she'd run my hand to hold.

If you told her deeds of shame,
Which from gossips you had heard,
Janet would remain the same,
She would not believe a word.

Say to her my money's gone,
Cry that loss has stripped me bare,
Still her love would carry on;
Little Janet wouldn't care.

Only grownups turn away
When such lies or truths are told;
So against the world I say,
Little Janet's love I hold.

Your Dog's Fleas Afford No Proof That All Fleas Are on Dogs.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

"I TAKE a drink now and then," says Clara Bow, "but who doesn't?"

The answer is that many millions do not.

I have personal acquaintance with a thousand or more who drink nothing more exhilarating than coffee.

It does not follow, however, that coffee is the only beverage to which Americans are addicted. You can't judge a nation by the inhabitants of one small village.

Clara Bow is guilty of a naive provincialism that is characteristic of modern America.

In the time of our grandfathers, each community was isolated like a ship's company at sea. It thought in terms of its own limitations and was proud of its individuality. The stranger from another State was an alien and was expected to reveal peculiar habits and beliefs.

Newspapers and the movies and the radio have given the modern a new conception of himself and his world. He no longer regards his community as the stamping ground of a peculiar clan. He is convinced by the same advertisements that win customers in Maine and in Texas; he buys the same tooth paste, reads the same books, rides in the same car and laughs at the same jokes.

He thinks of himself as a typical American.

But he is in large measure a product of his environment, just as his grandfather was, and his community still has habits and standards peculiar to itself.

He doesn't realize this, however, and since he has learned to regard his community as a cross-section of America, it follows inevitably that he pictures all of America as an enlargement of his own community.

And that is true provincialism. The provincial is one who uses his own small group as a measuring stick for the universe. Whether his home is in a metropolis or on a farm, his physical horizon forms his mental horizon also.

Clara Bow thinks all people drink because her acquaintances drink. In a certain Kansas village where nearly all adults belong to some church and the few who do not are frankly wicked, the opinion prevails that all people everywhere who have no interest in religion are vicious and depraved.

The cynic knows one uplifter who gets drunk and assumes that all reformers are hypocrites; the unfortunate parent discovers a flask in his daughter's room and concludes that all high school students drink at their parties; the malcontent reads about one corrupt magistrate and reasons that all judges are crooked.

It is the age-old folly of measuring the other fellow in your own half bushel, and the ignorance that prompts it is responsible for most of the world's narrowness and intolerance.

It will not be surprising if President Hoover's Lincoln Day address proves a decisive factor in the issue between those forces which are working to centralize more and more public responsibility in the Federal Government and those who would keep in the individual and the community the responsibilities which the founders intended they should assume and exercise.

The President is not the first to hold that the character of our Government will never arise much above the character of the average citizen; that the destruction of initiative and the capacity for self-help in the individual must have a malign reflection in the quality of government. A hundred years ago, Macaulay was sounding the same alarm, and the nature of men and the tendencies of government have not changed appreciably in the time between.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Cider and Fruit Juices Made for Home Use Can Not Be Sold, Even if Not Intoxicating.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Wickersham report has been seized upon by Senator Tydings to bedevil those who sit on the dry side of the prohibition fence. There is a danger, however, that the wet Mr. Tydings may carry his campaign so far as to deprive us of home-made wine. Mr. Tydings read, feelingly and eloquently, on the floor of the Senate that section of the Wickersham report that asks plaintively "why home wine making should be lawful while home brewing of beer and home distilling of spirits are not, and why home wine making for home use is less reprehensible than making the same wine outside the home for home use." Mr. Sheppard, in reply, called attention to section 29 of the prohibition act, which reads: "The penalties provided against the manufacture of liquor without a permit shall not apply to a person for manufacturing nonintoxicating cider and fruit juices exclusively for use in his home, but such cider and fruit juices shall not be sold * * *"

Senator Tydings seized upon the section of the prohibition act used by Senator Sheppard as the basis of his argument to poke further fun at the advantages of prohibition. Why, he asks, did Congress seek to prohibit the sale of nonintoxicating cider and fruit juices? A strict interpretation of paragraph 29 must hold it to be unlawful to sell the fresh-pressed juice of the grape or apple. Senator Sheppard was caught unprepared for Senator Tydings' counter-attack.

The question is readily answerable. Paragraph 29 prohibits the sale of nonintoxicating cider and fruit juices. Why Congress should have seen fit to ban such transactions is immaterial beside the fact that apparently it did do so. In view of paragraph 29, how can California grape growers continue their campaign of marketing fresh grape juice? How can Prohibition Director Woodcock presume that it is within the scope of his authority to ignore such open violation of the law?

FAIR DEAL.

Public Does Not Approve of the Bonus Bill, Says Virginia Democrat.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The people of this country will thoroughly agree with your editorial, "The Bonus Blunder," appearing in Monday's issue of The Post. While every true American is anxious to see the veterans well and fairly treated, it is obvious that the bill is injurious not only to the veterans but to every other person in this country, because of the far-reaching effect it will have on the already burdened condition of our financial structure.

It would seem that the rank and file of the veterans themselves would be able to understand that the strain on the United States Treasury, such as the proposed bill will entail, will necessarily prolong the present depression and thereby work a hardship on every American. The bill which has been presented has not been given careful consideration, and the haste in which it is proposed to rush it through clearly shows that the backers of the bill are making a bold bid for political purposes. If it is finally enacted into law over the President's veto those members of Congress who vote for it should be made to pay every dollar that is paid out under it, because the voters are not in favor of the bill and would, if given an opportunity, replace every member who votes in favor of it.

VIRGINIA DEMOCRAT.

First Grackle of Spring Appears in Franklin Square.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Monday morning I was sitting in Franklin Square feeding the squirrels and pigeons. I was surprised to notice the first harbinger of spring; that is the purple grackle. It had a very long tail and pretty yellow eyes, and its coloring consisted of many hues of beautiful purple. Usually where one grackle is found you find others in the near vicinity, but it was not so in the case of the one in Franklin Square. It was the lone member of its tribe.

The grackle migrates to the South in the fall and returns North with the first signs of spring. The one I saw had more courage than its associates which were left in the Sunny South. It will not be long before grackles will be returning to the city parks in large flocks. Let us hope that the forerunner of the flock is an accurate prophet of the weather that is soon to follow.

Rev. Mr. McAdie's Criticism of Senate Finds Approval in Washington.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is refreshing and inspiring to read in The Post the letter from the Rev. R. C. McAdie, of San Francisco. That it is inspirational is attested to by the fact that it has inspired me to take up my pen and say "the same here; me, too." I have been waiting, longing to see, to read, somewhere, to hear a voice that would adequately express and define the boyish, irresponsible, inane doings and sayings of the present Senate. I was strongly tempted to "take a hand" and use my pen in protest at the unstatesmanlike proceedings of these senators, but always felt the inadequacy of my power to do justice to sufficiently condemn in words of English their regrettable words and acts.

But the Rev. Mr. McAdie, all the way from California, has summed it up in just the proper language—lucent, direct and forceful, in which all right-thinking citizens concur.

TRUTH.

GANDHI AND VICEROY CONFER FOR PEACE

Nationalist Leader Feels Optimistic as He Leaves Palace.

MAY WIN HIS DEMANDS

New Delhi, India, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi and the Viceroy of India, the two men who personify the clashing principles at the bottom of all of India's troubles, talked over their differences for four hours today and when Gandhi left the vice regal palace he said he was satisfied, even optimistic.

Lord Irwin, who is all the might of the British empire in India, met the toothless, half-clad little man, whose whole life is bound up in the campaign for Indian independence, and they called each other "dear friend." It was a strange sort of peace conference.

Gandhi came here from Allahabad at the viceroy's invitation. It was the first time the two men, so oddly assorted, had talked over their mutual problems together. They will have another talk tomorrow and for as many days thereafter as seems necessary.

Gandhi Is Cheerful.

Neither said much about what had passed between them, but it was obvious from Gandhi's cheerful manner that the meeting had been satisfactory to him.

The conditions of a settlement, as outlined by the viceroy yesterday to some of his intimates, provide for the granting of nearly all Gandhi's demands if he will call off his civil disobedience campaign and cooperate in working out a constitution for India along the lines of Ramsay MacDonald's declaration at the end of the London round table conference.

With the apparently satisfactory outcome of today's meeting it began to look as though the two would come to an eventual agreement.

The conversation was characterized by great cordiality, and the fact that it lasted more than two hours beyond the time allotted by the viceroy was interpreted as being a good omen.

Written Notes Made.

After Gandhi and Lord Irwin had discussed matters in a general way for nearly three hours the viceroy suggested they make written notes so as to put into concrete form their respective demands.

The conversations would have continued well into the evening had not Gandhi made the plea to the viceroy that he would be deprived of food unless he left immediately, as his rule is never to eat after sundown. With a hearty handshake he said good-by and drove to his quarters in a small American automobile. There he began almost immediately his usual evening prayers.

He looked cheerful, even buoyant, but somewhat fatigued.

"If you press me with questions it means I must starve tonight," he pleaded as newspapermen importuned him to give them some inkling of the situation.

Stocks on London Exchange Decline

$400,000,000 Slump in Values Is Registered on Heavy Selling.

London, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Continuous selling of government securities on the stock exchange has depreciated six leading government stocks more than $400,000,000 in market value within the past week.

Brokers attribute the selling wave to fresh fears inspired in nervous investors by Chancellor Snowden's recent speech in the House of Commons in which he called attention to the bad state of the country's finances and indicated the necessity for drastic curative measures.

Fears also have arisen regarding plans formulated by the Labor party and its Liberal allies in which money is to be put down without earning dividends, and heavy blocks of stocks have been sold by continental interests which are large holders of war loans.

MANY HURT IN PANIC AT ITALIAN THEATER

Audience Rushes to Exits of Rome Film House When Ceiling Falls.

13 SERIOUSLY INJURED

Rome, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The crash of the ceiling in the Morgana Theater here and the stampede of the holiday crowd from the darkened building during the showing of a picture today led to more or less serious injuries to thirteen persons and slighter hurts to dozens.

Panic seized the crowd which filled the house during the celebration of a Mardi Gras half-holiday. Shrieks and groans came from those dashing wildly for the exits. And then above the pandemonium rose the strains of the orchestra, which tried to quiet the confusion by playing royal and Fascist airs.

Firemen, who soon arrived at the scene, opened all emergency exits and then hacked other openings through which others escaped. Attendants at the theater quickly turned on the lights, which somewhat reassured the spectators and probably prevented further casualties.

The theater, which combines a playhouse and motion picture house, was dark when the ceiling suddenly tumbled down on the startled men, women and children during the showing of the film, "I Promessi Sposi." In a minute the crowd had left their seats and was rushing toward the exits and crying to get out.

Ambulances carried the most seriously injured to hospitals. Others returned to their homes after being treated for cuts and bruises and other small injuries.

Railway Terminal Sought on E Street

May Files Application for Mt. V., A. & W. Depot but Denial Is Likely.

R. L. May, sole owner of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway, yesterday filed a formal petition with the Public Utilities Commission for permission to establish a new terminal on E street, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets. The action was interpreted as a gesture to appease Alexandria authorities and directors of the Arlington-Fairfax Railway Co., who have protested vigorously against the abandonment of the line.

The commission is expected to deny the petition, as it would bring the line up Fourteenth street and across Pennsylvania avenue to E street.

Mr. May recently announced his intention of abandoning the line unless a part of the cost of repairs was borne by the Arlington-Fairfax Co. It was agreed at a conference of Federal and District authorities and Mr. May that a bill would be introduced in Congress to pay $200,000 for the line's tracks in the Mall Triangle area.

BUTLER EVADES QUIZ ON MUSSOLINI ISSUE

Marine Officer, in Chicago, Talks Freely but Not on Duce as Driver.

SPEAKS IN SOUTH BEND

Chicago, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler has decided that "he who treads softly treads far."

The Marine commander, who was recently censured for a speech, in which he related an episode of which he had been told, describing Premier Mussolini as a hit-and-run driver, was very affable when reporters met him at a train today. He smiled and answered questions, but not all the questions the reporters asked him.

He was asked what he thought of the recent stories told by Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., concerning his auto ride with the Italian premier.

"It's lovely weather you're having in Chicago," replied Gen. Butler.

Another questioner asked him if he expected anything more to come of the incident.

"The war is over so far as I'm concerned," he said.

Asked if he would speak of the Mussolini affair at the banquet he was to attend at South Bend tonight, Gen. Butler said he was "just going to dinner."

Then he smiled and said slowly: "There's an old Chinese proverb, 'He who treads softly treads far.'"

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler slipped quietly into South Bend tonight for a dinner address on "anything but the Mussolini incident."

Reporters and movie cameramen were at the station to meet him, but they went away empty handed. He declined to be interviewed "because any other subject would not be interesting, and I won't talk about Premier Mussolini."

He refused to pose for sound pictures, saying: "I never had movies of me taken before, and I don't see why I should now."

The Knife and Fork Club, a social organization of South Bend business men, was Butler's host. They invited him to choose his topic and he indicated that "local crime conditions and their cure" would be it.

Chest Board Seeks Federal Employes

Change in By-Laws Asked to Admit Governmental Workers on List.

Proposals for a change in the by-laws of the Community Chest in order to grant representation on the board of trustees to the governmental workers, will be considered at a meeting of the board to be held today at 4:30 o'clock, at the United States Chamber of Commerce Building. Such change in by-laws would add 31 new members to the board of trustees, which is at present composed of two members representing each of the 62 organizations in the Chest, and one member, representing the contributors, for each organization.

"Because of the magnificent response of the Government departments to the appeal of the Community Chest this year, and the enthusiastic interest shown in the campaign by their representatives, we feel that this large portion of our citizenship should have representation upon the governing body of the Chest. We are proposing, therefore, that the board authorize an increase of one-sixth in its membership in order that this number of Government representatives can be added."

Plans for the annual meeting of the Chest, at which the banners awarded in the recent campaign shall be permanently placed, will be made at today's meeting.

True Bills Name Stock Salesmen

Two Men Are Indicted on Embezzlement Counts in District.

Arthur Judson Young, alias J. H. Holmes, and Earle Smith, stock salesmen, were named in separate indictments yesterday in which embezzlement is charged.

Smith, said to reside at Ocean City, Md., is alleged to have embezzled $2,150.12 from Miss Leila M. Sponseller, of the Kenesaw Apartments. Smith is said to be held in Snow Hill, Md., and is reported to be refusing to waive extradition. He is accused of selling stock intrusted to him by the woman and appropriating the money to his own use.

Young is accused of embezzling $3,347 from Lillian C. Northern, of 1461 Girard street northwest. The money is alleged to have been given him to purchase stock.

SNOWDEN TALK HELD RESIGNATION THREAT

Position Intolerable if One Is Suspected at Every Step, He Says.

CALLS HIS JOB DIFFICULT

London, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—In parliamentary circles tonight it was reported that Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, had threatened to resign at a meeting this afternoon of the Labor parliamentary party.

The official report of the meeting showed that Mr. Snowden had said:

"I have a difficult job. The full blast of the economic blizzard has come on my head. If every step one makes is to be treated with suspicion, or if one is charged with perfidy, one's position becomes intolerable."

Referring to his speech in the House of Commons last Wednesday, in which he warned of "drastic and disagreeable measures" which must be taken in these times of economic stress, the chancellor said his reference to temporary sacrifices implied no cut in wages, and that what he meant was that workers would have to undergo temporary suspension of plans for social development.

THIS YEAR'S DEFICIT NEAR $100,000,000

port mail in American ships than it does in foreign ships.

Inasmuch as the franking privilege appears to be an established custom, and inasmuch as all Americans seem agreed that the merchant marine and the air mail should be helped out, the Postoffice Department does not feel that the money lost through these should be charged up to a postal deficit. Hence the department placed the deficit last year at $58,000,000.

The prospect this year is that the deficit will be much greater than that. In the first four months of the fiscal year of 1931 the deficit was $10,000,000 more than it was for that period in the last fiscal year. If this continues, the deficit at the end of this fiscal year will be $40,000,000 more than it was last year, or a total deficit of $98,000,000.

Commenting on this fact, President Hoover said:

"It would be only just to the country that there should be an increase in revenue to meet this growing burden on the department."

The congressional committee, the creation of which President Hoover soon will recommend, probably will be a joint one, composed of both senators and representatives, and it will probably make its investigation this summer.

The problem which it must solve is what rates should be increased. The postal service carries letter mail, newspapers and other periodical publications, circular matter, and parcel post, all at different rates. Also it provides money-order service, collect-on-delivery service, and registry service, for which it charges varying fees.

As Postmaster General Brown has pointed out, the Postoffice Department has keen competition in all these services with the exception of one—the first-class, or letter, mail. No agency can profitably carry a letter across the country for 2 cents.

On the other hand, railroads, express companies, steamship lines, motor buses and other carriers are able to transport newspapers, magazines, circulars and merchandise of various kinds, while banks and telegraph companies are in a position to transfer funds.

To increase postal rates on the carrying of newspapers, magazines or merchandise, Postmaster General Brown has argued, would be to drive away postal business and diminish postal revenue.

Hence it appears to him that the only solution is to increase the rate on letter mail, where the Government has a monopoly.

When Postmaster General Brown suggested this in his annual report, there was pretty much of an outcry, editorial and otherwise, and it is likely that there would be another outcry if a congressional committee made such a suggestion.

Auto Manufacturers Raise Output Schedules

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Advances in production by several automobile manufacturers over schedules originally planned for February indicate a substantial increase in February production by the industry, a survey by Dow, Jones & Co., says.

Ford currently is producing upward of 7,000 units daily for three days a week, indicating a February output of around 84,000, compared with 55,182 units in January. There is said to be strong likelihood that the present schedule may be stepped up before the close of the month.

LADY WILKINS TO GO UNDER ICE WITH HUSBAND TO NORTH POLE

if the exploration trip under sea and ice may be fraught with dangers and turn out to be a bore, the fact that she will be with her husband instead of staying at home and spending weeks in suspense will more than make up for these risks.

And she has had plenty of experience in watchful waiting.

Lady Wilkins, then Miss Suzanne Bennett, was playing on Broadway in September, 1928, when she met and later became engaged to Sir Hubert, who in April of that year had made his historic flight over the top of the world from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Green Harbor, Spitzbergen. Within a few weeks of their becoming engaged, Sir Hubert left for the Antarctic on the first of his two south polar expeditions.

It was months before he returned, and on August 30, 1929, they were married by a justice of the peace in Cleveland. But a short time later, Sir Hubert headed his second expedition to the Antarctic, leaving his bride behind.

Take Honeymoon on Zeppelin.

It was during this period of waiting that the spirit of adventure awoke in Lady Wilkins, who is a slender brunette, and soon after his return to New York she suggested a belated honeymoon trip on the Graf Zeppelin to Germany. And when the big dirigible left Lakehurst, Sir and Lady Wilkins were among the passengers.

On their return after an extended wedding trip through Europe, Lady Wilkins took up flying, her husband being one of the pioneer airmen of the world, his experience dating back to the days of ballooning.

The submarine which will carry Sir and Lady Wilkins and a party of other adventurers, including Lincoln Ellsworth, the American who flew with Roald Amundsen across the North Pole, will leave this country about June 1, and will proceed across the Atlantic to Advent Bay, Spitzbergen, via Bermuda, the Azores and London.

The Nautilus is one of the old-fashioned, round-bellied type of submarine which was in use some years ago, but has given way to the modern, elongated type adopted after the war.

Has Unique Features.

At the ship yards at Camden, N. J., the vessel has been completely rebuilt and equipped with a number of features which will enable her to cope with the dangers of the Arctic Sea—the icebergs, the floes and the fields of ice and snow.

Her snub nose is armored with a long ram and on her back she carries three sharp fins, like the armor of a prehistoric monster, which will enable her to cut a path in the ice if caught below. A jack knife periscope, which folds back when it strikes an obstruction, will prevent the submarine from losing its "eye." Two boring shafts with which the crew will be able to drill through 100 feet of ice will keep the submarine's supply of air fresh even if she should have to remain submerged for hours.

Both Lady Wilkins and her husband are natives of Melbourne, Australia, but both have spent years in this country. Lady Wilkins has appeared on the stage here in several musical shows and melodramas. At the time of her marriage she gave her age as 28, and Sir Hubert said he was 40.

Any COLD

That cold may lead to something serious, if neglected. The time to do something for it is now. Don't wait until it develops into bronchitis. Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin as soon as you feel a cold coming on. Or as soon as possible after it starts. Bayer Aspirin will head off or relieve the aching and feverish feeling—will stop the headache. And if your throat is affected, dissolve two or three tablets in a quarter-glassful of warm water, and gargle. This quickly soothes a sore throat and reduces inflammation and infection. Read proven directions for neuralgia, for rheumatism and other aches and pains. Genuine Bayer Aspirin is harmless to the heart.

O'NEIL ASKS EARLY AID FOR VETERANS

Head of Legion Appeals to Senate for Immediate Relief Action.

WIRE IS SENT TO SMOOT

Charlotte, N. C., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander of the American Legion, appealed to the United States Senate today for immediate action on veterans' relief legislation

Mr. O'Neil, in North Carolina to attend a State legion meeting, telegraphed Senator Reid Smoot, chairman of the Senate finance committee, asking that his committee lose no time in reporting the veterans' bill.

"The present legion interest in adjusted compensation legislation," his message said, "is inspired by the plight of veterans and their families in need through unemployment and drought. The Senate problem from the viewpoint of the American Legion is to take immediate action on this legislation.

"May we ask you, as chairman of the finance committee, that your committee immediately report a bill, and your help in securing a law within the next few days will be greatly appreciated.

"We would not urge legislation that would place a financial burden upon our country, but we are convinced that a law can be enacted that will not be burdensome and yet give substantial relief.

"Thanking you for your help.

"RALPH T. O'NEIL.
"National Commander."

Commission Members Are Back From Canada

American members of the International Joint Commission between the United States and Canada returned to Washington last night following a week's conference with Canadian members in Toronto.

Chairman John H. Bartlett announced no agreement had yet been reached on the claims of 700 Washington State farmers against the Consolidated Smelting & Refining Co. of Trail, British Columbia, alleging $2,000,000 damages from smelting fumes drifting across the border. Another conference will be held in this city in a few days.

spent for jewels, furs, automobiles and other luxuries for his wife.

In opposing the request for release on bond pending his appeal, the Government filed vigorous objections, claiming that Pitts had "quick assets" which would enable him to have left the country at once. It claimed that he had possession of between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000 in Smith company funds, and that during the last five years he was known to have possessed foreign bonds aggregating about $250,000. His request for release on bond was denied three times in District Supreme Court, and last Saturday the District Court of Appeals denied his request.

United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder said last night that since no writs of attachment for the Pitts properties had been received by his office during the day, he had not acted in the matter as yet.

BONUS BILL IS NOW HEADED FOR APPROVAL OF SENATE

bill, but that whether he would do so depended on the temper of the committee today.

Other Republican leaders, including Senator Watson, believed the House bill would be reported today by the finance committee without change and that it would pass the Senate promptly with little or no change.

The lone voice raised in the Senate yesterday against the bill was that of Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho. Senator Borah expressed the hope that some means would be found to limit the loan bill to the relief of veterans actually in distress, under which circumstances he said he would support it.

Eleven Points Outlined.

The argument that the bill would necessitate no additional Treasury financing, but would take care of itself, was made by Senator Vandenberg, original sponsor of the 50 per cent loan measure.

To correct what he termed "misconceptions" of the legislation, he outlined eleven points which he called a "succinct summary of facts" in connection with the measure. They were:

1. A total of 3,500,000 adjusted compensation certificates were issued with a maturity value of $3,500,000,000, the average certificate being $1,000.

2. The total loan value on the certificates to date is $730,000,000.

3. Total loans on the certificates to date, $325,000,000, leaving $405,000,000 in unused loan privileges.

4. To date 48 per cent of certificate holders have used 43 per cent of existing loan privileges.

Increase Is Cited.

5. Pending bill increases from 22 to 50 per cent the amount that may be borrowed on face value of certificates, adding a grand maximum of approximately $1,000,000,000 to loan privileges. But if the same percentage of loans persists under bill as under the present law it will add "only about $430,000,000 to outstanding loans."

6. The $430,000,000, therefore, is the additional financing required by the pending bill. In other words, it is a little more than the Treasury already is obligated to make all veterans.

7. The Treasury has deposited $750,000,000 in certificates of indebtedness to the maturity fund and can cover the $430,000,000 by these certificates leaving $326,000,000 over in the fund.

8. To finance the $430,000,000 additional loans the Treasury must redeem for cash certificates of indebtedness in the fund. In the next twelve months the Treasury will have $403,000,000 to reduce the public debt and under the law it can retire the certificates up to this amount.

No Additional Burden.

9. Even if total loans exceed expectations, the handling will only be a "credit operation and doesn't involve any additional tax burden at any point in the calculation."

10. If the insurance were a regular one payment, 20 pay life policy, the loan value today would be 53 per cent instead of 50 per cent, as proposed.

11. Even on the basis of the present terms of the compensation certificates insurance the loan value would reach the same 50 per cent in 1937. The only thing, therefore, that is proposed is to "move the loan privileges ahead by six years."

WAGNER ASKS PARTY TO SPONSOR REPEAL

floor of the doctrine of impossibility," he said. "You tell me repeal is impossible. I answer you it is inevitable. You tell me that a small minority of the States can prevent it. I know they can, but I am sure they will not."

Senator Wagner said the issue could not be avoided, but must be faced under "courageous leadership."

"That, unfortunately, we can not expect from our President," he continued. "With the report of the Wickersham commission in his hands, Mr. Hoover had a rare opportunity to exercise his prerogative and lead a grateful people out of the morass of criminality, corruption and hypocrisy in which we have been bogged for eleven years. He has thrown it away."

In outlining the methods under which States might act to prevent the return of the saloon should the dry law be repealed, Senator Wagner suggested such methods as Statewide prohibition, State dispensaries, a public corporation to manufacture and sell liquor, "or any other device, now known or unknown, as long as it is inconsistent with the return of the saloon."

Capital Man Indicted in Robbery.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Feb. 17.—A special corporation court grand jury today indicted Herbert Lukie, of Washington, D. C., accused of holding up the Commercial Hotel early Sunday and rifling the cash drawer of overnight receipts.

Lukie was captured at a filling station shortly after the robbery. No date was set for a trial.

SENATE VOTE PROBE IRKS GROCER NORRIS

Authority Is Contested in Demurrer Filed by Man in Nebraska.

ARGUMENTS DUE SOON

Lincoln, Nebr., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—George W. Norris, the grocer who was indicted for perjury in connection with his testimony before the Senate campaign fund committee, after he attempted to oppose Senator George W. Norris in his race for reelection, today filed a demurrer challenging the authority of the Senate to investigate primary election campaigns.

William E. Shuman, of North Platte, attorney for the grocer, filed the demurrer in Federal court. It was similar to the one recently filed by Victor Seymour, Republican leader, who also was indicted for perjury in connection with his testimony before the committee headed by Senator Gerald Nye. The similarity of the demurrers will make argument on the two perjury indictments possible at the same time.

Federal Judge T. C. Munger indicated the arguments probably would be heard next month, but no date has been set. Seymour also challenged the right of the Nye committee to investigate primary campaigns.

Grocer Norris was indicted on two counts by the Federal grand jury here January 23.

The filing of the grocer as a primary campaign opponent of the senator of the same name led to the investigation in Nebraska by the Senate committee. The grocer's filing letter was ruled illegal by the State supreme court because it arrived late. His name did not appear on the ballot.

Warns Against False Papers.

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Another sign of better times in Wall street.

Assistant Attorney General Paul J. McCauley, in charge of the Bureau of Securities, issued a warning against high pressure sellers of worthless stock. The stock market revival, he said, has brought them out again.

ing, and immediately after the grand jury made its report were released.

"Evidence does not sufficiently indicate the guilt of any person or persons," the report stated.

Langdon before gaining his freedom, however had to post a $2,000 bond for appearance at trial on an indictment which charges him with possession of a still and possession of whisky.

Mrs. Langdon was with the policeman during most of the morning in one of the cells. Langdon as well as the others expressed gratification at their release.

Tribute was paid by the coroner's jury to the efforts of Capt. Edward J. Kelly, Sergt. John Flaherty and "other" members of the headquarters homicide squad, whom the jury declared "made a diligent effort to solve this crime," adding, "we want to emphasize the confidence we have in these men."

Several hours elapsed between the time when the girl was pronounced dead until the cause of her death was determined by the coroner, the body having been removed to an undertaking establishment several hours before the autopsy was performed," read the report.

"The authority to remove the body was granted by one of the deputy coroners over the telephone. The police were therefore materially handicapped at the outset of their investigation."

The report recommended an investigation of alleged "inadequate facilities and generally poor conditions existing at the District of Columbia Morgue," and that these conditions, if found to exist, be remedied.

The coroner's office had expressed a preference for performing autopsies at private undertaking establishments.

"We are of the opinion that the coroner and two deputy coroners are an inadequate force to properly perform such duties in a community the size of this city," the jury concluded.

PAIN after eating

WHAT many call "indigestion" is very often nothing but excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. The best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard antiacid with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this more pleasant way. A small bottle is sufficient to show its merit.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for more than 50 years in correcting excess acid. 25c and 50c a bottle; any drugstore. Complete directions for its many uses are enclosed with every bottle.

The Genuine Milk of Magnesia is always a liquid—never a tablet. Look for the Phillips' name on bottle.

Former Mardi Gras Queen Is Capital Visitor

Mrs. Hastings Is Guest of Waddens, Now of New York.

WHILE revelry and laughter reigned yesterday in New Orleans and the King and Queen of the Mardi Gras ruled for a few short hours, there was in Washington a former queen of the Southern carnival, Rose West, now Mrs. George Hastings, of New York. She is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Wadden and attended the reception of the Congressional Club on Monday night for Speaker and Mrs. Longworth.

Simultaneously with the news on Monday of the crowning of Miss Adele Jahncke, daughter of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke, as Queen of the Atleans in New Orleans, comes Mrs. Hastings, who a few years ago was chosen queen for the great day of masquerade in the Crescent City. A reigning beauty at the time of her victory over other "club queens" Rose West Hastings is one of the loveliest women seen in town in many a long day.

True to the traditions of Mardi Gras revelers Mrs. Hastings revealed only sketchy bits of the mystery and conspiracy that rule in the selection of favored kings and queens, of knights and ladies and maids in waiting.

Devious as Old World diplomacy are the paths that lead to the choice of the king and queen of the carnival. Even the committees, sitting in secret conclave, never reveal their personnel and, while the rulers of the realm of make-believe ride through the streets, their choice at the hands of committeemen remains forever a secret. However, all the world knows that ancestry, splendid and old, must combine with beauty in the final selection of the queen. One swift glance at Mrs. Hastings tells the "why and how" of her glory a few years ago.

Secrecy is the abiding law during the twelve months of preparation for the carnival. Mrs. Hastings declares that the committee on invitations, balls and what not are not disclosed. If guessed, they never are verified.

As queen of the Mardi Gras, Miss West supplied the magnificent carnival dress, but her jewels, she explained, were furnished by the committees. "What Price Glory" is the burden of the king. For his items of expense run sky high. The king furnishes his own regalia, entertains at the midnight suppers, has magnificent favors for the queen, the dukes, the knights and all the maids until "life is just one gift after another."

Reigning with Rose West as king in the masque of a few years ago was Mr. Stauffer, scion of one of New Orleans' oldest families and a business man of achievement.

Like all daughters of New Orleans, Mrs. Hastings is a graduate of Newcomb College. With Mr. Hastings she will return to New York tomorrow. They make their home at 71 Washington square south.

Mrs. Hoover Departs For Visit to Son.

Mrs. Hoover, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Butler, has gone to Asheville, N. C., where she will spend two or three days with her son, Mr. Herbert Hoover, jr.

She left Monday evening after the reception at the White House. This is the first trip Mrs. Hoover has made to Asheville since Christmas.

Preparing to join her husband, the new Minister from Haiti, Mr. Dantes Bellegarde, in Washington, Mme. Bellegarde will arrive in this country within a short time. She will be accompanied by their seven children.

Mr. Bellegarde presented his letters of credence to President Hoover on Monday. He is the first minister of the newly elected government. Although the United States is not represented in Haiti by a minister, a high commissioner was recently assigned to the post in place of a Marine officer.

Mr. Bellegarde is succeeding Mr. Ulrich Duvivier as chief of the Haitian mission in this country.

Commander Paolo Sbernadori, Air Attache of the Italian Embassy, left Washington yesterday for New York prior to sailing for his home in Rome where he will spend several weeks.

Senator Simeon D. Fess has been joined at the Carlton by his son, Mr. Lehr Fess, of Toledo, Ohio.

Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingham will entertain at dinner on the evening of March 10.

Marionettes Presented at Home of Eno

Make Feature of Three Plays Produced by Signor Basano.

The Italy-America Society of Washington entertained last evening at the home of Mr. William Phelps Eno, when Signor Remo Basano presented three plays with his famous Italian marionettes. The plays were presented in Italian, and were a Japanese farce, "Somebody Nothing," a scene from "Midsummer Night's Dream," and "Orlando Furioso."

Among those who attended the soiree were the Italian Ambassador, Nobil Giacomo de Martino, and members of the embassy staff; the Assistant Postmaster General and Mrs. Frederick A. Tilton, Gen. and Mrs. Dion Williams, Mrs. Henry P. Dimock, Judge and Mrs. Wilbur Turner, the second counselor of the Italian Embassy and Signora Catalani, Signorina Vittoria Catalani, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Davidge, Dr. David Jayne Hill, Baron and Baroness von Below, Mrs. Robert E. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. George Morris, Miss Annie Hegeman, Mrs. Samuel Williams Earle, Miss Alice Driggs, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. William McClellan Ritter, Miss Bell Gurnee, Capt. and Mrs. John P. Jackson, Mrs. M. de Clare Berry, Miss Sallie Hews Phillips, Mrs. Morris Evans, Miss Meta Evans, Mr. Charles Mason Remy, Mr. Henry Martin Clarke and Mr. Walter Davidge.

Of interest to Washington is the news of the appointment of the new British Minister to Switzerland, Sir Howard William Kennard, who in 1907 was attached to the embassy in Washington. Many Washingtonians will remember him during his service here. Sir Howard has been Minister to Stockholm, and will succeed Sir Claud Russell, who has been promoted from Berne to the embassy post in Portugal.

Sir Howard entered the diplomatic service in 1901 and has filled posts in Rome, Teheran, Havana, Tangier, Belgrade and London.

Mr. Lewis J. Pettijohn, member of the Federal Farm Loan Board, and Mrs. Pettijohn, entertained at dinner last evening at the Shoreham Hotel.

Miss Craig Is Married to Mr. Owens

Bridal Couple Depart on Extensive Journey to Cuba.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Patton Craig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patton Craig, and Mr. Thomas Robert Owens, took place at the Wardman Park Hotel yesterday at noon in the presence of the immediate family. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. William H. Houghton, of New York, cousin of the bride.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a traveling dress of English velour in maize color, trimmed with summer ermine collar and cuffs. She carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Owens left for an extended trip to Cuba. Upon their return they will be at home at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mr. Owens, who is chief of the division of foreign control in the Treasury Department, formerly served with the foreign service as consul at Bagdad.

Mrs. Powell and Daughters On West Indies Cruise.

Mrs. Lucien Whiting Powell and her two daughters, Mrs. Jesse Lewis Heiskell and Mrs. Francis A. Millott sailed on the Coamo for a West Indies cruise. They will stop off in San Juan to visit their cousin, Mrs. Louis Antonsanti, for a short time.

Mr. H. Percival Dodge, of the State Department, and Mrs. Dodge will sail on March 4, for Europe for a short vacation. They had planned to sail today, but postponed their trip.

Vice President Entertained by Mexican Envoy

Aguilar, and Mrs. Aguilar and the legal adviser to the Mexican Embassy, Dr. Anselmo Mena.

Mrs. Elmer O. Leatherwood and Mrs. Anderson H. Walters will join in entertaining a large party at luncheon at the Shoreham Hotel today.

Mrs. Francis I. du Pont, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Horace Wells, of Connecticut, have left after being the guests of Mrs. Robert E. Lee. They came to Washington to attend Mrs. Lee's luncheon for Mrs. Edward E. Gann.

Mrs. Lee has as her guests for a few days Mrs. J. S. Boatwright, of Roanoke, Va.; Mrs. Galt Smith, of Wilmington, Del., and Mrs. A. F. Miles, of Lynchburg, Va., who also came to Washington for the luncheon.

Consul General Berthold Singer, who represents Costa Rica in the Chicago district, and Mrs. Singer, will come to Washington next week as the guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. B. Alexander Singer, at the Shoreham Hotel, later proceeding on a West Indies cruise.

Mrs. Singer is the president of the Ladies of the Consuls of Chicago, an organization made up of the wives of foreign consuls in Chicago. The dinner-dances of this group are colorful and cosmopolitan social events resembling the diplomatic balls of Washington.

Arrangements have been completed for the annual Foundar's Day banquet of Theta Chapter of Gamma Delta Sigma Sorority to be held at the Raleigh Hotel on Saturday.

Mrs. Pike Entertains For Mrs. A. T. Smith

Mrs. Albert Pike entertained a large company at luncheon yesterday at the Shoreham Hotel in compliment to Mrs. Alfred T. Smith, wife of Col. Smith, assistant chief of staff of the Military Intelligence Division, U. S. A. Mrs. Pike's mother-in-law, Mrs. Yron Pike, and her daughter, Miss Mary Pike, assisted her in receiving.

The guests were Mrs. Francis Hagner, Mrs. David Blair, Mrs. H. F. Ward, Mrs. William F. Ham, Mrs. James W. Carmalt, Mrs. Frederick Marsh, Mrs. Richard Lane, Mrs. Henry Clay Carpenter, Mrs. Temple Gwathmey, Mrs. Charles Williams, Mrs. Charles Curtis, Mrs. B. T. White, Mrs. William A. Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Distler are at the Plaza Hotel in New York.

Mrs. Allen Rushton, of Birmingham, Ala., is visiting her mother, Mrs. David Hunt Blair, at Wardman Park Hotel. Mrs. Rushton was formerly Miss Adelaide Douglass.

Mrs. Arch Coleman, wife of the First Assistant Postmaster General, will entertain at luncheon today for Mrs. Christian Christensen, who with Mr. Christensen will leave Washington in the early spring to make their home in Madison, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Coleman will entertain at dinner on February 27, preceding the Friday Evening Dancing Class. They will have sixteen guests.

Mrs. Ralph Payne Craft, wife of Capt. Craft, U. S. N., will sail from New York tomorrow for a month's trip to Panama. Their daughter, Miss Beatrice Craft, will go to Philadelphia on Friday to attend the week-end party to be given by Commander and Mrs. C. C. Kress.

For the last time this season, wives of Naval Medical Corps officers residing on the Naval Hospital Reservation will be at home this afternoon from 4:30 to 6:30. The hostesses include Mrs. Theodore W. Richards, Mrs. William A. Angwin and Mrs. George F. Cottle.

The Friday Evening Dancing Class will hold the fourth dance of the season February 27, at the Willard with a number of interesting dinner parties preceding the event.

The dance is the fourth of seven dances given by this class, which is composed of members of the residential, official and diplomatic circles.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Herbert Crosby will be among those to entertain at a dinner in the crystal room before the dance.

Col. Michael C. Gallagher, of Cleveland, is at the Willard.

Commander G. A. Berry was host at dinner last evening at the Shoreham.

The marriage of Miss Emily Ritchie McLean Gardiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John deBarth Gardiner of 161 East Seventy-ninth street, New York, to Mr. Alvin Willard Neal, of Chattanooga, Tenn., will take place on March 12, at the Church of the Resurrection in New York. The wedding ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Bellinger, rector of St. Agnes' Chapel, assisted by Dr. Bourne, rector of the Church of the Resurrection.

Miss Gardiner will have as her only attendant Miss Allace Chase Carroll, and Mr. Lloyd Mulit will serve as best man for the bridegroom.

The ceremony, which will be attended by the immediate members of both families and a few intimate friends, will be followed by a small reception at Sherry's.

Miss Gardiner is the granddaughter of the late Mrs. Donald McLean, formerly president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and is a cousin of Gov. Albert Ritchie, of Maryland. She attended the Brearley School.

Mr. Neal, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. Bailey Neal, of Chattanooga, was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy last June.

The young couple will sail immediately for Buenos Aires, where they will spend the next three years.

YOUR NAME
What Does It Mean?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

The personal and family name "Guy" was introduced into England from France at a very early date. Its ultimate source, however, is the old high German noun "wig," meaning "battle," although there is evidence that there has been some confusion with the Germanic "wihas," meaning "holy," and the Germanic "widus," meaning "forest." In a few cases "Guy" may be traced back to the Latin "Vitus." "Vitus" was a personal name derived from "vita," meaning "life." A certain Robert Gy is mentioned in the Hundred Rolls, a famous list of thirteenth century English names. At the present time the derived forms "Guyon," "Guyot" and "Guyard" are especially common in France. This name has hundreds of variations in Germany. Some of the commonest are "Wieck," "Wicke," "Wiegel" and "Wiechel." The common Italian equivalents are the basic form "Guido" and the derived forms "Guidone" and "Guittone." It may be observed that a great many Italians on this continent bear the personal name "Guy." In some such cases "Guy" stands for the original name "Guido" (or one of its variations) and may therefore be considered a correct translation. However, it is evident that most frequently Italians in this country have adopted "Guy" as the supposed English equivalent of the quite different name "Gaetano." In England "Guy" was a rather popular personal name up to the time of the so-called "gunpowder plot" and the conspirator Guy Fawkes.

The family name "Holzer" is of German origin. It means "the woodcutter" and indicates the occupation of the persons who were first so called. Its most common variations are "Hoelzer" and "Holzhauer."

Dare Interprets the MODE

A smart black satin cire frock with white georgette collar and pleated jabot. (A Dah-ray design.)

Paris, Feb. 17.

MADAME HELENE believes in distinction, elegance and utter femininity in women's clothes, which means as far as the Maison Jenny is concerned, fewer sports clothes for active sports and very little spectator sports clothes. Morning frocks of silk or very light weight, fine woolens are created to replace these.

Of course, the more aristocratic and unique clothes are—and the more intricate and subtle their cut—the more difficult it is to copy them—and as every one knows, having their styles copied is the bane of a Haut Couturier's existence. Naturally the more difficult it is to copy a style, the less chance it will have to be worn by the "working-classes" who can't pay the price of an original.

* * * *

Out of soles and ribbon you can make 'em, and they are so flattering to your feet, you can't imagine! And then besides all that they cost so little, and besides that again they're fun to make. So honestly, now, do you see how in the world you could possibly do anything but sit down and send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet telling you how to make boudoir slippers? I don't see how you can!

* * * *

Fashion French.

Ton (tonh)—tone; Toque (toke)—toque, small hat; Torse (torsay)—twisted; Touffe (toof)—tuft; Tournure (tor-neur)—figure.

* * * *

There now, just the very dress you want for all around general wear, in black crepe marocain! The turned-over collar is double georgette, the front of the blouse is incrusted in a way to let the jabot of single georgette show through and hang free, and altogether, it's what the French call one of those "little dresses" for which one has a million and one uses, you know!

* * * *

And that's something new in ensembles, having a rose moire collar matched by the cuff on your black gloves and the front of the dress and the arm of the glove buttoned with rose quartz!

You'll always find interesting ideas and helpful suggestions in Dare's weekly fashion letter in The Sunday Washington Post.

Au revoir.

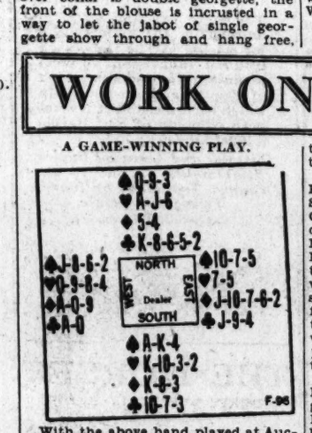
WORK ON BRIDGE

A GAME-WINNING PLAY.



With the above hand played at Auction Bridge, South would bid one No Trump, West would double and North either would redouble or bid two No Trumps. Two No Trumps would hold the contract; if North redoubled, East would bid two Diamonds and it is doubtful whether South would bid two No Trumps or pass.

However, the hand was played at Contract, and at that game South bid one No Trump, West doubled and North (knowing that a combined count of 24 will make game seven times for each one that it loses) bid three No Trumps.

In the play West led the Four of Hearts and Declarer passed it up to South's Ten. South then led a small Club and West played the Ace. Another Heart from West was won by North's Jack, and North then led the King and another Club, establishing the suit; but East won the third Club with the Jack and, rising to the occasion, led the Jack of Diamonds. South foolishly covered with the King and the adversaries ran five Diamonds which, in addition to the two Clubs previously made, set the Declarer three tricks.

Instead of taking the severe set, Declarer should have made an easy game. When North won the second Heart, he should have led the Ace of Hearts and then put South in the lead with a Spade, after which South should have cashed his King of Hearts and then led a second Club; and when West played the Queen, North should not have covered. If West had held the Jack in addition to the Queen, this play would not have made any difference; but with the Jack in the East hand, it was essential. Played in that way North and South would have taken three Spades, four Hearts and three Clubs—ten tricks.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(American Red Cross.)

Cereals are eaten in larger quantities than any other foods, not only in this country, but over all the world; rice in Eastern and Southern countries, wheat in the West. The reasons are obvious: cereals can be widely grown; their products can be transported and stored without deterioration; they are concentrated sources of energy; they are among the cheapest foods. They will probably continue to make up the largest part of the diet of humanity. Whole grains, including the germ and much of the bran of the outer coat, furnish a considerable amount of protein of good quality and some minerals. Highly milled cereals must be supplemented by the addition of foods containing protein, all the necessary minerals and all the vitamins; whole-grain cereal products by the addition particularly of foods containing calcium and Vitamins A, C and D.

Mix the chicken, pimentos, peppers, salt, paprika and mayonnaise. Mix well and spread on bread. Cut off the slices. Quickly roll each sandwich and tie in place with narrow red, white and blue ribbon. Pile in a sandwich basket, the handle of which is tied with more red, white and blue ribbon.

Continental Sandwiches.

½ cup finely chopped celery.
4 tablespoons chopped sweet pickles.
¼ cup chopped olives.
4 tablespoons salad dressing.

Mix ingredients and spread on slices of white bread. Cover with other buttered slices. Cut into triangular shapes. Arrange flat on a tray and garnish with red carnations.

Washington Circles.

18 two-inch circles of white bread.
5 tablespoons soft butter.
1 cup white cream cheese.
18 thin strips pimentos.
¼ cup grape jelly.

Spread the circles with butter and then with the cheese. Arrange strips of pimentos around the edges and dot the centers with grape jelly. Arrange flat on a serving tray and garnish with red and white carnations.

Wives of Tomorrow
FRANCES M'DONALD

DEAR FRANCES M'DONALD: The same old problem and the same old question, "Married Men."

I am a girl under 20 years of age. Have had the usual number of boy friends and my share of good times. Yet there is only one that I care about. I have also seen a lot of life's hard knocks and a lot of unhappiness in married and family life.

Now for the other side of the story, he was married very young and has since regretted the step. The feeling seems to be mutual as his wife cares nothing for him. They are not living together and have not been for some time. Is it wrong for me to go out with this man? Do you think that such a man could be faithful, truthful, &c. I am a modern girl in lots of ways, but still cling to the old-fashioned ideas of marriage. Please give me some advice. POLLY.

Polly, my dear, the fact that a man married the wrong woman in his youth is no indication of lack of any of the qualities you mention. His early mistake handicaps him considerably and makes him less desirable as a husband because of this handicap. But further than that he is as good as new.

If you are certain that he is the only man out of the many million on earth who can make your life complete you have as much right to consider him as you would if he were single. You should, however, see that he secures a divorce before you go about with him as otherwise you could very easily be dragged into unnecessary unpleasantness.

If he has not taken that fact into consideration then that would indeed count against him, as a real man thinks of these things and sees to it that no woman in whom he is interested is exposed to unjust criticism.

This marriage and giving in marriage is a pesky business, Polly, at best, but we do make it more complicated than necessary by the things we do and the way we go about doing them. For instance, I would wager that you pass a dozen men a day on the street who could make your heart do all the hand springs that this lover can occasion. Yet you pick on him and no one but him will do. If you would pick on one of the others there would be no former wife to share his meager income, no complications from the past. But because we are as we are, you want him.

Look around a bit more, Polly girl. See if there is not somewhere a man who will not be encumbered with a past that includes a wife and all the disillusionment and all the memories and bitter experiences that entails. Men who think they know all about women are terrible to live with and once a man has been married he sets himself up as an authority on the whole sex. Married men are worse than married women that way—and you know there never was a married woman who did not think she knew all about men because she knew her Henry.

Take him, if you must, Polly, but see America first.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS"

IF February 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to noon, from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

The planetary aspects of February 18 denote stress and excitement. Mature judgment will be needed to avoid a morass of complications, and it must be borne in mind, especially at this time, that "all is not gold that glitters." Beware of new connections!

A child born on this February 18, can, by its natural force of character and strong personality, easily become "a hero in the strife." It will be rather unconventional, but never unbridled. It will, however, always seek to conciliate, rather than to antagonize. Its love will be deep-rooted. If you were born on a February 18, your mind is as active as your body, and you flit from one task to another with equal mental and physical enthusiasm. You are tireless, and can never seek rest in repose. You are always "on the go." If your activities were confined by sound judgment, your restless energies would reap a reward commensurate with your "pep." The signs, unfortunately, denote that you are a Jack or a Jill of many trades, but Master or Mistress of none.

Versatility is a great asset, but is not as valuable, in these times, as concentration and specializing. Great rewards await you, if, choosing the one vocation in which you find the greatest delight, you devote all your time and all your energies to its steady pursuit.

You are a brilliant conversationalist, and hardly any subject can be broached on which you are not willing to express an opinion. Your convictions, however, are few. As a friend or a lover, you express in actions the dangerous theory that "variety is the spice of life." The stars indicate that you were born without ballast. This is a handicap that can be overcome by tying-up at the nearest port, and securing a load sufficient to prevent being tossed hither and thither by every wave of fad, fancy, and desire.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

BROTHERLY QUARRELS.

To the adult who has not had a wide contact with children it must seem as if they spend a good deal of their time quarreling with each other.

During the period during which the child is showing an increasing interest in group play there are more quarrels than at any other time. They are indeed one important means by which the child becomes socialized.

Through his conflicts with other children he learns both how to assert himself and how to give in, how to compromise and how to face his own mistakes.

Children's quarrels are also an excellent means of letting off steam. The aggressiveness they feel but can not freely express toward adults and toward the rules under which they live finds a harmless outlet in quarrels with their equals.

There is, however, a type of quarreling between brothers and sisters which springs from jealousy and which constantly permits one child to bully and dominate while it reinforces the inferiority feeling of the other.

Such situations must be studied honestly and thoughtfully by the parents, since it is they who are primarily responsible for these conditions. Fairness in all dealings, the absence of favoritism and the avoidance of comparisons between brothers and sisters will prevent such conflicts from arising and will usually serve to stop them even if they have already developed.

It helps, too, if parents show their disapproval of excessive and mean spirited quarreling through visiting their disfavor impartially upon both children.

Separating the children and sending each into temporary exile is a suitable way of impressing upon them your disapproval of the fact that they have been disturbing the peace of the home.

REPOTTING PLANTS IN FEBRUARY.

NOW that the days are lengthening, your plants will begin to show signs of growth. This is due to the fact that they have light a little longer and sun a little stronger. As they are entering a period of growth it is well to give them more root room, as this is one of the times when they respond to transplanting. New soil, after they get over the shock of having their roots disturbed, always has a tonic effect on them.

Before starting to transplant them it is well to make sure that you have soil that meets their requirements. So many persons fail to realize the importance of proper soil. Florists devote much time to the proper preparation of their soil and it is largely due to this care that they raise such perfect flowers. With only a minimum amount of labor you can readily change the soil you have so that it will meet the requirements of the ordinary house plant.

For example, should your soil be rather heavy, with more clay than loam in it, you can change it by adding sand. Thus you will have converted an almost impossible soil for some kinds of house plants into a light, friable one that will furnish the necessary elements for the development of all varieties of strong roots. Any kind of sand available will do, but coarse, sharp sand is best. By experimenting with the soil you will be able to determine the quantity needed.

A good test is to mix some sand and soil together. Then take it up in the hand and squeeze it firmly together. If, when the pressure is released, the soil crumbles and falls apart, or even shows a tendency to do so, it is safe to conclude that you have used enough sand. This will make an ideal soil for most strong-rooted plants. Plants having finer roots of the fibrous sort will do better in a soil containing more loam than clay. In fact, leafmold usually suits them better than loam.

Leafmold, you know, has a large percentage of the vegetable matter which is essential to many of our soft wooded plants. Always use sand in combination with leafmold, to keep the loam porous. Not so much sand, however, as when clay or garden loam is the basis of your soil. Leafmold is springy and will not pack and become hard as does clay when it is watered.

Finely ground bonemeal is a welcome addition to most soils used for house plants. This is a safe form of nourishment.

False Hopes on Excess Fat
Some Ways Harmful—Some Absurd

Many false helps are offered to the overfat. Some are harmful, some absurd. All disappoint. Do what modern doctors do. They combat the gland cause. It is time to end the fakes in this line, for the good of all.

Your Doctor Knows Best

Medical science has discovered that a great cause of excess fat lies in a weakened gland. That gland largely controls nutrition. One function is to help change food into fuel and energy rather than into fat. People grow over-fat, despite diet and activity, if that gland secretion is scant.

That theory is now accepted the world over. So modern physicians everywhere combat that cause. They do this by feeding the over-fat the factor which is lacking. No starvation, no over-exercise, no harmful drugs. The results in late years have amazed the world. Excess fat has been fast disappearing. Slender figures are the vogue. New health, new beauty, new joy, new efficiency have come to countless people.

This is to urge that you use what doctors use, not what they denounce.

Basis of Marmola

Marmola prescription tablets supply this new, this scientific help. They are prepared by a world-famous medical laboratory to fit the average case. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. Users have told others, and the use has grown.

Now Fat is Folly

Excess fat has now rarely an excuse. That blight to beauty, health and vim has found a scientific foe. It is easy to combat a major cause, and multitudes have proved it.

Take four Marmola tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. Be moderate in all things, but don't starve, don't over-do. Fight fat in Nature's way, by supplying what Nature is failing to supply. You will then be doing what the best physicians do today.

Formula in Box

Marmola has no secrets. The formula appears in every box. A book explains the reason for results. You will know what you are taking and why.

As the pounds drop away there come other results—all explained in the book. New health, new vitality. The gland secretion which fights fat inspires other ductless glands. The good results are often far-reaching and amazing.

Marmola is supplied by druggists—$1 a box. Go try it, read the book in box, then watch results. Stop foolish treatments—do the right thing. Then, when you get the results you seek, tell other folks who need it. Go start today.

The Life Story of Gen. Wood

By HERMANN HAGEDORN

CHAPTER XLVI.

On September 10, 1921, Gen. Wood's mission left Manila on an errand which bore closely on the destinies of the Philippines even though the Secretary of War had not referred to it in his formal letter of instructions. The situation in the Far East was troubling the American Government. Not only the yellow press, which always barked at Japan, but responsible men in the Army and Navy, with knowledge of conditions in the Orient, were convinced that war with Japan was imminent. One of the reasons Harding had urged Wood to take the governorship of the Philippines had been his conviction that a statesman was needed to represent the United States in the Pacific, and arrangements for a visit of the mission to China and Japan had been concluded before Wood and Forbes had left the United States. With the prospect that a conference for the limitation of armaments would assemble in Washington on the third anniversary of the armistice, diplomatic "conversations" became highly desirable.

For Naval Force in Pacific.

In the American Legation at Peking the mission held a conference on the Eastern situation with the minister, Jacob Gould Schurman.

"The opinion of all present was to the effect that our withdrawal from the Philippines at this time would be very disastrous to American prestige, trade and to the general Eastern situation," Wood wrote in his diary, "and a further encouragement to Japan to continue inroads on Chinese territory and interests. I stated that, in my opinion, our position in the Pacific and peace in the Pacific depended very largely upon having an adequate naval force in those waters and that such a force would tend to hold the aspirations of Japan in check and prevent trouble.

"I said further that I did not believe there was any need of trouble between the United States and Japan if we could only get together and decide upon a definite policy; that the question as to how far we could continue to intervene in Asiatic affairs is one that ought to be taken up and decided as a matter of national policy; it is all right to maintain the Monroe Doctrine and stand for the open door, but whether we could indefinitely continue to protest against Japanese expansion in northeastern Asia was a question which was open to serious consideration."

Wood was conscious, among the distinguished Chinese he met, of a groping toward a national integration.

"They realize that they are unable to defend their own rights, and that they have strength—plenty of it—but no organization. * * *

"I said that there was only one way in which people could maintain their rights, and that was that they must be not only just and decent but organized and strong; spoke of the value of military training for the making of good citizenship, the splendid material which China had, not only for development but for defense, and emphasized the fact that nations that stood for the right, for fair dealing, had an obligation to be strong and prepared, because it was a duty to be ready to maintain the cause of justice and fair dealing; that they could not do it unless they were themselves strong."

Wood's frank counsel bore significant fruit.

Three distinguished Chinese leaders called upon Wood to present a declaration and a petition. Pa-sieh Wang had formerly been Chinese Minister to England, minister of foreign affairs, and prime minister; Chi-chao Liang was a journalist of wide influence; San Tsen Djing, a retired major general, was regarded as the most learned officer in the Chinese army. The fundamental "disease" of China, at the moment, they declared in a written statement, lay in the fact that the military oligarchy which was in power lacked education and that the educated people of China detested everything military. The effect on the one side was tyranny; on the other, effeminacy and the inability to oppose tyranny within and humiliation without.

The Chinese, ran the statement, loved peace, but the aggressions of Japan would in the end make peace impossible. In case, moreover, the United States were involved in war with Japan, China would take the American side.

The three statesmen recognized the imperative need of a sound system of popular military training. China, they contended, needed an awakening. Conditions were intolerable, with the government less a government than an aggregation of petty desperadoes drawing power to themselves and looting the nation. They begged Wood to return to China and deliver a course of lectures on "preparedness and the strenuous life." If Wood felt any twitching at the corner of his mouth at the proposed theme of his discourses to the slow-moving and age-weary children of Cathay, he surely gave no sign of it. The three Chinese were solemnly in earnest.

Japan proved as friendly and hospitable as China, and, for all its aggressive pose, eager to preserve the peace.

Japan Was Hospitable.

"Viscount Makino, who was at the head of the Japanese delegation at Paris during the peace conference, and has also been ambassador in London," Wood wrote in his diary, "was very emphatic in stating that there was no thought of war in Japan, but that there are a lot of irresponsible people, especially editors, who are writing inflammatory material. I told him that these editorials were frequently briefed and telegraphed to America and produced a very bad effect there and resulted in editorials which were, on our side, alarming to our people and irritating to the Japanese * * *

"I told him that we had only friendly feelings toward Japan, but like her, must have free opportunity for trading on the Pacific and elsewhere—at least an equal chance with other nations. I told him that there was a general feeling in America that Japan wanted to be the middleman, taking our goods and retailing them at advanced prices in China; that she did not want us to deal directly. He said that this was not the case and that there would be no objection on the part of Japan to an open door and direct dealings."

The other leading statesmen repeated that Japan had no desire for exclusive trade privileges.

"They are all deeply concerned about reports of bad feeling in America," ran Wood's account of the conversations. "I told them as much as I thought proper and advisable of the talk with the German emperor of 1902, but did not refer to his prediction that Japan would pick the winner in the next war and kick the loser off the Coast of Asia.

"On this subject I kept discreetly silent; but I did tell them about the German emperor's declaration that there would be no war in Europe during his time * * *"

In other words, a statement of pacific intentions was not all that the situation required.

"So far as I can gather," Wood wrote, "these people are all sincerely anxious to clear up the existing situation."

Arms Limitation Discussed.

Wood had a long talk with Gen. Tanaka, chief of staff and prospective minister of war and prime minister. Tanaka was obviously worried about the situation. The strained relation between the two countries were due, on the part of Japan, he said, to "the growing opinion that America was the nation attempting to checkmate Japan in all her moves and defeat her projects." He himself did not share this opinion, he said, but its prevalence caused him grave anxiety. Wood told him that the American people were entirely friendly and that nothing was further from their thought than war.

"The general was extremely earnest," Wood wrote subsequently. "I referred to the fact that there were possible outside influences which would not be averse to our becoming involved in war. He said he realized that; that he thought his government realized it. I said that there were many questions which were probably coming up; that the Americans were interested in areas like Shantung and other places, wherever the Japanese may be. In replying he dealt specifically with Shantung, in these words:

"'Since the general has mentioned Shantung, I want to say that this is a question in which the Japanese face must be saved; that in case we are to give it up and turn it over to China, we want to do so of our own volition, without any appearance of pressure being exerted from the outside, because it is very important to the government that the face of the Japanese people should be saved.'

"In other words, he seemed to apprehend serious consequences at home in case of any national humiliation."

Talk of Disarmament.

The Japanese general introduced the question of disarmament. Wood thought the term misleading. He did not believe for an instant, he said, that the nations would disarm, but was convinced that they were ready to discuss the limitation of armaments. He referred to Japan's ambitious program. "With this, other countries have to keep up. It is an exhausting process, profitable to no one."

Tanaka was in accord and expressed the hope that some agreement on limitation might be reached.

Wood told Tanaka frankly that now that the Russian navy was destroyed and the great European nations were financially exhausted by war, the American people could see no possible objective in the Japanese naval program except a war with the United States.

Tanaka disavowed any such purpose, but offered no arguments.

"To be perfectly frank, general," Wood went on, "there is a feeling in America that Japan, being a warlike and brave nation, victorious in all her recent wars, with a general staff modeled on German lines and largely German trained, that this general staff may have the same dangerous influence upon Japan's general policy as the German staff did upon that of Germany. In other words, that it may push the country into war."

"Must Remain in Far East."

The Japanese admitted that the general staff at one time had had great influence, but that this influence had waned, and there was now no occasion for alarm.

They spoke of expansion, the pressure of population. Wood asked Tanaka about the scanty population of one of Japan's northern islands. It was so cold, the Japanese explained, that it was impossible to get the people to go there. Would not the same thing be true, Wood asked, about Manchuria and Mongolia?

"I told him frankly," Wood wrote, "that I thought the enemies of Japan would be delighted to see her take hold of areas which she could not handle, and to see her spread out over an area larger than she could absorb and digest; that I thought they were going ahead now faster than they could assimilate. His reply was that the pressure of population was pushing them forward."

There was no reference to the California situation, which had clouded the relations of the two countries since 1906.

"General impression produced," Wood cabled the Secretary of War, "was that they greatly fear diplomatic isolation; that they desire renewal Anglo-Japanese pact as strengthening position and standing among Orientals and others; that they realize that outcome of long struggle with us would be ruin."

Confer With U. S. Diplomats.

In the American Embassy at Tokio, as in the Legation at Pekin, the mission held a conference with the American diplomatic representatives.

"The conclusions were on the same general lines as those reached in the Pekin conference, namely that we must remain in the Far East; that we must have an adequate naval force in the Pacific, and that we must stop our nagging policy with reference to Japan and come to some definite understanding and insist on its being lived up to on both sides.

"There was a feeling that Japan will probably try to urge disarmament in the Pacific. * * * I stated * * * the only premise for disarmament in the Pacific on land, so far as I could see, would be with reference to Guam; that we must, at any hazard, keep Hawaii and Manila and, having done that, could afford to defer action in Guam for a considerable period; but to insist on further extension of bases would be the equivalent of an announced policy that we were going to fight; that we must eventually reach some point wherein our sphere of influence ended; that we could not expect to be blocking Japanese aspirations in all directions indefinitely, unless we were really prepared for war."

To Bishop Brent, Wood wrote:

"Our people must remember that the Japanese government—in fact, the whole Japanese people—are in a transition stage. The civil is gradually gaining ascendency over the military. The latter would be perhaps only too glad to have the issue forced in such a manner as to give it an excuse for a resort to force, which would strengthen their position. The sane, level-headed men of Japan see only ultimate ruin in war, and, as I said in an open talk, there is no occasion whatever for war and no issue which can not be straightened out by frank and friendly conference."

As for the Philippines, Wood cabled the Secretary of War that there was a general feeling among the Chinese, the English and the Dutch that the withdrawal of the United States would strengthen Japan and menace not only the interests but the safety of Europeans and Americans in the Orient.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood, Feb. 18.—This department contributes "The Bashful Autograph Seeker" to the collection of tales that have John Barrymore as their central character. This one is not legendary, as are many of those about him.

EL. BRENDEL

Barrymore began collecting autographs of very famous personages, not including other actors, several months ago when his daughter, Dolores Ethel, was born. He wants to present her with a bookful of noted names when she is older.

When Dr. Albert Einstein came to call where Barrymore makes pictures, John and one other star, Richard Barthelmess, were invited to lunch with him. It was a swell chance for John to get a swell autograph.

But Barrymore refused to meet Einstein, his excuse being that he couldn't speak German and the doctor couldn't speak English.

Luncheon over, Einstein started to leave. Still Barrymore hadn't appeared to ask for the autograph. A friend rushed to him to tell him to hurry.

John appeared embarrassed and said he guessed he wouldn't bother. Then he changed his mind, pulled out the autograph book, shoved it into the hands of a property man and gave him a curt order.

"Props" approached the doctor just as he was getting into his car. But he shook his head and was driven away.

His Gag, Too.

Charlie Chaplin's "City Lights"—how many years in the making?—will bring joy to millions, but it only is a pain under the rear collar button to El Brendel, the Irish-German Swede comedian.

In Brendel's new picture, not yet released, he swallows a tiny mouth organ, after which, whenever he tries to talk, comes the sound of the organ. El had used the gag in vaudeville and it was considered a sure laugh getter.

Then he saw the Chaplin picture wherein the same idea is used, but with a whistle instead of a harmonica.

Stubborn.

A few of the silent screen stars who declined to accept the new lower salary scale that many studios have adopted with the elimination of the foreign market and the influx of stage players, decided to wait until the producers realized their error and came to the players' terms.

The players are still waiting.

Protect Your Health
the way millions do . . .
by using Kotex

Kotex provides healthful comfort through perfect fit, lasting softness and correct absorbency.

WHAT a wonderful thing this modern sanitary protection is! It does more than protect—it actually safeguards health, doctors believe.

Kotex is so much more hygienic than old-time methods. It is so much more comfortable, too. Why, you are scarcely aware of the added protection—it is so well shaped, so soft and light.

Hospitals use it

Many of the greatest hospitals insist on Kotex. And you can have this very same health protection yourself. Kotex is available everywhere—and it costs so little that it simply doesn't pay to take chances.

Kotex is rounded and tapered so it fits perfectly. It deodorizes.

It is soft—a lasting kind of softness that means comfort through hours of wear.

Kotex absorbent—Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding—is laid in many thin, air-cooled layers, which absorb laterally, the full length of the pad, giving greater protection as well as greater comfort.

It may be worn on either side with no danger of possible embarrassment because both sides are fully absorbent.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

SEASONAL COLDS.

E. L. F. writes: Our work has been extremely heavy for the last twelve months, but since Christmas it has been frightfully so. Undoubtedly, malnutrition and worry on account of unemployment have created a fertile soil for whatever bug is traveling around. Some patients run a temperature of 100, feel bad for a day, and then clear up. Others go to 104 and, after 36 hours of misery, drop almost as quickly. Many people are just plain scared. We have found nothing as virulent as 1918 and we are not finding a great deal of pneumonia for this time of the year. There is a lot of illness that seems to be a mild form of influenza and there is some panic.

REPLY:

We are watching the situation closely. At the time of writing, the death rate for Chicago for all causes since the new year began is only 1 higher than for the same period last year. The number of deaths from pneumonia and influenza is slightly higher than last year at this date; 1930 was the healthiest year ever known. The 1931 record is much better than the average.

The weekly report from the Census Office for about 100 cities indicates that 1931, up to date, is not quite as healthy as 1930, but so far it is better than the average year.

This is the season of the year when an increase of sickness, and especially of colds and fever, and of pneumonia is to be expected. It always has been so and will continue so for several years to come. Employers must expect it and adjust business accordingly. Likewise, the people generally must understand that in the present state of affairs January, February and March are unhealthy months. They must expect to have colds, coughs, sore throats, and some of them will not escape pneumonia. I am sure you are right that many people are "just plain scared" and there is an occasional group that can properly be said to be in a panic.

Speaking generally, we are so free now from epidemics that anything having any of the earmarks makes some panicky and many scared. It may help them to know that conditions in 1931 are about normal.

To avoid colds, well people should dress properly and stay in the open air as much as possible. They should participate in or attend winter sports. They should avoid liquor of all kinds, eat in moderation, cultivate regular habits, and control ventilation as much as possible. Taking of cod liver oil and other vitamin D foods is helpful. So is taking calcium medicines and food. Exposure to unlight is of supreme importance. Preventive treatments with artificial light help.

To cure a cold with fever, keep warm and in bed in a well ventilted room. Stop eating for a day. Then eat a light diet, principally fruits and vegetables.

THE HATLESS FAD.

M. P. writes: I have gone without a head covering since early last summer and would like to know if it is safe to continue so. My work keeps me outside all day and therefore I am anxious to know.

REPLY.

It is safe enough. This fad has no particular health relations, either for or against.

ECONOMICS PUPILS WILL SERVE MEALS

Eastern High School Plans Demonstrations for Lower Costs.

RECIPES HELD ORIGINAL

Further methods of reducing the cost of living and living comfortably at the same time will be demonstrated by the home economics class of Eastern High School today.

Sample meals will be served in the presence of educational authorities, one to four adults and the other to two adults and three children. The first meal is one of a weekly menu costing $7.17. The weekly food bill, of which the second meal is a part, amounts to $9.50.

The four adults will have meat loaf, baked stuffed potatoes, spinach, cornmeal rolls, butter, steamed graham pudding, with lemon sauce and tea with lemon.

The model meal for the second family will consist of salmon loaf with cream sauce, mashed potatoes, breaded tomatoes, bread and butter sandwiches, mixed fruit salad and gingerbread. There will be tea for the adults and milk for the children.

The class has also worked out menus for two adults and one young child costing $6 a week and for two adults costing $4.49. An additional cost of 50 cents a week is allowed for condiments and flavoring. Careful buying is necessary to approximate these costs, it is pointed out.

The menus are based on the food guide which was developed by the Bureau of Home Economics at the request of the woman's division of the President's emergency committee for employment. The menus and recipes developed by the Eastern High School classes have been collected by the Bureau of Home Economics and will be distributed to all who want copies. The students of home economics at Eastern have used the menus in their homes with success, it is reported.

Those who will partake of the meals today will include Stephen H. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools; Mrs. Alice Dickson, of the woman's division of the President's emergency committee for employment, and Dr. Hazel K. Stiebling, food economist of the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

Cancer Expert Must Have License.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

BALTIMORE this week has the honor of housing the Theater Guild's latest production, Arthur Schnitzler's sterling drama, "The Lonely Way." It comes to the National Theater next week.

* * * *

While psychological drama holds forth on E street, the Belasco Theater, on Sunday, will leave Shakespeare behind for a dash of revue. "Better Times," now in its try-out period in Philadelphia, is heralded as a brand of entertainment somewhat like "The Little Show," with more talent than scenery. It gets started here Sunday night.

* * * *

Tomorrow night, in the Belasco, Jane Cowl throws aside the modern habiliments of Mrs. Bottle—she wears three gorgeous creations in "Art and Mrs. Bottle"—and steps out in the classic garments usually associated with Viola, in "Twelfth Night."

* * * *

Not every actress has this flair, or ability: to be at home in such varied roles. Nor have many successful stage folk the nerve to cart around an entire Shakespearean company, in conjunction with the small cast needed to put on a modern play. Thus, Miss Cowl proves conclusively that those who know can combine art with commerce. There is no real reason why she has to have two plays when one, ordinarily, would suffice.

* * * *

In "Strictly Dishonorable," at the National, there is a scene where Flobelle Fairbanks, the leading lady, makes a quick change—right before your eyes—from street clothes to pajamas; shedding all her dainties.

From Macon, Ga., where another of Brock Pemberton's companies is regaling the hinterland with this exotic drama, comes this story: Miss Marguerite Clark, engaged to play the leading role in "Strictly Dishonorable," defied the order of her company manager to strip before an audience. The case has been submitted to the Actors Equity Association. "I'll do it if Equity says so," states Miss Clark, "I'll have to, if Equity says so—but I'm afraid I'll blush." Well, she ought to see the neat way Miss Fairbanks essays the task, in the company now on view here.

* * * *

Sir Charles Francis, the English actor, will be seen here next week as Prof. Wegrat in Schnitzler's play, "The Lonely Way." His Lordship last appeared in Washington as leading man with Katherine Cornell in "Dishonored Lady." In the same cast will be seen Joseph Macauley, the sterling singer who set so many tongues awagging when he was here with Ziegfeld's mammoth production, "The Three Musketeers." There will be wonderment, naturally, why an artist from the concert halls has a part in a play. Truth is, Mr. Macauley was an actor long before he became a singer.

* * * *

Last night Broadway got is first glimpse of "Heat Wave," Roland Bertwee's drama that had its start on the stage of the National Theater a week ago. Only news reports of the opening have come through. It was a brilliant affair, with representatives of Hollywood present; since this is the dish that will soon be served the movie fans. Sooner, perhaps, than expected.

* * * *

Robert Siak, in charge of publicity for the Theater Guild, flashes word that all casting is completed for the next big offering, Hans Chumberg's "Miricle at Verdun," with Edward Arnold, a former National Theater Player, having a large and juicy part.

* * * *

"Death Takes a Holiday," which had its theater start at the Belasco a season or so ago, is now venturing back on Broadway—for a return engagement—with Philip Merivale in the same old role.

Ouster Action Is Faced By Missouri Treasurer

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—State Treasurer Larry Brunk, for several months a stormy figure in Missouri officialdom, tonight faced a recommendation by a committee of the Missouri House of Representatives that he be impeached for "criminal malfeasance" and "gross negligence."

Brunk's acts also became the object of scrutiny today by Prosecutor Mike Sevier, of Cole County, in which the capital is located. Sevier said he would institute criminal prosecution against the State treasurer if any criminal acts appeared to have taken place here.

Man, 109, Who Outlived Family, Dies in Denver

Denver, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—John Harrington, who celebrated his 109th birthday last Saturday, died today.

He lived an active and varied career. Born in Ireland in 1822, he served for several years in the British army and saw service in the Crimean War. He was the father of eleven children and was married three times. Outliving his entire family, he has no survivors.

'NICE DECORATIONS' ARE RUBENS' WORKS

Two Small Pictures Bought for $300 Now Valued at $50,000.

DEALER SOLD PAINTINGS

Chicago, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Two small paintings purchased for $300 as "nice decorations" by an Evanston woman, have been identified by Maurice Goldblatt, connisseur, as authentic works of the Flemish master, Rubens, and worth about $50,000.

The paintings, owned by Mrs. Jason P. Whitney, are titled "Presentation in the Temple" and "Adoration of the Shepherds." The works are 8¼ by 14½ inches each, painted on a technique known as Grisaille. On superficial examination, they seem more like drawings than paintings.

The Chicago dealer from whom Mrs. Whitney purchased them said he acquired them merely as "two decorative drawings by an artist unknown." They were so listed in his catalogues.

Mr. Goldblatt said the "Presentation in the Temple," on grayish parchment, undoubtedly is the master's original sketch for the right wing of the triptych in the Antwerp Cathedral, whose center, "Descent From the Cross," is considered by some authorities as Rubens' greatest work.

"My first impression of Mrs. Whitney's sketches," he said, "was that they were done by a miniaturist after Rubens, but on closer examination I found that they were painted, not with the meticulous strokes of the miniaturist but in Grisaille and with the free broad-brush stroke of Rubens, himself."

Alleged Slayer to Be Extradited.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Announcement was made at the executive offices today that Gov. Pinchot would sign an extradition warrant authorizing the removal of "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin from Pittsburgh to Cleveland, where he is wanted for the killing of William E. Potter, former Cleveland councilman, February 3.

INCOME TAX FACTS

No. 17.

The revenue act requires a return of every single person whose net income for 1930 was $1,500 or more, every married couple living together whose net income was $3,500 or more, and every person, single or married, whose gross income was $5,000 or more, regardless of the amount of net income. The tax being on net income, necessarily many returns are filed that are not taxable.

Net income is gross income less certain specified deductions for business expenses, losses, taxes, charitable contributions, bad debts, &c., to be fully explained later. All income, derived from any source whatever, unless exempt from tax by law, is gross income. However, in the case of a person engaged in trade or business, gross receipts do not necessarily constitute gross income. Such a person, in determining gross income, may deduct from the gross sales the cost of the goods sold, but not the expenses of the busines. For example, if the gross sales were $50,000, the cost of goods sold $35,000, and the business expenses, &c., $12,000, the gross income is $1,500 and the net income $3,000. In this case, if the person is married and living with his wife, he is required to file a return, although his personal exemption of $3,500 renders the return nontaxable. Here arises the question, "Why is a return demanded when the personal exemption and credit for dependents exceed the amount of net income and thus reflects a nontaxable return?" The filing of a nontaxable return, however, is not a useless procedure, as far as the Government is concerned. Upon examination, many returns claimed to be nontaxable are found to be taxable, the person filing the return having claimed more in amount than the personal exemption and credit for dependents to which he is entitled.

STOCKS RISE, FALL IN RAPID TURNOVER

Large Offerings During Late Trading Cuts Advances Made Earlier.

U. S. STEEL OFF 2 POINTS

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Stocks advanced and declined rapidly today, but were more active, when the market was in reverse, its direction at the close.

The sleepy response by a majority of the leaders to the proddings of bull operators plainly gave notice that a large amount of profit taking and short selling was going on under cover of the rally and that the buying urge was not strong enough to overcome such selling.

Large offerings early in the afternoon converted previous advances of 2 to 5 points into losses of roughly the same size. There was a rebound from this decline, but liquidation was resumed in the late trading when the day's lowest prices were touched. Net losses ranged from 1 to 10 points. Sales were in the neighborhood of 4,000,000 shares, 800,000 of which changed hands in the last 30 minutes.

The bond market expressed its misgivings concerning the bonus legislation by sagging again, although the volume of selling in U. S. Governments was comparatively light. Commodities were firm, closing with nominal gains.

Stocks did their best in the forenoon when Vanadium, Auburn, Case and Worthington Pump advanced 5 to 7 points. Recruits from the rank and file, however, came reluctantly, although U. S. Steel and American Can did equal their previous 1931 highs and a few utilities improved on recent peak prices. At the first signs of hesitation realizing began in earnest.

U. S. Steel, which had been among the few pivotal stocks to sell 2 points higher, closed 2 lower and there were similar net losses in American Can, General Electric, American Telephone, North American and New York Central. National Biscuit, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, American & Foreign Power, Electric Power & Light, Atchison, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific, General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Texas Corp., Eastman Kodak, Bethlehem Steel and Union Carbide reacted 1 to 1¾ net.

It was felt in brokerage circles that the wild gyrations of the swift-movers made traders nervous and contributed to the late break in prices. Business reports were rather confusing. While further gains in motor production were reported, a large steel maker was said to have slackened operations a little for the first time this year.

As an indication of the uncertain feeling in investment quarters, it was learned that the management of one of the larger investment trusts was reporting to its directors that it felt that at present levels most stocks made ample allowance for the betterment of business now in sight. On the other hand, the managers did not feel that the situation called for selling any of the present holdings.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Corn took a brisk upward swing today after a tumble to almost the season's bottom price record. The rise accompanied evidence that shipping demand for corn had broadened out and was the best in some time. Wheat rallied with corn, but met with selling based on predictions of continued large receipts and on advices that Minneapolis millers were becoming crowded.

Corn closed unsettled, ¾@1¼c advances; wheat, unchanged to ⅝c higher; oats, ⅛ off to ⅝c up, and provisions, unchanged to 10 cents down.

Enlargement of shipping call for corn manifested itself principally in Chicago and at Southwestern distributing centers. Simultaneously the volume of country offerings of corn showed a falling off. The decrease in rural offerings was associated with the fact that earlier today, the future delivery market here was down to about yesterday's lowest level, which was but little above the bottommost point touched during the present season.

Active profit taking by recent speculative sellers of corn contributed momentum to the advance which culminated just before the close. Another influence which tended to lift corn was unsettled weather likely to interfere with the crop movement. Earlier the bears made much of the fact that Chicago had received 160 cars of corn compared with 108 a week ago and that primary arrivals were 903,000 bushels against 841,000 a week back.

An increase of 5,342,000 bushels in world stocks of wheat acted as a drag on wheat prices. So, too, did rains that tended to dispel drought fears, although the moisture was less generous than had been expected, especially in Kansas. Upturns in Liverpool wheat quotations were of little effect, but word later that unfavorable weather for wheat crops in France has returned was given considerable attention. Oats mainly followed wheat.

Provisions declined with hogs.

DULLNESS CARRIES BOND PRICES DOWN

Governments Lead Trend to Lower Levels in Light Trading.

GERMAN LOANS BOUGHT

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The period of dullness in the bond market extended through today's session with prices drifting lower under the leadership of United States Governments. The day's sales were slightly smaller than the previous session and way below the average set in January when bonds moved upward.

There was no change in sentiment toward United States Government obligations and the resumption of the decline appeared to establish the tone for other prime issues. Slightly lower levels were established by domestic corporate obligations in dull trading. The utility group was fairly firm and some of the more active issues progressed fractionally against the general trend.

If there were any marked weakness it was in the semispeculative class of bonds that sold off a point or two when shares, after wide fluctuations, showed a tendency to seek lower ground. St. Paul adjustment 5s were heavily sold and reacted 2½ points. General Theaters 6s, Warner Brothers 6s and Loew's 6s yielded from 1½ to 2 points. Industrials after an early display of firmness also showed the effects of the depressing influence in the security markets and turned heavy.

Trading in foreign loans was confined to about a dozen issues. A few maximums for the year were registered in thinly traded issues. Among these were Oriental Development 6s, Electric Power of Germany 6½s, up 2¼; Greek 6s, Hungarian Municipal 7½s, Japan 6½s. While Australian governments moved lower, Queensland State 6s rallied 4¾ points. German loans were well bought and the 5½s closed higher.

A banking group headed by Dillon Read & Co. is offering $5,000,000 Province of British Columbia, Canada, 4¼ per cent debentures due February 15, 1936. Proceeds of the issue will be used to refund outstanding Treasury bills.

Public offering was made today of $3,500,000 Pennsylvania Water & Power Co. 4½ per cent bonds. The commissioner of finance of Toronto, Canada, will receive bids up to February 24 for $4,836,000 debentures carrying a 4½ per cent coupon. The Pittsburgh school district has sold $3,000,000 4¼s to Roosevelt & Son.

Starkloff, credit manager, Maryland Trust Co., Baltimore, Md.; 3:15, "Advantages and Disadvantages of Real Estate Loans," Thomas Shallcross, jr., president, Philadelphia Co. for Guaranteeing Mortgages, Philadelphia, Pa.; 3:45, "Adequate Primary and Secondary Reserves," Waldo Newcomer, chairman of the executive committee, Baltimore Trust Co., Baltimore, Md.; 4:15, "Protecting the Bank by Insurance," J. E. Baum, superintendent, protective department, American Bankers Association.

Thursday Session.

Thursday, February 26, evening session—8:00, "Our New Responsibilities," Rome C. Stephenson, president, American Bankers Association; 8:30, "Analysis Essential to Profitable Banking," John J. Driscoll, jr., Driscoll, Millett & Co., analyst in banking management, Philadelphia, Pa.; 9:00, "The Selling Price of Bank Credit in Relation to Its Quality," John Poole, president, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co.; 9:30, "Payment of Interest on Deposits," Levi H. Morris, president, Newton Trust Co., Newton, N. J.; 10:00, "Analysis of Individual Accounts and Service Charges," C. W. Hoyt, auditor, New York State National Bank, Albany, N. Y.

Friday, February 27, morning session—9:30, "Answering Administrative Problems," Harold Stonier, educational director, American Institute of Banking; 10, "Credit Bureaus in County and Regional Clearing House Associations," George D. Snyder, manager Reading and Berks County Credit Bureau, Reading, Pa.; 10:30, "Importance of Proper Selection and Development of Personnel," C. E. Talman, vice president American National Bank & Trust Co., Richmond, Va.; 11, "Creating an Understanding Between a Bank and Its Customers With Respect to Banking Functions," William K. Payne, president Cayuga County National Bank, Auburn, N. Y.; 11:30, "The Duties and Responsibilities of Bank Directors," F. C. Awalt, Deputy Comptroller of the Currency; 12, "Summary of the Conference," O. Howard Wolfe, cashier Philadelphia National Bank, Philadelphia, Pa.

John Saul, son of the late B. F. Saul, was elected a director of the American Security & Trust Co., at a regular meeting of the board yesterday, filling the vacancy caused by the recent death of Mr. Saul.

Safe Deposit Section.

Invitations to attend the monthly meeting of the safe deposit section, District of Columbia Bankers Association, at the Hamilton Hotel tomorrow night have been sent to officers and safe deposit department representatives of all member banks. A buffet luncheon will be served and reservations should be made with Joseph D. Yerkes, assistant cashier Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co.

The financial statement of the Sun Life of Canada, always of great interest owing to the large amount of its investments in the United States, has just been released. It was one of the few insurance companies to better its record and production of 1929 during the past year, although insurance companies as a whole show a decrease in new business for 1930 by about 5 per cent. The gain in insurance in force is particularly striking, in the light of existing business conditions and reflecting a remarkably low lapse ratio.

The company writes about 40 per cent of its business in the United States and has large holdings invested in bonds and stocks of the leading corporations of the country.

Curb Review

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The curb market did some backsliding in moderately active trading today, after a further advance during the morning.

It was notable, however, that declines in prominent shares were less severe than the losses on the "big board." The more active issues, such as the utilities, generally followed the downward trend of the major market, but closing prices disclosed few losses of more than a point. The day's transfers aggregated 644,700 shares, compared to 567,000 yesterday.

United Light "A" and Middle West Utilities lost nearly a point each, while Electric Bond & Share and American Superpower yielded about ½. Insull Utility Investment declined 2½. Niagara Hudson and St. Regis resisted the trend and closed slightly higher.

Trends in industrial issues and specialties were mixed. National Steel warrants sold at 13, compared to a previous closing price of 5. Loews rights dropped 4 points, in sympathy with selling of the stock. Technicolor lost ¾, and Ford, Ltd., closed off ⅜.

In the oils, prices were moderately lower. Vacuum and Gulf lost nearly a point each and Cities Service backsold ⅝. Standards of Indiana and Kentucky were off only ¼ at the finish.

The Continental shares preferred issues featured the investment trust group with sharp drops on omission of dividends.

WALL STREET NEWS BRIEFS

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Wall street heard today that the heads of International Telephone & Telegraph Co., Radio Corporation of America, and Columbia Graprophone, Ltd., had renewed discussions relative to their affiliations. It has been rumored for some time that the Radio Corporation planned to acquire the American subsidiary of Columbia and acquisition of the R. C. A.'s communication facilities by I. T. & T. was agreed upon tentatively two years ago, but ran into a legal snag.

The New York Central Railroad, which at the end of 1929 owned all but 1,326 shares outstanding of the Michigan Central common stock, was reported in financial circles today to have resorted to arbitration in an effort to acquire several hundred more shares held by minority stockholders. It is understood that arbitrators are now making an effort to reach a price for the stock that will be acceptable to both interests.

Stockholders of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. today approved an increase in the authorized capital stock from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000.

The Briggs Manufacturing Co., of Detroit, manufacturers of automobile bodies, has recalled 50 employes to work at its Highland Park plant this week, it was learned today. The company has put 3,300 employes back at their jobs since January 1.

Doubling of the authorized common stock of the American Gas & Electric Co. from 4,000,000 to 8,000,000 shares was approved at the annual meeting of stockholders today.

The Manhattan Shirt Co. announced the board of directors has elected to redeem all preferred stock now outstanding on April 1 at 120 per cent of the par value.

Thomas A. Morgan, president of Sperry Gyroscope, Inc., has been made president of North American Aviation, Inc. C. M. Keyes, who has been occupying both the presidency and the chairmanship of the board, will continue to fill the latter office. J. Cheever Cowdin, formerly senior vice president, has been elected vice chairman of the directorate, a newly created position, and Thomas B. Doe, president of Eastern Air Transport, Inc., a subsidiary, becomes first vice president of North American Aviation.

The Commercial Investment Trust Corporation of New York announced the cash dividends on common stock had been increased from $1.60 to $2 annually through declaration of a quarterly cash dividend of 50 cents a share. The dividend is payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 5. In connection with the increased cash dividend the corporation announced it had discontinued its policy of paying part of each quarterly dividend in common stock. Directors also declared the regular quarterly dividend of the preferred stocks and convertible preference stock.

Texas Corporation directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 6.

Dividend action on the cumulative preferred stock of Burns Bros., due at this time, has been deferred until an audit of the company's books can be made, Noah Swayne, president, announced.

Chrysler Corporation directors declared a dividend of 25 cents a share. Three months ago a similar dividend was declared, prior to which the stock was on a $3 annual dividend basis.

WASHINGTON: WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1931. 17

MARYLAND U. QUINTET DEFEATS ST. JOHN'S, 32-27

Tilden Plays Kozeluh Tonight

Tennis World Awaiting Result of Garden Duel.

Hunter and Pare to Clash; Doubles on Program.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Madison Square Garden—home of the right uppercut, the grunt of the wrestler, the swish of the hockey puck—will house the rare sound of a tightly strung tennis racquet coming into furious contact with tennis ball tomorrow night as William T. Tilden 2d and Karel Kozeluh take the court for the first of nine tennis exhibitions for the world's professional indoor tennis title.

Advance sale for seats has put professional tennis in the same category as wrestling and some of the fights the New York Boxing Commission has sponsored of late. The majority of seats were sold a week ago, and, in the words of Jack Curley, the promoter behind the Tilden-Kozeluh arrangement, the proverbial thousands will be turned away. Suffice to say that nearly 21,000 fans will see the matches, which would be the greatest crowd ever to witness a tennis match. The record now stands at approximately 16,500, set at Wimbledon several years ago. Forest Hills Stadium capacity comes to about 13,500.

Tilden Trained In Florida.

Tilden reported back to New York last week, after a training session in Florida with Frank Hunter and Emmett Pare, his associates in the country-wide tour. The former American champion and holder of more tennis titles than any one man has ever garnered, is in better shape than he has been in for nearly a year. The floating knee cartilege, which affected his play strongly late last summer, during which time he was beaten in the national singles by Johnnie Doeg, has been completely cured.

Kozeluh, the taciturn little Czech, arrived in New York last Saturday, after a mildly active winter of tennis in his native land. The steady-stroking professional champion of Europe, and until last September champion of the world, is in better shape than ever and is anxious to get started on the tour with Tilden, a player he has frequently desired to meet, but could not because of the restrictions in tennis of play between amateur and professional exponents of the game.

Miss Collett Craves Chance at British Star

Bellair, Fla., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Miss Glenna Collett, American women's golf champion, is hopeful of an exhibition match with Miss Diana Fishwick, the women's champion of England.

The American girl said today she had invited Miss Fishwick and other members of the visiting English golf team now in Florida to play the Bellair links before leaving the State.

She expressed great eagerness for their acceptance.

"Little Joe" Savoldi Goes to Coast College

Buchanan, Mich., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Clem "Little Joe" Savoldi, younger brother of "Big Joe" Savoldi, former full back of the Notre Dame Team, was reported here today to have left the South Bend University preparatory to matriculating in the University of Southern California.

"Big Joe," it will be remembered, left Notre Dame before the close of the last football season when it became known that he had been secretly married. "Little Joe," however, is leaving school for no marital reason, but simply at the request of his brother, who now is living in Los Angeles between wrestling matches.

"Little Joe" starred on the Buchanan High School football, basket ball and track teams for three years.

JOHNSTON ROBIN COACH.

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Dodgers today announced the signing of James H. Johnston, former Brooklyn infielder, as coach. Johnston joined the Dodgers in 1916 and played ten years before being sold to the Boston Braves.

Bobby Jones in Four-Ball Match Today for Charity

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Paired with Johnny Golden, Bobby Jones makes his first public exhibition appearance since his retirement last year in a four-ball match here against Gene Sarazen and Horton Smith, with charity as the motive. The four-ply champion has been working diligently at golf and his own physical condition for several weeks and now is in as good condition as at the start of his record-breaking tour of last year.

Golden, the Eastern professional, who will assist Bobby in his assault on the twin money players, Smith and Sarazen, is near the top of the money list for the winter parade. He climaxed his season's work last month by capturing first honors in the Agua Caliente open $25,000 event, after downing George Von Elm in a play-off.

Both Smith and Sarazen hold previous decisions over Bobby and Smith! The Missouri youngster, now registering from New York, was the last man to down the present emperor of golf. Sarazen beat Bobby by a stroke in the 1922 national open at Skokie, while Smith also won by a stroke in the Savannah open last February.

The match will be played over the famous old first course at East Lake, where Bobby learned the rudiments of the game, where Golden won first money in the 1927 open, and where both Sarazen and Smith have computed remarkably low scores.

The Atlanta Junior League is sponsoring the match and the proceeds will go to a hospital ward supported by the leaguers.

VIRGINIA AND WASH.-LEE BATTLE

Charlottesville Clash Tonight to Draw Record Crowd.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Feb. 17. Basket ball at the University of Virginia will come to a climax tomorrow night when Washington and Lee comes for the annual court contest in the Memorial Gymnasium.

The Cavaliers lost to the Generals by a 9-point margin in a game played in Lexington almost a month ago. Since that time the Virginians have gotten much better. But Washington and Lee's play has also improved and the Generals are still favored to win tomorrow.

After the contest with W. and L., the Virginia five will have two more home games before leaving for the Southern Conference tournament in Atlanta. Sewanee plays here Saturday night and the University of Richmond next Monday, February 23.

Record Crowd Expected.

The largest crowd that has ever seen a basket ball game here probably will attend the W. and L. game. For several seasons court contests have not been very popular, but interest has picked up since Coach Tebell took charge of the team. Throughout this season, however, boxing has outdrawn basket ball by more than two to one.

Coach Tebell hopes that his men will continue against the Generals in the fine form they showed last Saturday night against Catholic University. Shooting of the Cavalier forwards has been most erratic and the court coach h[illegible] been concentrating on this feature of play.

Lem Mayo is still leading the goal shooters, with 146 points to his credit. While Mayo still has the advantage of his mates in scoring, Jim Delafield and Reg Hudson have been pressing him in recent contests.

In State contests the Cavaliers have defeated V. M. I. twice and V. P. I., Hampden-Sidney, William and Mary and Lynchburg each once. Games have been lost to V. P. I. and W. and L.

Virginia Frosh Prep For 3-Cornered Meet

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 17.—Virginia's freshman track and field squad is fast developing for the triangular meet with Woodberry and Episcopal High School to be held next Saturday in Memorial Gymnasium. In a dual meet with the Washington and Lee freshmen at Lexington ten days ago the young Cavaliers were victorious by a wide margin.

Woodberry Forest will bring a strong squad to the university, headed by Capt. Haggin. Others in the group include Gwinn, Freeman, Myers, W. Tessier, Sanford, Evins, Ehringhaus, Gardner, Perry, Garrard and Webb.

Episcopal High School will send down a formidable squad, which includes many veterans of last year's team.

LEESBURG INDEPENDENTS WIN.

Leesburg, Va., Feb. 17.—The basketball championship of northern Virginia was won by the Leesburg Independents on the local court last night when they defeated the Alpha Delta Omega Team of Alexandria, 35 to 26. The defensive playing of Leesburg was the feature of last night's game. Robey, of Leesburg, was high point man.

G. W. MEETS ST. JOHN'S TONIGHT

Colonials Host in Lone Game Here; Eagles at Annapolis.

ONE game holds the stage in local college basket ball tonight and from all indications should develop into a battle well worth watching. George Washington meets the speedy St. John's of Annapolis quintet in the former's gym, beginning at 8:15 o'clock.

St. John's, which engaged Maryland last night, will present Bob MacCartee, formerly of Tech High School, who ranks with the keenest shots in the court game hereabout.

American U. at Navy This Afternoon.

The Johnnies are expected to give the high-scoring Colonial machine a real argument. In a preliminary the G. W. Freshmen will entertain Eastern, coholder of the local public high school championship.

This afternoon at Annapolis, the ambitious American University dribblers will try to sink the Navy on the latter's own floor. If successful, the Methodist quintet will have assured itself of closing the season with more victories than defeats. American's present record reads seven wins and four losses and it has four games to play, including today's. The dope, however, points to a Navy victory.

Maryland Cub Five Downs Saints, 33-19

Maryland University's Freshmen, by the margin of 33-19, captured their ing the St. John's Freshmen over the ninth win in as many starts yesterday afternoon at College Park by takjumps by dint of superior speed, aggressiveness and court dexterity.

It was pretty much of a breeze all the way for the lanky Old Line Yearlings, the regulars seeing service only during a part of the game.

The score at the half stood 19-6 in favor of the winners.

The Little Johnnies, in whose lineup appeared several former District schoolboy stars, could do nothing to cope with the shooting of Vincent, center, and Snyder, guard, and the team guarding shown by the entire Maryland outfit.

St. John's tried two complete teams in an attempt to check the Terp drive, but to no avail.

American U., Rutgers Play Navy Teams Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 17.—Meeting Rutgers College swimmers here tomorrow, the Annapolis Midshipmen face their toughest assignment of the local tank season. The rivals will also put on a polo match.

The New Brunswick Collegians again have the services of George Kojac, holder of several world's records. He performs in the sprints as well as distance, and it was largely through his brilliant work that the Jerseyites trimmed the Tars last year. The Middies have a sweet sprinter to put against the Rutgers ace in the person of Ray Thompson, Baltimore boy, who broke the local tank record in both the 50 and 100 yard dashes against Columbia last Saturday.

The Middies won the intercollegiate championship at polo last year, and as they are off to a fine start this season, Rutgers is not expected to furnish still opposition.

A third event on tomorrow's card is a basket ball game between Navy and American University of Washington. This will be the last game but one for the home team, which closes its season Saturday against University of Maryland.

W. Maryland's Pact With Oregon Fails

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Negotiations for a two-game series between the Western Maryland College football eleven, undefeated in more than two seasons, and Oregon State College, failed today when efforts to obtain the Municipal Stadium for a game next November 21 were called off. Western Maryland officials said notice would be telegraphed to Oregon tonight.

C.U. Ringmen To Entertain St. John's

Marvelias Likely to Make Debut as Card Tonight.

Little Is Known of Ring Prowess of Johnnies.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY'S sturdy boxers strike for their second home victory of the season tonight when they trade rights and lefts with the leather slingers of St. John's College, of Annapolis, in the Brookland Gymnasium, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. Preceding this clash the crowd will be entertained by the youthful boxers of Stuyvesant School, of Warrenton, Va., who take the ring at 7:30 for a series of five intrateam bouts.

With one possible exception, the Cardinal array tonight will be the same as that which triumphed over Massachusetts Tech early this month and fought to a draw with Bucknell last Saturday. Little is known here of the prowess of the JJohnnies, who are engaging in boxing for the first time this winter.

Marvelias Ready for Baptism.

Basil Marvelias, a newcomer with hardly any experience, may be seen in place of the veteran Harry DiGiacomo as Catholic's lightweight repersentative. According to Coach Eddie LaFond, Marvelias has shown such improvement since joining the squad two months ago that his time to receive baptism under fire is just about at hand.

Lutz, light-heavyweight, and Joh, heavyweight, are reported to be the best of the St. John's Team. Both are all-around athletes and are believed to be able to "take it"—which might do them some good in case Lyons and Pyne, of C. U., are in top form. The latter pair are hard hitters.

Denny Hughes, local sports enthusiast and official, will referee the college program, with Charles L. Ornstein and James McNamara serving as timers. There will be no judges.

Admission will be granted only members of the C. U. Athletic Association who hold tickets for the Cardinals' winter sports schedule. Membership is available to the public at a nominal fee.

Kennedy in Control Of Asheville Club

Asheville, N. C., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Ray Kennedy, former Asheville manager, has assumed full control of the Asheville club of the South Atlantic Association and will be both president and manager.

An announcement said that while Mrs. Hall Corpening, widow of the former owner of the Tourists, continues to own most of the stock, an agreement has been reached whereby Kennedy will be in complete control of the business as well as the playing end of the club.

Kennedy managed the Asheville club in 1928 and won a pennant. Last season he managed the Pensacola club in the Southeastern League.

New Columbus Head Keeps Leibold as Pilot

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Larry MacPhail, new owner of the Columbus American Association baseball team, assumed the presidency of the club today and immediately announced that Harry (Nemo) Leibold would be retained as manager this season.

The team will train again this season at Lakeland, Fla., where the Senators have worked out for several years.

MacPhail and his associates attached no special significance to the fact that Warren Giles, president of the Rochester Club in the International League, and Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, were present at the conference, reiterating their former statement that the Cardinals are not financially interested in the purchase of the Senators from Cincinnati.

Bahamas Net Title To Mrs. H. Carlebach

Nassau, Bahamas, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Mrs. Herbert Carlebach, of New York, won the women's singles play in the Bahamas tennis championship here today, defeating Miss Kathleen Adderley, of the Nassau Lawn Tennis Club, 7—5, 6—4.

Miss Adderley paired with E. A. Boyce in winning the mixed doubles title from Miss Marjorie Bethel and Rex Higgs, 6—1, 6—2. All are members of the Nassau Lawn Tennis Club.

Boyce teamed with C. E. Robertson, Nassau, to win from H. Jackson Starke, New York, and C. C. Warren, New York, 6—3, 6—4, 6—3, in the men's doubles play.

Ban on Max Schmeling Overruled by Ga. Judge

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Judge Peter W. Meldrim, of the Georgia Superior Court, today granted an injunction restraining the mayor and aldermen and boxing commission of Savannah from interfering with an exhibition appearance here of Max Schmeling, heavyweight boxing champion.

The restraining order was granted the Savannah Boxing and Wrestling Co., sponsoring the German's appearance.

The Savannah Boxing Commission refused Schmeling a permit to appear because of an agreement between the local and New York commissions, the latter having barred the fighter.

COUNTY CAGE TITLE RACE IS OVER

Hyattsville Beats Mt. Rainier for Prince Georges Crown.

HYATTSVILLE HIGH'S BASKET BALL TEAM won the Prince Georges County scholastic court championship yesterday at the Hyattsville Armory, when it took an easy 25-8 decision from Mount Rainier Junior High's outfit.

Hyattsville was never in hot water, leading, 10-0, early in the game, and holding a 12-5 lead at the half. It used its regulars only in the first and last periods.

Victory Second One Over Mount Rainiers.

Nearly all hands joined in the scoring, but the marksmanship of Headley and Hollingsworth was noteworthy.

It was the second victory of Hyattsville over the Mounts and it now falls to their lot to participate in the State scholastic championships, to be held next week.

Bethesda-C. C. Beats Damascus in Opener

Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School Basket Ball Team swamped the Damascus High tossers yesterday on the winners' home court in the first of a series of two out of three games to decide the scholastic championship of Montgomery County.

Bethesda, representing the southern county area, experienced no trouble from start to finish. Damascus, northern county titleholders, were unable to score in the entire first half, while Bethesda had garnered 14 points, jointly because of Tyrrell's fine shooting and the stellar guarding of Crom.

The next game will be staged Friday on the Damascus home boards. In the event that the Damascans win the game, thereby deadlocking the series, the third and final game will be played on a yet to be named neutral floor.

Concord Soccer Team Plays at Newport News

Final arrangements for the Washington-Concord-Newport News soccer match Saturday at Newport News will be made Friday night at Carl Hammell's, 922 Pennsylvania avenue. The local club will go to the Virginia city by bus and any fans desiring accomodations can make arrangements at the meeting Friday.

The game will be a part of the celebration in connection with the launching of the new Dollar Line ship, the President Coolidge, which will be christened by Mrs. Coolidge. The Newport News Club has arranged to have an advantageous position for the Washington party at the ceremony.

Western Five Routs Washington-Lee, 42-26

Special to The Washington Post.

Ballston, Va., Feb. 17.—It is not often that such basket ball marksmen as Anthony Latona and Everett Buscher visit Washington-Lee gym, and when they do there is little that can be done about it, a state of mind the Little Generals adopted yesterday afternoon as Western High rolled up a 42-26 victory.

Latona and Buscher found the cords for 16 points each, while Roy Yowell gave them able backing by adding 8 more.

Western led, 23 to 10, at the half, when most of the regulars were taken out of the game.

MIAMI UPSET IN FEATURE RACE

Lightning Bolt, Winner of 3 in Row, Beaten by Finalist.

HIALEAH PARK RACE TRACK, Miami, Fla., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Finalist, a fleet gray colt from the Howe Stable, gave evidence that he will be a factor in the Florida Derby, when he scored impressively over several other derby hopes in the mile and 70-yard feature today.

Back of Finalist in second place followed Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Lightning Bolt, unbeaten in three starts at the Miami course and the favorite to win today's event. Impish, from the Wheatley Stable, was a close third.

Lightning Bolt Victim Of Bad Racing Luck.

In losing Lightning Bolt was the victim of bad racing luck. With Finalist setting the pace from the rise of the barrier, Lightning Bolt was frequently pocketed and on the bend Impish killed whatever chances Mrs. Whitney's colt had of winning. Once free, Lightning Bolt responded with a rush, but was three-quarters of a length short at the judges' stand. Finalist paid $5.50 for $2 and stepped the route in 1:43 2-5.

Bright Spangle, paying $67.60 for a $2 ticket, scored in the opening event, over Black Imp, Jar and six other platers. Norse, favorite, was the victim of a timid ride on the part of Eddie Ambrose.

The field ran well bunched for half a mile when Black Imp moved into command but in the final furlong Stevens brought Bright Spangle fast on the inside to win by a head. Sunny Pal bled and was eased up.

Woodberry Five Beats Danville Cadets, 29-18

Woodberry Forest, Va., Feb. 17.—The Woodberry Forest basketeers snapped out of their losing streak here this afternoon when they downed the Danville Military Institute quintet by a 29-18 score.

The first two periods witnessed a slow and ragged brand of play on the part of both teams, but there was plenty of action in the last half.

For Danville the play of Jones featured, while Weaver and Patterson stood out prominently in Woodberry's victory.

Ronkin Stars In Old Line Victory

Johnnies' Rally Near End Falls Short in Contest.

Maryland, Outscored From Field, Cashes on 12 Fouls.

MARYLAND'S terrible Terrapins tucked away victory No. 13 in Ritchie Gym last night, but only after the basketers of St. John's of Annapolis, had done a little terrorizing of their own.

The Johnnies, resorting to a long-range attack when attempts to pierce Maryland's tight zone defense failed, scored 12 points in the last seven minutes, while the home team was gathering but 4. The final count was 32 to 27.

It might have been a different story had the Johnnies, led by Fred Fader, changed their tactics earlier in the fray. It seemed that they were as brilliant in shooting from afar as they were pitiable from close range.

Then again, it might have been different had the visitors not fouled so many times, for while they outscored the Terps from the field they gave them 20 chances from the charity stripe, and Coach Shipley's snipers made 12 of these good. Maryland, on the other hand, committed only 9 fouls, which St John's converted into but 3 points.

Ronkin Leads M. U., Scoring 14 Points.

Ed Ronkin, the ball-hawk, was Maryland's chief gunner, collecting a total of 14 points. He initiated the scoring by making a cluster of three points soon after the start and opened a Maryland rally with another trio at the beginning of the second half.

This rally sent the Terps into a 28-15 lead, while the Johnnies continued futilely to attempt breaking through for close-up shots. Then the Johnnies finally awoke to the necessity of changing their methods with the result already mentioned.

Fader pocketed three long ones in succession during the St. John's spurt. Snowden, with eight points, was the Johnnies' high scorer.

Landon Easy Victim For St. Alban's, 19-6

St. Alban's crack basket ball team, playing without the services of Big Bob Freeman, experienced no trouble whatever yesterday in defeating Landon, 19 to 6, at Epiphany Gymnasium.

Whiel possessing nothing in the shape of a sterling marksmen, St. Albans, nevertheless, did the next best thing and prevented Landon from scoring in notable fashion. Landon was held to one field goal in the first half, the score standing 9 to 2 at the half.

Chesley and McGee provided the featured St. Alban's shooting, while Baker, of the losers, scored just half of his team's points.

VIRGINIA CADET WRESTLERS MEET DUKE TONIGHT

V. M. I. Team Unbeaten To Date

Football Stars Will Compete on Mat for Duke.

Devil Dogs to Meet Washington-Lee Saturday.

Special to The Washington Post.

DURHAM, N. C., Feb. 17.—Facing the outstanding contenders for the Southern Conference wrestling crown, the Duke grappling team will meet V. M. I. at Lexington, Va., tomorrow night.

The Cadets have one of the best mat teams in the South, having won their meets this season by easy scores. They defeated Davidson by 30-0; Duke defeated the Wildcats last week 24-6.

Emory Adkins and "Moon" Mullen, Duke football stars, are also shining as members of the mat team. Both came through their bouts last week without being defeated to continue their clean records for the season. Adkins has won two of his three bouts by falls.

Meet Generals Saturday.

The meet tomorrow night at Lexington will be the first of two hard tilts for the Duke wrestlers. Saturday afternoon they meet Washington and Lee at the Duke gym here.

The meet with V. M. I. was originally scheduled for January 20, but was canceled by Duke due to examinations. Last week V. M. I. officials asked that the match be arranged for this week and Duke consented.

Duke's line-up against the Cadets, and their weights: Gamble, 115; Williams, 125; Wall, 135; Thomas, 145; Mullen, 165; Adkins, 175, and Hughes, unlimited.

TYPEWRITERMEN WIN.

United Typewriter five toyed with Pontiacs last night at Central High, taking a 26-to-11 victory. The Typewritermen showed some of their best form of the season, greatly aided by Bob Freeman and Bill Duryee, former high school stars.

UNITED STATES is the actual name of a citizen of the United States, a resident of Ridgway, Pa., Mr. United States was born at Cloe, Pa., and up to March, 1929, was employed as a railroad brakeman, when an injury to his ankle in a railroad accident incapacitated him from further service. He is married and has a family of six children.

Ralph Sanders, the 28-year-old Brownsville, Tex., cowboy, made his 2,700-mile jaunt for his health. The trip required 254 days, and Sanders' trained bull wore out seven pairs of iron shoes along the way—and gained 90 pounds!

The Guppy fish, also known as "millions," and the "rainbow fish," is a live-bearing top-minnow of the family Poeciliidae. Mr. C. H. Parsons, fish fancier, of Richmond, Va., who raises the Guppy, gives us the information that the Guppy fish, although but 1½ inches long, gives birth to from 1 to 25 young at a time. The young at birth are about a quarter of an inch long.

Boots and Saddles

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Miami Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE Cold Stream Handicap, fifth race, features probably the most ordinary card of the current meeting at Hialeah Park, which racing season, seems determined to fall into a class with that so consistently maintained at St. Johns.

OPPONENT looks best in this four-horse field but he was beaten in his last start by Jamison. He is expected to wake up today, and redeem that failure, by beating SCATTER, which was absent from the view of the crowd on Monday, finishing fifth in a field of eight, although being third to Gun Royal and Crossbones in the start previous to that. FLAG BEARER should get third money, but there will be no show betting. The other starter is JUSTINIAN, which has done little racing recently.

FIRST RACE—SCARLET BRIGADE appears best on his second Saturday to Perkins. WACKET should be the contender on his third to Port Harlem last week. LITTLE TOOTS, which was second last out to All Columbia, will have STURDY to beat to get third money.

SECOND RACE—ZOBO, by Zev-Superlette, a first-starter, is selected to win, both on her breeding and recent workouts. BONNET is another well-bred miss. She has started, but failed to show much, although well backed. TRYABIT has had some racing education, and may get third.

THIRD RACE—SNOW CLOUD is selected for the third race. He was well beaten in his last start, but in a previous race was good enough to be second in a large field to Grand Duchess, and was leading in the stretch. There are ordinary horses in this field, which seem to center attention on the only horse that has shown a good race recently. LADY MESSENGER probably will be the contender. She has shown some speed.

FOURTH RACE — STUPENDOUS wins a race occasionally, and it seems he will have a good chance here. VALLEY is conceding much weight, but may make it a hard race, having been favorite against Perkins last out. That was a better field than this one. TALIS should improve.

SIXTH RACE—ALL COLUMBIA is selected. There is the prospect of an exciting race in this number. WATCH GIRL, which was second to Brown Gold last out, will be a keen contender. ALL COLUMBIA led home Little Toots, Running Girl and others in a recent set-to, which seems to give her the edge. CARNIVAL has been transferred from Havana, where he won two races, and should figure in this event.

SEVENTH RACE — LIEUTENANT RUSSELL may win the seventh race. He was favorite on Monday in the race won by Tony Joe, but got away poorly, met interference and was not able to overcome these difficulties. The fast track will benefit him. TONEY JOE is to start back in this race, but without good luck seems destined to defeat, for the opposition will be stronger all around than in his last, with PRINCE TOKALON, selected for third, having enough early speed to kill him off. VESTA should not be overlooked entirely.

"What is wrong with the Word 'SPIT'?"

Asks

DR. MARK L. EMERSON

Health Officer, Oakland, California

...one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Emerson's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. Emerson writes: "Any . . . campaign . . . against the use of human sputum . . . protects public health."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it...Smoke Certified Cremo—a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

MARK L. EMERSON, M.D. HEALTH OFFICER

CITY OF OAKLAND
CALIFORNIA
HEALTH DEPARTMENT

September 16, 1930

The American Cigar Company,
111 Fifth Avenue,
New York, New York.

Gentlemen:

What is wrong with the word "spit"? We have been spitting for years and will probably continue to spit for many years to come. It is the uncontrollable or indiscriminate spitting that does the harm, as it contains so many communicable germs.

Any type of campaign or advertising against the use of human sputum is endorsed by this Department because it protects public health.

Very truly yours,

Mark L. Emerson M.D.

Moncure Keeps Baseball On Va. School Sport Card

Substitution of Golf and Track for National Game Considered at Meeting; Sinclair Temporarily Out of Lyceum's Line-Up.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Feb. 17.—Baseball will stay in the Virginia Literary and Athletic League, which controls high school sports in the Old Dominion, as a major sport, it was decided at a meeting of all principals and athletic directors of schools held at Charlottesville yesterday.

Some of the Virginia schools were considering eliminating the national pastime and substituting track and golf, but after considerable argument for and against, the officials decided to carry on the sport.

Moncure Fights for National Game.

Henry T. Moncure, principal of the Alexandria High School, was the leading exponent for continuing the national pastime. He told the leaders of the other institutions that the citizens of northern Virginia would not stand for the elimination of baseball from the curriculum of sports now entered into by teams from his school. Once before, he stated, efforts were made to sidetrack baseball, but the public demanded its return.

After Moncure's talk, much discussion on the subject was brought before the members, and it was pointed out that in most instances baseball was a losing proposition. The athletic leaders, however, decided to carry on with the sport for the 1931 season. The Alexandria High School principal also told the league that he would be willing to enter a golf team into district competition. He was the only principal to make this offer.

The session was presided over by George Zehmer, of the University of Virginia, president of the league. Alexandria High was represented by Maurice Given, athletic director, and Henry T. Moncure, principal. Mr. Vanderslice, principal, and W. A. Richardson, of Washington and Lee High School, of Ballston, also were in attendance.

Injured Foot Puts Sinclair On Shelf.

Due to a foot injury, Wilson Sinclair, star forward for the St. Mary's Lyceum Club, will be unable to perform in the next city game on Wednesday night when the "Saints" mix with the Alpha Delta Omega court men to open the second half of the league. It is expected a Junior City League contest will be featured as a preliminary.

F. Barnard Welsh, general chairman of the Rockville, Md., "He-Man" Night Show on February 21, for the benefit of the Rockville Fire Department, will talk over Radio Station WJSV on Friday night at 6:05 o'clock. He will tell of plans made for this big event.

LEGAL NOTICES

WILLIAM W. BRIDE and THOMAS F. CAMERON, Attorneys.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, holding a District Court. In re condemnation of land for the extension and widening of public alley in square 4264, in the District of Columbia. District Court, No. 20631. Notice and order of publication. Notice is hereby given that the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, pursuant to the provisions of section 1608 to section 1610, inclusive, of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia, have filed a petition in this court praying for the condemnation of the land necessary for the extension and widening of public alley in square 4264 (bounded by Twenty-second, Douglas, Twenty-fourth and Evarts streets), in the District of Columbia, as shown on a map or plat filed with the said petition as part thereof, and praying also that this court empanel a jury in accordance with the law provided for in such cases to assess the damages each owner of land to be taken may sustain by reason of the extension and widening of the public alley in said square, and the condemnation of the land necessary for the purposes thereof, and to assess as benefits resulting therefrom the entire amount of said damages, including the expenses of these proceedings, upon each lot or part of lot or parcel of land, which will be benefited by said condemnation, in the proportion that the said jury may find said lots, parcels of lots of parcels of land will be benefited as provided for, in and by the aforesaid Code of Law. It is ORDERED by the court this 16th day of February, 1931, ordered that all persons having any interest in these proceedings be, and they hereby are, warned to come and defend, appear in this court on or before the 23D DAY OF MARCH, 1931, at 10 o'clock a. m., and continue in attendance until the court shall have made its final order ratifying and confirming the award of damages and the assessment of benefits of the jury to be empaneled and sworn herein, and it is further ordered that a copy of this notice and order be published twice a week for two successive weeks in the Washington Evening Star, the Washington Herald and The Washington Post, newspapers published in the said District, commencing at least ten days before the said 23d day of March, 1931. By the Court: JOSEPH W. COX, Justice. A true copy. Test: (Seal.) FRANK E. CUNNINGHAM, Clerk. By JOHN H. SULLIVAN, Assistant Clerk. 18.19.23.26

BEST MEDICINE SHE KNOWS OF
Says "Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound"

Ft. Meyers, Fla.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine I ever heard of. Before my baby was born I was always weak and rundown. I had nervous spells until I couldn't do my housework. A lady told me about the Vegetable Compound and it strengthened me. Beside my own housework I am now working in a restaurant and I feel better than I have in three years. I hope my letter will be the means of leading some other woman to better health."—Mrs. Bertha Rivers, 2014 Polk St., Ft. Meyers, Florida.

RECIPE FOR BETTER TIMES.

("The country will quickly get back to normal if people will stop grousing."—Gen. Atterbury.)

DO YOU yearn for sunny skies?
Stop grousing!
Would you see the fogbanks rise?
Stop grousing!
Would you have the U. S. soar
To the heights attained before?
Stop grousing!

Would you end the skeptic's reign?
Stop grousing!
Would you welcome cheer again?
Stop grousing!
Would you gladly do your part
To give better times a start?
Stop grousing!

Would you have the country boom?
Stop grousing!
Are you sick to death of gloom?
Stop grousing!
Will you do what you can do
To speed trade revival through?
Stop grousing!

Would you make the jinxes flee?
Stop grousing!
Would you speed prosperity?
Would you have your Uncle Sam
Treat depression as a sham?
Stop grousing!

Do you yearn for better times?
Stop grousing!
Are you sick of nursing dimes?
Stop grousing!
Would you think it rather sweet
To put trade back on its feet?
Stop grousing!

WOULD you have the wheels go 'round?
Stop grousing!
Would you have good jobs abound?
Stop grousing!
Would you see o'er hill and dale
Signs that say "Help Wanted, Male?"
Stop grousing!

Would you hear the forges roar?
Stop grousing!
Would you have the market soar?
Stop grousing!
Would you have the headlines say
"Stocks Go Up in Record Day?"
Stop grousing!

Would you see the breadlines go?
Stop grousing!
Would you help the gold to flow?
Stop grousing!
Would you like Full Speed Ahead
With no merchants "in the red?"
Stop grousing!

Would you give the "blues" a ride?
Stop grousing!
Would you see the sunny side?
Stop grousing!
Would you sing that swell refrain,
"Happy Days Are Here Again?"
Stop grousing!

Forging U. S. Checks Charged Against Youth

Joseph H. Davidson, 19 years old, of Forty-second street northwest near Yuma street, was indicted yesterday by the District grand jury on a charge of forging Government securities.

Davidson, a messenger employed at the Department of Commerce, is alleged to have forged two checks for $113.50 and the other for $42.27. The forgery charge grew out of his arrest by police on a joy-riding charge.

Indictment Charges Drug Store Robbery

Adam J. Urban was indicted yesterday on a charge of stealing whisky and money. The official charge as contained in the indictment is housebreaking and larceny.

Urban is alleged to have broken into the National Press Pharmacy in the National Press Building last January 25.

NOTES FROM DIRECTORS' REPORT
In a year in which all classes of business have encountered many difficulties, the Company has made gratifying progress. New policies paid for show an increase of $51,227,652.32, both the ordinary and group departments making substantial gains.
Total assurances in force show an increase of $462,464,542.58. This gain represents a very high rate of persistency, indicating the high value placed by our policyholders on their contracts with the Company in a period of extreme financial pressure.
The number of policies and group assurance certificates outstanding passed the million mark during the year.
The total net income shows an increase of $13,804,544.54.
The total payments to policyholders and beneficiaries since organization . . . equal the total assurances in force in the Company's fiftieth year (ten years ago).
The mortality among our policyholders has been highly favourable.
The rate of interest earned on the mean invested assets was 6.44 per cent.
Profits paid to policyholders during the year amounted to $25,641,231.04.
In a year of almost unprecedented business depression the outstanding quality of the investments has been strikingly shown. The actual cash dividends received on the total common stocks held by the Company were $969,103.84 in excess of the dividends payable on those identical shares in 1929. . . . Even on the basis of the low prices at the close of the year our common stock holdings show a substantial excess of market value over cost.
Profits to policyholders entitled to participate during the ensuing year will be again allotted on the scale at present in operation.
